Term	Description
AAALAC	Association for Assessment and Accreditation of Laboratory Animal Care International
API	Active Pharmaceutical Ingredient; any substance (or mixture of substances) intended to be used in the manufacture of a drug product and that, when used in the production of a drug, becomes an active ingredient in the drug product. The active ingredient is the biologically active part of a drug and is intended to cause pharmacological activity. When this biological activity takes place, it helps in the diagnosis, cure, mitigation, treatment or prevention of disease or to affect the structure and function of the body. An API can be a chemical molecule or a biomolecule or a combination of both
ADC	Antibody-drug conjugate; a drug molecule created by linking (or conjugating) an Antibody to a chemical drug molecule. The combined entity becomes a “second-generation” version of the original drug. An ADC combines the specific targeting properties of the antibody, and the drug-like properties of both the antibody and the chemical drug, for effective action
Antibodies	Category of biomolecules, which are produced by living organisms to attack and neutralize an undesired agent such as an infection or a “wayward” protein in the body
Biomolecule	Any molecule that is present in living organisms, which includes large macro molecules such as proteins, polysaccharides, lipids, and nucleic acids, and small molecules such as primary metabolites, secondary metabolites, and natural products
BA/BE Studies	Bioavailability and Bioequivalence Studies; studies conducted to determine the equality between the test medicine and the medicine that is already available in the market. This is done by performing dissolution tests in laboratory and clinical studies in healthy volunteers. BA/BE studies are required for medicines to be marketed in different countries
Clinical Studies	Studies done for NMEs in humans where the safety and efficacy of a new drug is evaluated. Typically clinical trials are done in three phases prior to regulatory approval
CRO	Custom Research Organisation
DNA	Deoxy ribonucleic Acid; a molecule which encodes genetic information in most known living organisms and many viruses. The genetic information is coded by pairing specific molecules in certain combinations, which are then interpreted by the body
GLP	Good Laboratory Practices
GMP	Good Manufacturing Practices
IND	Investigational New Drug status which when granted by the USFDA to a molecule allows it to be used for clinical trials. U.S. federal law requires a drug to be the subject of an approved marketing application before it is transported or distributed across state lines in U.S. A clinical trial being conducted in the U.S. requires the NME to be shipped for investigators in many states. IND is the means through which the trial sponsor obtains an exemption from this requirement from the USFDA.
In Vivo	This phrase means “in life”, i.e., in living organisms. Animal studies and clinical trials are two forms of in vivo research. In the discovery and development continuum, animal studies precede testing in humans. Such studies are used to evaluate the safety and toxicological profile of the drug under evaluation
Monoclonal antibodies	Highly specific types of antibodies produced artificially using biotechnology, and used in research, diagnostics and as therapeutics (i.e., as drugs)
NME	Novel Molecular Entities; a drug (chemical or biomolecule) that is without precedent among regulated and approved drug products. NME designation indicates that a drug in development is not a version or derivative of an existing and previously investigated, trialed and approved substance. If the NME is a chemical molecule, it may be called a New Chemical Entity (NCE) and if it is a biomolecule, it may be called a New Biological Entity (NBE)
Oligonucleotides	Single stranded DNA/RNA or short polymer of nucleotides usually less than 50 nucleotides, used in research, genetic testing and forensics. These represent a new therapeutic domain being researched for a variety of diseases
Pharmacovigilance	The practice of monitoring the effects of medical drugs after they have been licensed for use, especially in order to identify and evaluate previously unreported adverse reactions
Pre-clinical studies	Studies conducted before clinical trials (testing in humans) and aimed at generating drug safety. The studies evaluate the pharmacodynamics and pharmacokinetics of drugs in addition to toxicity testing in animals. The studies include: pharmacodynamics studies which try to understand what the drug does to the body,

	pharmacokinetics studies which try to understand what the body does to the drug, and toxicity studies which intend to collect safety related data on drugs by testing them in various animal species. Typically, in drug development studies animal testing involves two species. The most commonly used models are murine and canine, along with primate and porcine
R&D	Research and Development
Recombinant proteins	Proteins produced in a laboratory or industrial setting by use of “recombinant DNA” technology, wherein organisms such as bacteria or cells are genetically modified to produce a specific protein that they do not normally produce; unlike proteins are naturally occurring biomolecules (large sized molecules produced by living organisms). Recombinant proteins are commonly used as drugs, often to supplement a deficiency in a patient (e.g. insulin for an insulin-deficient person)
Scientist	Our Company’s employees in technical roles whose highest educational degree is in the sciences (Physics, Chemistry, Biology and related areas)

SECTION II: RISK FACTORS

An investment in Equity Shares involves a high degree of risk. You should carefully consider all the information in this Red Herring Prospectus, including the risks and uncertainties described below, before making an investment in our Equity Shares. If any of the following risks, or other risks that are not currently known or are now deemed immaterial, actually occur, our cash flows, business, financial condition and results of operations could suffer, the price of our Equity Shares could decline, and you may lose all or part of your investment. The financial and other related implications of risks concerned, wherever quantifiable, have been disclosed in the risk factors mentioned below. However, there are risk factors where the impact is not quantifiable and hence the same has not been disclosed in such risk factors. Investment in equity and equity related securities involve a degree of risk and investors should not invest any funds in this offer unless they can afford to take the risk of losing their investment. Investors are advised to read the risk factors carefully before taking an investment decision in this offering. Before making an investment decision, investors must rely on their own examination of the offer and us.

This Red Herring Prospectus also contains forward-looking statements that involve risks and uncertainties. Our actual results could differ materially from those anticipated in these forward-looking statements as a result of certain factors, including the considerations described below and elsewhere in this Red Herring Prospectus. See “Forward-Looking Statements” on page 14.

Internal Risks

- Our contracts are generally terminable on little or no notice. Any delay in the renewal or the termination of a large contract for services or multiple contracts for services could adversely affect our revenue and profitability.

Our contracts are generally terminable without cause upon 30 to 90 days’ notice by the client. Clients may terminate, cancel or delay contracts for various reasons, including the client’s decision to downsize its product development portfolios, the client’s decision to change their outsourcing strategy and the client’s dissatisfaction with our performance, including the quality or accuracy of the data or reports provided and our ability to meet agreed upon schedules. In addition, certain of our contracts also allow for termination in the event of any change in the beneficial ownership of our Promoter, Biocon, or our Company that results in a change of control.

We have experienced termination or cancellation by certain clients in the ordinary course of business. The reasons more frequently given for termination by our clients include a consolidation or merger of the client, the client’s decision to forgo a particular study, the failure of drugs to satisfy efficacy and/or safety requirements, and unexpected or undesired results of drug testing, the performance of our Company or the decision of the client to move their business to a different CRO.

The loss or delay of a programme or large contract or the loss or delay of multiple smaller contracts could adversely affect our business because such terminations could lower our level of resource utilisation, which would reduce our profitability. In the event of termination, our contracts often provide for fees for winding down the project, which include both fees incurred and actual and non-cancellable expenditures and may include a fee to cover a percentage of the remaining professional fees on the project. However, such fees may be insufficient to cover the losses caused to us as a result of such termination. Furthermore, under certain of our contracts, upon termination, our clients may be entitled to take over dedicated research facilities and equipment and seek transfer of scientific personnel involved in the programme. Further, termination by clients as a result of our poor performance may affect our ability to obtain future contracts from the client involved.

- During the 12 months preceding the date of the Red Herring Prospectus, we have issued Equity Shares to various persons at a price which may be lower than the Offer Price.

In the 12 months preceding the date of the Red Herring Prospectus, our Company has issued Equity Shares at a price that may be lower than the Offer Price, as set forth below. For further details regarding such allotments, see “Capital Structure” on page 71.

3. We have in the past entered into related party transactions and may continue to do so in the future and there can be no assurance that we could not have achieved more favourable terms if such transactions had not been entered into with related parties.

In the ordinary course of our business, we have entered into transactions with related parties that include our Promoter and certain Group Entities. These transactions primarily relate to leasing of land for our Registered Office and other facilities and for the provision of ancillary services.

While we believe that all related party transactions that we have entered into are legitimate business transactions conducted on an arms' length basis, there can be no assurance that we could not have achieved more favourable terms if such transactions had not been entered into with related parties. Furthermore, it is likely that we will continue to enter into related party transactions in the future. There can be no assurance to you that these or any future related party transactions that we may enter into, individually or in the aggregate, will not have an adverse effect on our business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects. Further, the transactions we have entered into and any future transactions with our related parties have involved or could potentially involve conflicts of interest which may be detrimental to our Company. For further details regarding our related party transactions, see the section "Related Party Transactions" as disclosed on page 173.

4. *There is outstanding litigation against our Company, our Directors, our Promoter and our Group Entities. The amounts claimed in these proceedings have been disclosed to the extent ascertainable and include amounts claimed jointly and severally. If any new developments arise, such as a change in Indian law or rulings against us by appellate courts or tribunals, we may need to make provisions in our financial statements that could increase our expenses and current liabilities. 5. We are dependent on the continued outsourcing of R&D by pharmaceutical, biotechnology, agro-chemistry, consumer health, animal health and cosmetic industry companies.

We are dependent upon the ability and willingness of our clients to continue to spend on R&D at rates close to or at historical levels and to outsource the services that we provide. We are therefore subject to risks, uncertainties and trends that affect companies in these industries over which we have no control. For example, we have benefited to date from the increasing tendency of our clients to outsource both small and large research programmes. Fluctuations in the R&D budgets of these industry participants could have a significant effect on the demand for our services. R&D budgets fluctuate due to changes in available resources, consolidation of companies, spending priorities and institutional budgetary policies. Our business could be adversely affected by any significant decrease in outsourced R&D expenditures by our existing or potential clients. The following could each result in decreased outsourced R&D spending:

- if our clients expanded captive R&D capabilities, they would be less likely to utilise our services;
- if governmental regulations were changed, it could affect the ability of our clients to operate profitably, which may lead to a decrease in research spending and therefore this could have a material adverse effect on our business; and
- if unfavourable economic conditions or disruptions in the credit and capital markets negatively impacted our clients.

Demand for our services may be affected by perceptions of our clients regarding the CRO industry as a whole. For example, other CROs could engage in conduct that could render our clients less willing to do business with us or any CRO. One or more CROs could engage in or fail to detect malfeasance, such as inadequately monitoring sites, producing inaccurate databases or analysis, falsifying patient records, and performing incomplete laboratory work, or take other actions that would reduce the confidence of our clients in the CRO industry.

While India currently is an attractive off shoring and outsourcing hub for many multinational companies, there are other low cost Asian countries that look attractive and any appreciation of the Indian Rupee could make India a less economically attractive destination for outsourcing. In addition, there may be changes in government policy in the United States, the European Union and other countries where our clients are located, which may restrict outsourcing to other nations. A substantial decrease in outsourcing activity in the CRO industry could result in a diminished growth rate in business.

In March 2012, India granted its first compulsory license in respect of a patented drug. A compulsory license provides that the owner of a patent or copyright licenses the use of their intellectual property rights against payment either set by law or determined through some form of arbitration. Many multinational pharmaceutical companies have reacted negatively to India’s compulsory licensing and may not wish to collaborate with companies in the R&D industry in India because of heightened concerns over compulsory licensing. Reduction in demand for CRO services from India-based companies will adversely impact our business prospects, financial condition and results of operations.

6. We depend on a limited number of clients, and a loss of or significant decrease in business from them could affect our business and have a material adverse impact on our profitability.

We have in the past and may in the future derive a significant portion of our service revenue from a relatively limited number of clients that vary from year to year. For fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015, 37.8%, 33.6% and 30.1%, respectively, of our revenue from the sale of services was derived from our largest client, Bristol-Myers Squibb Co. During fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015, 71.2%, 69.4% and 70.9%, respectively, of our revenue from the sale of services came from our top 10 clients, which includes Bristol-Myers Squibb Co. Our relationships with these clients involve a substantial number of individual arrangements detailing the particulars of a given research project and often implicate different entities, departments, or companies under common control. Nevertheless, the loss of, or a significant decrease in business from, one or more of these clients could adversely impact our business.

The volume of work performed for these clients is likely to vary from year to year, especially since we may not be the exclusive external service provider for these clients. Our clients may also decide to reduce spending on services due to a changing economic environment and other factors relating to their business. Further, the consolidation of any of our clients may also adversely affect our existing relationships and arrangements with such clients, and any of our clients that are acquired may cease to use our services. The loss of these clients, a decrease in the volume of work they outsource to us or a decrease in the price at which we offer our services to them may adversely impact our business, revenues and profitability.

7. We expect that our employee benefits expenses will continue to increase and we may not be able to pass such increase on to our clients, which may adversely impact our profitability.

Employee benefits expense constitutes a substantial component of our costs and is therefore an important factor in determining our profitability. Although the relatively lower cost of skilled labour has been an important factor in the success of Indian outsourcing businesses, including our own, our per employee benefits expenses have steadily risen in line with general trends in the Indian market. In addition, our employee headcount has grown with the expansion of our business. Employee benefits expenses for fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015, were ₹1,235 million, ₹1,556 million and ₹2,019 million, respectively, and our employee headcount figures for those periods were 1,867, 2,108 and 2,685, respectively. As a percentage of revenue from operations for fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015, employee benefits expenses were 22.4%, 22.2% and 23.5%, respectively.

We expect that our employee costs will continue to increase over the coming years due to continued escalation in salaries and benefits as well as headcount growth. While we will seek to partially offset the rise in compensation through an increase in pricing, an inability to effect such price increases will adversely affect our profitability.

8. The interests of our Promoter, Biocon, may conflict with our interests or with the best interests of our other shareholders.

After the completion of the Offer, our Promoter, Biocon will own, approximately 72.6% of our post-Offer paid-up equity share capital. As a result, Biocon will continue to exercise significant control over us, including being able to determine the outcome of director elections and decisions requiring a majority of the total voting power of our shareholders. The interests of our controlling shareholders may conflict in material aspects with our interests or with the best interests of our other shareholders and our controlling shareholders may not take decisions in our best interests. In addition, our non-Independent Directors, Kiran Mazumdar Shaw and John Shaw, are also directors of Biocon. Our Independent Directors, Bala S. Manian, John Russell Fotheringham Walls and Daniel Mark Bradbury, are also directors of Biocon. For more details, see the section “Our Management” on page 148.

Among other situations, conflicts may arise in connection with our negotiations and dealings with Biocon, with respect to the contractual arrangements that we may enter into with them.

Biocon’s relationship with us also means that it can influence the allocation of business opportunities presented to Biocon, especially in areas where Biocon and its other affiliates may offer similar services as us, among us, itself and its other subsidiaries. Biocon may in certain circumstances determine to have itself or other affiliates, instead of us, pursue business opportunities or cause such companies or us to undertake corporate strategies, the effect of which would be to benefit such companies instead of us and which could be detrimental to our interests. As a result, Biocon may have conflict of interest which may materially and adversely affect our business, results of operations and financial condition.

In addition, Biocon, as a drug manufacturer, also competes with many of our current and potential clients and these companies may perceive Biocon’s control of us with negativity. The unwillingness of such companies to work with us may in turn adversely affect our business, prospects and results of operations.

9. If we fail to protect the intellectual property rights of our clients, we may be subject to liability for breach of contract and may suffer damage to our reputation.

Protection of intellectual property associated with our R&D and manufacturing activities is critical to our business. Our clients generally retain ownership of all associated intellectual property, including those that they provide to us and those arising from the services we provide to them. In addition, all rights, title and interest in any intellectual property, including inventions and discoveries, created during the course of performing our services vest with our clients. Our success therefore depends in substantial part on our ability to protect the proprietary rights of our clients. Despite the measures that we take to protect the intellectual property of our clients or our own, unauthorised parties may attempt to obtain and use information that we regard as proprietary. Any unauthorised disclosure of our clients' proprietary information could subject us to liability for breach of contract, as well as significant damage to our reputation, which could materially adversely impact our business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects. In addition, any breach in the protection of intellectual property would constitute a breach of our client contracts, which could entail negative publicity and result in termination of client contract. We may also be unable to obtain new client contracts and be subject to legal proceedings, which may continue for a long period and result in significant costs to our Company.

10. We derive almost all of our revenue in U.S. dollars and incur certain costs in U.S. dollars, and hence we are exposed to the risks associated with fluctuations in foreign exchange rates which could negatively impact our profitability and financial condition.

We face foreign exchange rate risk to the extent that our income, expenses, assets or liabilities are denominated in a currency other than the Indian Rupee. Almost all of our revenue from operations, a large portion of our equipment purchases, a portion of our material costs and much of our debt and bank balances are denominated in U.S. dollars. In addition, some of our export revenue is also denominated in other foreign currencies, principally the Euro. For fiscal 2015, 93.7% of our total revenue and 20.5% of our total expenses were denominated in foreign currencies. As of March 31, 2015 we had ₹186 million in long-term borrowings (US$2.98 million) and our short-term borrowings were ₹1,364 million (US$21.8 million). All of these long-term and short-term borrowings were denominated in U.S. dollars. As of March 31, 2015, our U.S. dollar denominated bank balances in current accounts were ₹1,143 million (US$18.3 million).

Because of our foreign currency exposures, exchange rate fluctuations between the Indian Rupee and foreign currencies, especially the U.S. dollar, can have a material impact on our results of operations, cash flows and financial condition. The exchange rate between the Indian Rupee and U.S. dollar has been volatile in recent periods. Based on RBI data, the average Indian Rupee/U.S. dollar exchange rate for 2013, 2014 and 2015 was ₹54.45/dollar, ₹60.50/dollar and ₹61.15/dollar, respectively.

We hedge certain of our foreign currency exposures. However, these hedges do not cover all such exposures and are in any event subject to their own risks, including counterparty credit risk. Adverse moves in exchange rates that we have not adequately hedged may adversely impact our profitability and financial condition. For details see the section "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition" on page 192.

11. Our quarterly operating results may vary and hence quarterly comparison of our financial results may not be meaningful.

Our quarterly operating results have been and will continue to be subject to variation, depending on factors such as the commencement, completion, or cancellation of significant contracts, the mix of contracted services, foreign exchange rate fluctuations and the timing of start-up expenses for new services. We have experienced, and expect to continue experiencing, some variations in our revenue due to our clients' budgetary cycles. In addition, a substantial number of our client contracts are renewed at the beginning of the calendar year which may result in volatility in our fourth quarter results. As a result, we believe that quarterly comparisons of our financial results should not be relied upon as an indication of our future performance.

12. If we underprice our contracts, overrun our cost estimates or fail to receive approval for or experience delays in documentation of change orders, our business, financial condition, results of operations or cash flows may be materially adversely affected.

Most of our contracts are either priced on a full-time equivalent basis or on a fee-for-service basis wherein revenues are agreed to in the contract between us and the client. We price our contracts based on assumptions regarding the scope of work required, the complexity of the research required and cost to complete the work.

We regularly review the estimated hours on each contract to determine if the budget accurately reflects the agreed tasks to be performed, taking into account the state of progress at the time of review. In addition, contracts with our clients are subject to change orders, which occur when the scope of work we perform needs to be modified from that originally contemplated in our contract with the clients. This can occur, for example, when there is a change in a key study assumption or parameter or a significant change in timing. We may be unable to successfully negotiate changes in scope or change orders on a timely basis or at all, which could require us to incur cost outlays ahead of the receipt of any additional revenue. While we endeavour to ensure that changes in scope are appropriately monitored and change orders for additional revenue are promptly negotiated for additional work as necessary, we bear the financial risk if we are unable to negotiate a price increase, which could adversely affect our cash flows and financial performance.

13. Negative attention from special interest groups may impair our ability to operate our business efficiently.

Some of the services we provide utilise animals in testing of the safety and efficacy of drugs and for biomedical research. Certain special interests groups categorically object to the use of animals for valid research purposes. Historically, our core research model activities with small animals such as mice, rats and guinea pigs have not been the subject of negative attention or publicity. However, any negative attention or threats directed against our animal research activities in the future could impair our ability to operate our business efficiently. Acts of vandalism and other acts by animal rights extremists who object to the use of animals in discovery and development could have a material adverse effect on our business operations.

14. Our statutory auditors have included certain qualifications in their audit reports.

The statutory auditor's report on our financial statements as at and for the year ended March 31, 2013 included, as an annexure, a statement on certain matters specified in the Companies (Auditors Report) Order, 2003, (the "Order"), which was qualified to indicate that there was a slight delay in the remittance of service tax dues. In addition, the auditor's report by our statutory auditors dated April 26, 2012, April 27, 2011 on the audited unconsolidated financial statements as at and for the year ended March 31, 2012, 2011, respectively included, as an annexure, a statement on certain matters specified in the Order, which were qualified to indicate that our Company had used funds (loans) raised on a short-term basis for long-term investment. These loans, repayable within six months, were used for the purchase of fixed assets. Investors should consider these qualifications in evaluating our financial position, cash flows and results of operations.

15. Our Promoter and its managing director have been named respondents in a criminal proceeding.

Our Promoter and its managing director have been named respondents in a criminal complaint for manufacturing certain drugs without a manufacturing license, in contravention of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940. The Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Ranchi has taken cognisance of the offence through an order. While our Promoter and its managing director have filed an application before the Jharkhand High Court seeking the quashing of the criminal complaint and the order of the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Ranchi, the matter is currently pending. For further details, please see the section "Outstanding Litigation and Material Development" on page 222. Any conviction, penalties or other action against our Promoter and / or its managing director for the offences alleged by the complainant may potentially cause negative publicity thereby affecting our reputation, business, financial condition and results of operations.

16. We may fail to effectively develop and market new services, which may adversely impact our growth opportunities, prospects and profitability.

Our market is characterised by rapid changes, evolving industry standards, changing client preferences and new service introductions and our business model is accordingly evolving based on client needs. We intend to continue to expand our existing research services and establish our commercial scale manufacturing capabilities as we provide forward integration on the discovery and development continuum. We may also seek to develop and market new services that complement or expand our existing business. Whether we are successful in developing or marketing our new services will depend on several factors, including our ability to optimise our discovery, development and manufacturing processes; to predict and control costs; accurately anticipate, assess and meet client needs and market demands; hire, train and retain qualified personnel and provide services in a timely manner.

If we are unable to develop new services and create demand for those newly developed services, or expand our service offerings, our future business and profitability may be adversely affected.

- 17. *For our clients' future drugs to be marketed in the United States, we may need to obtain clearance from the Food and Drug Administration and the European Medicines Agency and our operations will need to comply with applicable standards. Any adverse action by the Food and Drug Administration or the European Medicines Agency against us would negatively impact on our ability to offer our services to our clients and adversely impact our business and prospects.

Laws and regulations regarding the development and approval of drugs and biological products have become increasingly stringent in India, the United States and other foreign jurisdictions. While we monitor our research process to test for compliance with applicable laws and regulations in India, the United States and other foreign jurisdictions in which we operate, our business spans multiple regulatory jurisdictions, with varying, complex regulatory frameworks. In addition, although we have adopted standard operating procedures that are designed to satisfy regulatory requirements, no system of procedures can provide complete assurance of achieving our regulatory compliance objectives in all respects because compliance involves human diligence and procedures and is subject to human errors and lapses in judgement.

In the event that our clients' clinical trials reach the stage of filing a New Drug Application ("NDA"), our operations will need to obtain clearance by the Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") or the European Medicines Agency ("EMA") to grant permission to market the drug in the United States and Europe, respectively. All facilities and manufacturing techniques used to manufacture drugs marketed in the United States and Europe must conform to standards that are established by the FDA and EMA, respectively. The FDA and EMA may conduct scheduled periodic inspections of our facilities to monitor our compliance with regulatory standards. Our bio-availability/bio-equivalence ("BA/BE") studies and clinical trials are also required to be in compliance with FDA and EMA standards, when the data generated at BA/BE facilities and in our clinical trials is used for regulatory submissions in the U.S. and Europe, respectively. While our quality practices and quality management systems are designed and conducted in a manner intended to satisfy these types of audits, we cannot assure you that our efforts will be able to prevent adverse outcomes in future, such as audit observations, corrective action requests, warning letters or import bans.

The FDA has conducted inspections and audits of our active pharmaceutical ingredients ("API") manufacturing and control testing laboratory in Bengaluru and may do so in the future. In the recently concluded inspections, we were found to be in compliance with regulatory standards. However, if the FDA or EMA finds that we have failed to comply with the appropriate regulatory standards, they may impose fines or take other actions against us or our clients, or we may no longer be able to offer our services to our U.S. and/or European clients. The resulting corrective measures may be lengthy and costly. As a result, we may be unable to fulfil our contractual obligations. Any adverse action by the FDA or EMA would have a material and adverse impact on our reputation and our business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects. We may or may not obtain clearance from the FDA or EMA in the event that we are inspected.

In addition, if we are unable to obtain clearance from the FDA or EMA during regulatory inspections of our BA/BE and clinical trials facility; our ability to offer services to clients looking to generate data for regulatory submissions in the United States and Europe may be limited.

In addition, there appears to be an increasing trend by the FDA and other governmental regulators in other developed countries towards conducting site audits which are unannounced and conducted with unprecedented rigour and expectations. FDA inspections of certain manufacturing facilities in India have identified significant deviations from current good manufacturing practice for the manufacture of APIs and also found data integrity violations. The FDA has also placed an import ban on products from certain drug manufacturing facilities in India. Any related negative attention to CROs and drug manufacturers in India may thus impact the willingness of clients to work with us. This may have an adverse impact on our business and prospects.

- 18. *If we fail to perform our services in accordance with contractual requirements, regulatory standards and ethical considerations, we could be subject to significant costs or liability and our reputation could be harmed.

We contract with companies to perform a wide range of services including discovery, development and manufacturing. These services are complex and subject to contractual requirements, regulatory standards and ethical considerations.

The performance of research services is complex and time-consuming. For example, we may make mistakes in conducting research that could negatively impact or obviate the usefulness of the drug or cause the results of the research to be reported improperly. If research results are compromised, we could be subject to significant costs or liability, which could have an adverse impact on our ability to perform our services and our reputation could be harmed. Non-compliance generally could result in the termination of ongoing research or the disqualification of data for submission to regulatory authorities and could require us to repeat the research under the terms of our contract at no further cost to our client, but at a substantial cost to us. Improper performance of our services could have a material adverse effect on our financial condition, damage our reputation and result in the termination of current contracts by or failure to obtain future contracts from the affected clients or other clients.

From time to time, one or more of our clients are audited or investigated by regulatory authorities or enforcement agencies with respect to regulatory compliance of their R&D programmes, or the marketing and sale of their drugs. In these situations, we have often provided services to our clients with respect to the research programmes or activities being audited or investigated, and we are called upon to respond to requests for information by the authorities and agencies. There is a risk that either our clients or regulatory authorities could claim that we performed our services improperly. If our clients or regulatory authorities make such claims against us and prove them, we could be subject to damages, fines or penalties. In addition, regulatory agencies may take action against us or our clients. Such actions may include sanctions such as injunctions or failure of such regulatory authorities to grant marketing approval of products, imposition of clinical holds or delays, suspension or withdrawal of approvals, rejection of data collected in our studies, license revocation, product seizures or recalls, operational restrictions, civil or criminal penalties or prosecutions, damages or fines. Additionally, there is a risk that actions by regulatory authorities, if they result in significant inspectional observations or other measures, could adversely impact our reputation and cause clients not to award us future contracts or to cancel existing contracts.

Further, if a client becomes unwilling or unable to fund the completion of a research programme, we may be ethically bound to complete or wind down the research programme at our own expense.

In addition to Indian law and regulations, we must comply with the laws of all countries where our clients do business. Failure to comply with applicable requirements could subject us to regulatory risk, liability and potential costs associated with redoing the research programme, which could damage our reputation and adversely affect our operating results.

19. Any failure by us to satisfy our clients' inspections and audits could negatively impact our reputation and our business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

Pursuant to our client contracts, our clients generally have the right to inspect and audit our facilities, processes and practices after reasonable notice and at a reasonable time to ensure that our services are meeting their internal standards and the regulatory standards they must meet in the drug development and manufacturing process. Most of our clients routinely inspect and audit our facilities. If we fail to perform our services in accordance with best practices and/or our clients are unhappy with the quality of our facilities in any manner, our reputation could be harmed and our clients may terminate their contracts and/or refuse to renew contracts. We may also be subject to significant costs to improve our facilities. This may have an adverse impact on our business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

20. Our client contracts are governed by the laws of various countries and disputes arising from such contracts may be subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of courts situated in such countries.

Most of the contracts executed with our clients are governed by the laws of the country in which the client is incorporated. Further, any disputes related to such contracts may be subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of courts situated in such countries. Any lawsuits with respect to such disputes must be instituted in a court having jurisdiction over the contract, which may cause difficulty for our Company to manage such suits and to obtain enforcement of awards and may also lead to greater costs for managing such litigation.

21. We are subject to counterparty credit risk and any delay in receiving payments or non-receipt of payments may adversely impact our results of operations.

We are subject to credit risk through our trade receivables and other receivables due from our clients. By their nature, trade receivables involve risks, including the credit risk of non-performance by counterparties. Further, the failure of any of our clients to make timely payments could require us to write off trade receivable or increase provisions made against our trade receivable. As of March 31, 2015, our Company's debtors' turnover ratio, which we define as revenue from operations for the year divided by the average debtors, which we define as average of opening and closing trade receivables for the year, was 6.27. Thus, any changes in the financial position of our clients that adversely affects their ability to pay us may in turn materially and adversely affect our cash flows, business prospects, financial condition and results of operations. We also face other counterparty credit risks, including with our hedging counterparties.

22. Our business, prospects and results may be diminished if we lose the services of our senior management.

Our success depends largely on the efforts, expertise and abilities of our senior management and key scientific and technical personnel. Our senior management are important to our business because of their experience and knowledge of the industry. If one or more of our key personnel are unwilling or unable to continue in their present positions, we may not be able to replace them with persons of comparable skill and expertise promptly, or at all, which could have a material adverse effect on our business, prospects and financial results. If any of our key employees were to join a competitor or to form a competing company, some of our clients might choose to use the services of that competitor or new company instead of our own thereby also adversely affecting our business, prospects and financial results.

23. Our business and growth may be disrupted if we lose the services of our key scientific personnel.

Owing to the scientific and specialised nature of our work, we are dependent upon our scientific and technical personnel. There is intense competition for qualified scientific and technical personnel in India. To effectively compete, we may be required to offer higher compensation and other benefits which could materially and adversely affect our financial condition and results of operations. In the future, we may not be able to attract and retain the qualified personnel necessary for the conduct and further development of our business which could affect our ability to execute our business strategy. The loss of the services of existing personnel, including through an increase in our attrition rate, as well as the failure to recruit additional key scientific, technical, and managerial personnel in a timely manner, could adversely impact our ability to expand our business and to remain competitive in the CRO industry. Additionally, we may be unable to redeploy and retrain our professionals to keep pace with continuing changes in technology, evolving standards and changing client preferences. Loss of key scientific personnel may have an adverse impact on our business and growth.

24. Our business and prospects could be adversely impacted if we are unable to manage our growth effectively.

For the three fiscal years ended March 31, 2015, our total revenue, restated profit and EBITDA (which we define as earnings before finance cost, tax, depreciation and amortisation calculated as total revenue (revenue from operations and other income) less total expenses (expenses other than depreciation and amortisation, finance cost and tax)) grew at compounded annual growth rates ("CAGR"), of 27.7%, 35.1% and 28.3%, respectively.

Pursuing our growth strategies, including expanding our facilities and service offerings to meet our clients' needs, has resulted in and will continue to result in substantial demands on our management, operational, human, and financial resources.

To manage our growth, we must continue to improve our operating and administrative systems and to attract and retain qualified management, professional, scientific, and technical operating personnel. We believe that maintaining and enhancing both, our systems and personnel at reasonable cost are instrumental to our success in the CRO industry. We cannot assure you that we will be able to enhance our current technology or obtain new technology that will enable our systems to keep pace with the developments and the sophisticated needs of our clients. The nature and pace of our growth introduces risks associated with quality control and client dissatisfaction due to delays in performance or other problems. Any inability to effectively manage our anticipated growth and growth strategies could adversely affect our business and future prospects.

- 25. *If we fail to keep pace with advancements in technology in our service offerings, or respond to changes in market demand or client requirements, our business and financial results could be adversely affected.

We service clients in various industries such as pharmaceuticals, biotechnology, agro-chemicals, consumer health, animal health and cosmetics. These industries are characterised by frequent advancements in technology, fuelled by high expenses incurred on R&D, evolving industry standards and frequent introduction of new and enhanced services. To succeed, we must continue to introduce new services on a timely and cost-effective basis to meet evolving client requirements, while achieving market acceptance for these new services. Additionally, we must continue to enhance our existing services and to successfully integrate new services with those already being offered. It is imperative that we respond to emerging industry standards and other technological changes. If we fail to make the necessary enhancements to our business, systems and products to keep pace with evolving industry standards, our competitive position and results of operations may suffer.

To meet our clients' needs as well as to keep pace with our competitors, we regularly update existing technology and acquire or develop new technology for our discovery, development and manufacturing services. In addition, rapid and frequent advancements in technology and market demand changes can often render existing technologies and equipment obsolete, requiring substantial new capital expenditures and/or write-downs of assets. Further, our competitors or other third parties may have filed patent applications, or hold patents, relating to products or processes which could restrict our ability to provide certain of our services. If we do not keep pace with rapid technological changes in the CRO industry, our services may become less competitive or even obsolete. If our competitors introduce superior technologies, or services and we cannot make enhancements to ours to remain competitive, either because we do not have the resources to continually improve our technology by investing in R&D or for any other reason, our competitive position, and in turn our business, revenue and financial condition, would be materially and adversely affected.

- 26. *We may be unable to expand our capacity as anticipated, possibly resulting in material delay, increased costs and lost business opportunities.

We are in the process of setting up a manufacturing facility in Mangaluru to manufacture novel small molecules for companies in pharmaceutical, agrochemical and other industrial sectors. We have identified a site for this and the land acquisition process is under way. There may be delays or unexpected developments in completing the construction of our facilities, which could cause the construction costs and other expenses of this project to exceed our expectations. Any material delay in starting operations at these facilities or any substantial increase in costs to complete these facilities, may materially and adversely affect our financial condition and results of operations. This may also result in lost business opportunities for us.

- 27. *We compete in a highly competitive market and if we do not compete successfully our business and financial results could be adversely affected.

The CRO industry is highly competitive and we face numerous competitors. If we fail to compete effectively, we might lose clients, which would cause our business to suffer.

We compete against other full-service CROs, captive R&D centres of multinational organisations, small speciality CROs, and, to a lesser extent, universities and teaching hospitals. Some of these competitors have greater capital, technical and other resources than we have. In addition, our competitors that are smaller specialised companies might compete effectively against us based on price and their concentrated size and focus. For details, see "Our Business" on page 126.

As a result of competitive pressures and the potential for economies of scale, the industry continues to experience consolidation. This trend, as well as a trend by pharmaceutical companies and other clients to limit outsourcing to fewer organisations, in some cases through preferred vendor relationships, is likely to result in increased worldwide competition among the larger CROs for clients and acquisition candidates. A significant portion of our business is subject to variable pricing and subject to periodic price revisions and increased competition could cause a decline in billing rates offered by our clients which may significantly hamper our profitability.

We believe that various multinational companies have been developing preferred partnerships with full-service CROs that effectively exclude other CROs from the bidding process. We may find reduced access to certain companies due to preferred vendor arrangements of such companies with our competitors. In addition, the CRO industry has attracted the attention of the investment community, and increased potential financial resources are likely to lead to increased competition among CROs. There are few barriers to entry for small, limited-service entities entering the CRO industry, and these entities may also compete with established CROs for clients. Increased competition may lead to competitive pricing which may adversely impact our business and results of operations.

28. We rely on third parties for important services and any delay and/or failure in the performance of these services may adversely affect our business and results of operations.

We rely on third parties for the timely supply of certain chemicals and equipment as well as support services, including the procurement, handling and transportation of animals for our research services. In addition, we may require certain niche chemicals in relation to our research and discovery and development services which may not be readily available or may only be supplied by a single or a limited number of suppliers. Although we actively manage such third party relationships to ensure continuity of supplies on time and to our required specifications, some events beyond our control could result in the complete or partial failure of supplies or in supplies not being delivered on time. Any such failure could adversely affect our business by resulting in delays and/or cost overruns. The failure of any of these third parties to adequately provide the needed services could have a material adverse effect on our business and results of operations.

29. We rely on our Promoter Biocon for our Registered Office and other critical facilities from which we operate.

We do not own our Registered Office and occupy our premises on a leasehold basis from our Promoter Biocon. Our R&D and manufacturing facilities are also conducted at sites leased from our Promoter Biocon. We also rely on our Promoter Biocon, for other ancillary support services such as power, water and other utility services. For further details, see the section “Our Promoter and Promoter Group” on page 164.

We cannot assure you that we will be able to renew our leases on commercially acceptable terms or at all. In addition, some of our leases may be short term leases but we may invest in the construction of fixed and immovable infrastructure at these facilities. In the event that we are required to vacate our current premises, we would be required to make alternative arrangements for new offices and other infrastructure and we cannot assure you that the new arrangements will be on commercially acceptable terms. Our facilities and certain equipment located in these facilities are highly specific and may be difficult to replace in a short period of time and could require substantial replacement lead time. Any event that causes a disruption of the operation of these facilities might impact our ability to provide services to our clients and therefore could have a material adverse affect on our business, financial condition and results of operations.

30. We are dependent on our facilities which are concentrated in Bengaluru.

We conduct most of our discovery, development and manufacturing services at Biocon Park, which is located in a special economic zone (“SEZ”) in Bengaluru. Fire, floods, earthquakes, rains, inundations and heavy downpours in this area could disrupt our operations. Our operations may also be disrupted by man-made causes there, such as civil strikes and riots that may cause a total or partial shutdown of our facilities or otherwise prevent operations of our facilities, including the inability of our scientists and other employees to commute to work. If these events disrupted our ability to provide services to our clients, our business, financial condition and results of operations would be adversely impacted.

31. We are subject to the risk of loss due to fire because we use highly flammable and explosive materials in our activities.

We use dangerous materials including flammable and explosive materials in our R&D and manufacturing processes and are therefore subject to the risk of loss arising from fire. Although we have implemented industry acceptable risk management controls at our facilities and continuously seek to upgrade them, the risk of fire associated with these materials cannot be completely eliminated. In addition to fire, natural calamities such as floods, earthquakes, rains, inundations and heavy downpours could disrupt our operations. We maintain insurance policies to guard against losses caused by fire. We have in the past had fire-related incidents involving losses and injuries, including in fiscal 2014, a fire at one of our analytical laboratories in Bengaluru. We cannot assure you that our insurance coverage will be adequate for meeting losses incurred in case of any such incidents in future. In addition, any such incidents of fire may result in significant losses to property and/or loss of life and disrupt our use of our facilities to conduct our operations, thereby adversely affecting our financial condition and results of operations.

32. Hazardous material contamination or other industrial disasters could adversely impact our business.

Our activities involve the controlled use of toxic and potentially harmful biological materials, as well as hazardous materials, chemicals and various radioactive compounds. Our activities involve, and will continue to involve, the creation of hazardous substances or wastes, including medical waste and other highly regulated substances.

If improperly handled or subjected to the wrong conditions, these materials could hurt our employees and other persons, cause damage to our properties and accidental contamination of or harm to the environment. Also, increases in business and operations in our facilities, can pose increased safety hazards. Such hazards need to be addressed through training, industrial hygiene assessments and other safety measures and, if not carried out, can lead to industrial accidents.

In the event of any such accident, we could be held liable for damages and clean-up costs which might not be covered by existing insurance or indemnification. In addition, we could be subject to significant litigation and the shutdown of our facilities, which in turn could delay or prevent us from fulfilling our obligations to clients.

In addition, since we conduct our operations at Biocon Park, where Biocon also conducts its own operations, we may be subject to damages and liabilities under our contractual arrangements and otherwise due to an accident involving Biocon that causes a partial or complete shutdown of Biocon Park.

Further, our insurance coverage may not be adequate to cover any loss or damage to life and property or any consequential losses. Any fatal accident or incident causing damage or loss to life and property, even if we are fully insured or held not to be liable, could negatively affect our reputation, thereby making it more difficult for us to conduct our business operations effectively, and could significantly affect the cost or availability of insurance coverage in the future.

For the foregoing reasons, hazardous material contamination or other industrial disasters could adversely impact our business, financial results and reputation.

33. We may not have sufficient insurance coverage to cover all possible economic losses and liabilities associated with our business.

Our operations are subject to various risks, and we rely upon insurance coverage to insure against fire, earthquake and other disasters as well as thefts and riots. In addition, not all of the above risks may be insurable, on commercially reasonable terms, or at all. To the extent that we suffer damage or losses which are not covered by insurance, or exceeds the insurance coverage, the loss would have to be borne by us. The proceeds of any insurance claim may also be insufficient and any losses suffered due to inadequate coverage may have a material adverse impact on our business, financial condition and results of operations. For more details, please see the section “Our Business” on page 127.

In addition, some of our client contracts require us to maintain certain kinds of insurance policies of specified values. We may not obtain or be able to obtain the specified insurance coverage required under each such contract, thereby exposing us to claims of breach of contract by our clients and consequently we may be liable to pay damages to such clients.

34. Our business operations may be disrupted by an interruption in power or water supply which may impact our business operations.

Our operations require constant water and power supply and any disruption in the supply of water or power may disrupt our operations. Any disruption in water or power supply may interfere with our discovery, development and manufacturing activities requiring us to either stop our operations or repeat activities which may involve additional time and expenditure. In recent years, there have been increasing disruptions in water and power supply in Bengaluru city and its surrounding areas, and there can be no assurance that the situation will not worsen. Any continuous disruptions may adversely affect our business operations.

35. We enter into various agreements in the normal course of business which incorporate provisions requiring us to indemnify the other party to the agreement.

In the normal course of business, we enter into agreements with our clients that incorporate indemnification provisions. Under certain circumstances, our indemnification obligations under such agreements may be unlimited in duration and amount. In the event that our obligations under an indemnification provision exceed our insurance coverage or we are denied insurance coverage, it could have a material adverse impact on our business, financial condition and results of operations. For further details, see “Our Business” on page 127.

36. We have recorded the transfer of certain Equity Shares and issued bonus Equity Shares to certain non-resident shareholders without obtaining prior approval from the FIPB. While the regulator has not raised any concerns to date, we cannot assure you that the regulator will not take a divergent view and impose penalties on us.

Foreign investment in India is currently and has historically been regulated by the RBI and the FIPB, under the erstwhile Foreign Exchange Regulation Act, 1973 (“FERA”) (now repealed) and currently under the Foreign Exchange Management Act, 1999 (“FEMA”), as amended from time to time, and the regulations framed thereunder, which prescribe certain requirements, limitations and conditions with respect to foreign exchange transactions, such as restrictions on security issuances to non-resident persons and transfer of shares between non-resident persons in case of companies falling under certain specified sectors, which may require prior notice to or approval by the FIPB and/or by the RBI, as the case may be.

In the past we have recorded certain transactions, such as the transfer of certain Equity Shares, including the transfer from Silver Leaf to our Directors and directors of our Promoter, as detailed in the section “History and Other Corporate Matters—Summary of Key Agreements” on page 142, for which we have informed the FIPB in writing. We have also undertaken an issue of bonus shares to non-resident shareholders in 2012. We believe that such transactions were undertaken under the automatic route, within permissible limits and in accordance with applicable regulations, and hence no prior approval was required to be obtained. While the regulator has not raised any concerns to date, we cannot assure you that the regulator will not take a divergent view and impose penalties on us, which may impact our financial position.

37. We could be materially adversely affected by violations of the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, 1977 and similar anti-corruption, anti-bribery and anti-kickback laws.

Our business operations and services in countries outside the United States are subject to anti-corruption, anti-bribery and anti-kickback laws and regulations, including restrictions imposed by the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, 1977 (the “FCPA”), as well as the United Kingdom Bribery Act of 2010, (the “UK Bribery Act”). The FCPA, UK Bribery Act, and similar anti-corruption, anti-bribery and anti-kickback laws in other jurisdictions generally prohibit companies and their intermediaries and agents from making improper payments to government officials or any other persons for the purpose of obtaining or retaining business. We provide our services in many parts of the world that have experienced governmental corruption to some degree. We train our employees concerning anti-corruption, anti-bribery and anti-kickback laws and have policies in place that prohibit employees from making improper payments. We have implemented internal controls and procedures designed to ensure that we comply with anti-corruption, anti-bribery and anti-kickback laws, rules and regulations and mitigate and protect against corruption risks. We cannot provide assurance that our internal controls and procedures will protect us from reckless, criminal or other acts committed by our employees or third-parties with whom we work. If we are found to be liable for violations of the FCPA or similar anti-corruption, anti-bribery and anti-kickback laws, either due to our own acts or out of inadvertence, or due to the acts or inadvertence of others, we could suffer criminal or civil fines or penalties or other repercussions, including reputational harm, which could have a material and adverse effect on our business, financial conditions and results of operations.

38. Health care industry reform could reduce or eliminate our business opportunities and otherwise adversely impact our business and financial results.

The health care industry is subject to changing political, economic, and regulatory influences that may also affect the CRO industry. In recent years, several comprehensive health care reform proposals were introduced in the United States Congress. The intent of the proposals was, generally, to expand health care coverage for the uninsured and reduce the growth of total health care expenditures. In addition, other foreign governments may also undertake health care reforms in their respective countries. These reforms, if adopted, would make the development of new drugs less profitable for our clients, and could reduce their research and development budgets. Business opportunities available to us could decrease materially if the implementation of government health care reform adversely affects research and development expenditures by multinational companies.

In addition, government bodies have adopted and may continue to adopt new healthcare legislation or regulations that are more burdensome than existing regulations. For example, product safety concerns and recommendations by the U.S. Drug Safety Oversight Board could change the regulatory environment for drug products, and new or heightened regulatory requirements may increase our expenses or limit our ability to offer some of our services. Additionally, new or heightened regulatory requirements may have a negative impact on the ability of our clients to conduct industry-sponsored clinical trials, which could reduce the need for our post-approval development services.

39. Our clinical trials create a risk of liability and increased regulations, which may have an adverse impact on our business and results of operations.

Clinical services involve the testing of new drugs, biologics and devices on human volunteers. This testing creates risks of liability for personal injury, sickness or death of patients resulting from their participation in the study. These risks include, among other things, unforeseen adverse side effects, improper application or administration of a new drug, biologic, or device, and the professional malpractice of medical care providers. Many volunteer patients already are seriously ill and are at heightened risk of future illness or death.

We could be held liable for errors or omissions in connection with the services we perform or for the general risks associated with our clinical trials including, but not limited to, adverse reactions to the administration of drugs. If we are required to pay damages or bear the costs of defending any claim outside the scope of, or in excess of, the contractual indemnification provided by our clients that is beyond the level of any insurance coverage, our business and results of operations may be adversely impacted.

In addition, regulatory agencies may introduce newer stricter regulations that prevent or restrict clinical trials. Our clinical studies may also be the focus of negative attention from special interest groups that oppose clinical trials on ethical grounds. Any inability to conduct clinical trials would have a material adverse effect on our business and results of operations.

40. Our animal populations may suffer diseases that can damage our inventory, adversely impact our reputation and business.

It is important that our research products be free of diseases, including infectious diseases. The presence of diseases can distort or compromise the quality of research results, can cause loss of animals in our inventory and can result in harm to humans and animal populations outside our research facilities if the disease is not contained to animals in our inventory. Such results could adversely impact our reputation and our business.

41. We may be adversely impacted by any acquisition of Biocon or any change in the beneficial ownership of Biocon.

After the completion of the Offer, our Promoter, Biocon will own, approximately 72.6% of our post-Offer paid-up equity share capital. Over the years, Biocon has successfully brought to the market several affordable and alternative therapeutic drugs in the areas of diabetes, oncology and auto-immune diseases. Biocon is currently focused on bringing its portfolio of generic insulin and bio-similar monoclonal antibodies to global markets. In the event that Biocon is acquired by another multinational organisation in the biotechnology or pharmaceutical sector which competes with our clients, our clients may perceive a conflict of interest and terminate their contracts with us. We may also be unable to enter into new contracts with potential clients in the same industry.

42. Our indebtedness could adversely affect our business and prospects, financial condition and results of operations.

As at March 31, 2015, we had long-term borrowings of ₹186 million (US$2.98 million) and our short-term borrowings were ₹1,364 million (US$21.8 million) and we expect to incur additional indebtedness in relation with our capital expenditures. As at March 31, 2015, our Debt/Equity ratio was 0.18. We have entered into certain agreements for short-term loans. Some of these agreements contain requirements to maintain certain security margins and financial ratios and also contain restrictive covenants, such as requiring lender consent for, among others things, issuance of new shares, making any material changes to constitutional documents, incurring further indebtedness, creating further encumbrances on or disposing of assets, undertaking a merger, amalgamation or restructuring, undertaking guarantee obligations or declaring dividends. There can be no assurance that we will be able to comply with these financial or other covenants or that we will be able to obtain the consents necessary to take the actions we believe are necessary to operate and grow our business.

Our level of existing debt and any new debt that we incur in the future has important consequences. For example, such debt could:

- increase our vulnerability to general adverse economic and industry conditions;
- limit our ability to fund future working capital, capital expenditures and other general corporate requirements;
- require us to dedicate a substantial portion of our cash flow from operations to service our debt;
- limit our flexibility to react to changes in our business and in the industry in which we operate;
- place us at a competitive disadvantage with respect to any of our competitors who have less debt;
- require us to meet additional financial covenants;
- limit, along with other restrictive covenants, among other things, our ability to borrow additional funds; and
- lead to circumstances that result in an event of default, if not waived or cured. A default under one debt instrument may also trigger cross-defaults under other debt instruments.

For details regarding our financial indebtedness, please see the section “Financial Indebtedness” on page 176. Any of these developments could adversely affect our business, financial condition and results of operations. We cannot provide any assurance that our business will generate cash in an amount sufficient to enable us to service our debt or to fund our other liquidity needs as they come due. In addition, we may need to refinance all or a portion of our debt on or before maturity. We cannot provide any assurance that we will be able to refinance any of our debt on commercially reasonable terms, or at all. If we are unable to repay or refinance our outstanding indebtedness, or if we are unable to obtain additional financing on terms acceptable to us, our business, prospects, financial condition and results of operations may be adversely affected.

43. We require certain approvals and licenses in the ordinary course of business and are required to comply with certain rules and regulations to operate our business, and the failure to obtain or retain such approvals and licences or comply with such rules and regulations, and the failure to obtain or retain them in a timely manner or at all may adversely affect our operations.

Our business is subject to extensive government regulation and we require certain approvals, licenses, registrations and permissions for operating our business, some of which may have expired and for which we may have either made or are in the process of making an application for obtaining the approval or its renewal. In addition, we may not be in compliance with certain conditions prescribed by such approvals or licences. For more information, see the section “Government Approvals” on page 231. There can be no assurance that the licenses, permits and approvals from third parties required for the operation of our facilities will be issued or granted to us in a timely manner to allow for the uninterrupted operations of the facilities. If we fail to obtain or retain any of these approvals or licenses, or renewals thereof, in a timely manner, our business operations may be adversely impacted.

Further, in order to operate our business, we are also required to comply with certain rules and regulations under various statutes. We may not be in compliance with certain rules and regulations, including under the Maternity Benefits Act, 1961, Employment Exchanges (Compulsory Notifications of Vacancies) Act, 1959, Karnataka State Tax on Professions, Trades, Callings and Employments Act, 1976 and Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940. Whilst, the regulators have not raised a concern to date we cannot assure you that the regulator may take a divergent view and impose penalties on us, which may adversely impact our financial position.

44. Our business depends significantly on the continued effectiveness of our information technology infrastructure, and failure of such technology could adversely impact our business and results of operations.

The efficient operation of our business depends on our information technology infrastructure and our management information systems. Our information technology infrastructure includes both third party solutions and applications designed and maintained internally. Since we operate on multiple platforms, the failure of our information technology infrastructure and/or our management information systems to perform could severely disrupt our business and adversely affect our results of operation. In addition, our information technology infrastructure and/or our management information systems are vulnerable to damage or interruption from, amongst others, natural or man-made disasters, terrorist attacks, computer viruses or hackers, power loss, other computer systems, internet telecommunications or data network failures. Any such interruption could adversely affect our business and results of operations.

A significant portion of our operations rely on the secure processing, storage and transmission of confidential information, including client and personal confidential information. Our activities are subject to a risk of cyber security issues and/or attacks which could result in the disclosure or loss of confidential client information, damage to our reputation, additional costs, regulatory penalties and financial losses. Despite our security measures, our computer systems, software and networks, or those of our suppliers, clients and so on, are vulnerable to unauthorised access, loss or destruction of data (including confidential client information and personal health data), hardware malfunctions, computer viruses or other malicious code, cyber attacks and other events. These threats may derive from human error, fraud or malice on the part of employees or third parties, or may result from accidental technological failure. Also, changes to our operating systems, software or programs could adversely impact our business. Any disruption in the continued effectiveness of our information technology infrastructure, and/or in case of our technology infrastructure becoming outdated or obsolete could affect our business and results of operations.

45. Our Company will not receive any proceeds from this Offer.

Our Promoter, Biocon, is selling Equity Shares in this Offer and there is no fresh issue of Equity Shares by our Company. Accordingly, the funds raised by the sale of our Equity Shares in this Offer will not come to our Company. The primary objects of the Offer are to achieve the benefits of listing of our Equity Shares and carry out the divestment of Equity Shares by our Promoter.

46. We have a number of contingent liabilities, and our profitability could be adversely affected if any of these contingent liabilities materialise.

As of March 31, 2015, our contingent liabilities that have not been provided for are as set out below:	As at March 31, 2015 (₹ in millions)
Two corporate guarantees in favour of the Customs and Excise department ("CED") in respect of certain performance obligations of Biocon	500
Biocon has given corporate guarantees to the CED on behalf of our Company	242
Taxation matters under appeal.....	1,045
Service tax matters	57
VAT matters under appeal.....	1

For details see the section, "Financial Statements — Note 11 in Annexure IV" in accordance with the provisions of Accounting Standard 29 — "Provisions, Contingent Liabilities and Contingent Assets." If any of these contingent liabilities materialise, our profitability and cash flows could be adversely affected. For more details, see the section "Outstanding Litigation and Material Developments."

47. Our ability to pay dividends in the future will depend upon future earnings, financial condition, cash flows, working capital requirements and restrictive covenants in our financing arrangements.

Our ability to pay dividends to our shareholders will depend upon our future earnings, financial condition, cash flows, planned capital expenditures and working capital requirements. Our ability to pay dividends is also restricted under certain financing arrangements that we have entered into and expect to enter into. We may be unable to pay dividends in the near or medium term, and our future dividend policy will depend on our planned capital expenditures and working capital requirements, financial condition and results of operations.

48. Our Company, Promoter and Group Entities have taken unsecured loans that can be recalled at any time

As at March 31, 2015, we had long-term borrowings of ₹186 million (US$2.98 million), and our short-term borrowings were ₹1,364 million (US$21.8 million). These short-term unsecured borrowings are primarily from HSBC Limited, Yes Bank Limited and HDFC Bank Limited and may be recalled by the lenders at any time. In the event that any lender seeks the accelerated repayment of any such loan, it may have a material adverse effect on our business, cash flows and financial condition.

Our Promoter and Group Entities may also have availed of unsecured borrowings which may be recalled by the lenders at any time. If any of lenders of these short term unsecured borrowings seeks the accelerated repayment of any such loan, it may have a material adverse effect on the business, cash flows and financial condition of the entity against which repayment is sought.

49. Some of our Group Entities have incurred losses in the past.

Certain of our Group Entities have incurred losses in the years as set forth below:

Sr. No	Name of the entity	Profit / (Loss) (Amount in ₹ million) for the year ended
		March 31, 2013	March 31, 2014	March 31, 2015
1.	Biocon Research Limited	(898.7)	(414.8)	82.9
2.	Biocon Sdn. Bhd.	(1.0)*	(2.1)*	(12.1)*
3.	Biocon SA	30.7	1.1	(1.8)

*Amount in RM million

 Amount in CHF million

50. Our Company has had negative cash flows in the past years, details of which are given below. Sustained negative cash flow could impact our growth and business.

We have experienced negative cash flows in prior years. For fiscal year 2013, we had a net decrease in cash and cash equivalents of ₹259 million. For fiscal year 2011, we had a net decrease in cash and cash equivalents of ₹7 million.

Cash flow of a company is a key indicator to show the extent of cash generated from the operations of a company to meet capital expenditure, pay dividends, repay loans and make new investments without raising finance from external resources. If we are not able to generate sufficient cash flows, it may adversely affect our business and financial operations. For further details, please see the sections “Financial Statements” and “Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations” on pages F-7 and 204, respectively.

51. Our executive director, Kiran Mazumdar Shaw, and our CEO, Peter Bains, hold the position of executive director on the board of directors of Biocon Limited and Peter Bains Consulting Limited, respectively. Holding the position of executive director on other companies may divert their attention from the affairs of our Company and may adversely affect our business operations.

Our executive director, Kiran Mazumdar Shaw, and our CEO, Peter Bains, hold the position of executive director on the boards of Biocon Limited and Peter Bains Consulting Limited, respectively. Holding the position of an executive director involves dedicating a significant amount of time and effort by such person. Accordingly, the time and effort dedicated by Kiran Mazumdar Shaw and Peter Bains towards our Company and our operations may be reduced, which may adversely affect our business operations and results of operations.

52. Our Directors and key management personnel may have interests in us other than reimbursement of expenses incurred or normal remuneration or benefits.

Our Directors and key management personnel are also interested in us to the extent of their shareholding, share option grants, dividend entitlement and remuneration paid to them for services rendered as our Directors and key management personnel and reimbursement of expenses payable to them. For further information, see the section “Our Management” on pages 153 and 161.

53. Some of our lease agreements may have certain irregularities which may have a material adverse impact on our business.

Some of our lease agreements have certain irregularities such as inadequate stamping and/or non registration of deeds and agreements and improper execution of lease deeds. The effect of inadequate stamping and non registration is that the document is not admissible as evidence in legal proceedings, and parties to that agreement may not be able to legally enforce the same, except after paying a penalty for inadequate stamping and non registration. In the event of any dispute arising out of such unstamped or inadequately stamped and/or unregistered lease agreements, we may not be able to effectively enforce our leasehold rights arising out of such agreements which may have a material adverse impact on our business.

54. We have had instances of regulatory non-compliances and lapses in relation to regulatory filings to be made with the RoC under applicable company law.

There have been two instances of discrepancies/non-compliances in relation to certain filings and disclosures made by our Company to the RoC under applicable company law wherein our Company (i) had provided an incorrect list of allottees in the return of allotment filed with the RoC for the bonus issue of equity shares of face value of ₹5 each made on February 28, 2012; and (ii) failed to comply with the disclosure requirements in the explanatory statement, as required under rule 6 of the Unlisted Public Companies (Preferential Allotment Rules), 2003, for the extraordinary general meeting convened on December 14, 2011. We have made applications to the RoC for compounding these non-compliances. Accordingly, the RoC may impose a monetary penalty on us, which may negatively impact our business, financial condition and results of operations.

55. In one instance, we have failed to file the requisite forms for the issuance of our Equity Shares to non-residents. We are also unable to locate copies of certain regulatory filings made in the past in relation to issuances and transfers of our Equity Shares involving non-residents.

Since incorporation, we have allotted our Equity Shares to certain non-resident shareholders. Under applicable foreign exchange laws, we are required to report such transactions involving non-residents in the forms specified, to the RBI within the specified time periods. We have in the past failed to file the requisite form for reporting a bonus issue to non-resident shareholders. We have filed an application dated June 12, 2015 to the RBI for compounding in this regard and have not yet heard back from the RBI in relation to our application. The RBI may impose a monetary penalty on us in relation to this, which may negatively impact our financial position.

In addition, we are unable to locate copies of certain forms filed with the RBI in the past which we believe we have made in a timely manner. We cannot assure you that all relevant filings were made in relation to all our previous issuances and transfers of our Equity Shares in a timely manner or at all. We cannot assure you that the regulators will not take a divergent view and impose penalties on us, which may adversely impact our financial position.

56. Our Group Entities may enter into the same or a related line of business as us, in future, which may lead to competition with such Group Entity.

The charter documents of some of our Group Entities, such as Biocon Research Limited, Biocon Sdn. Bhd. and Biocon Pharma Limited, authorise such entities to undertake business operations in the same or related lines of business as us. While currently these entities are not involved in business operations in the same or related lines, we cannot assure you that they will not enter into same of related lines of business in the future. We may hence have to compete with our Group Entities for business which may impact our business, financial condition and results of operations. For further details in relation to our Group Entities, please see the section “Our Group Entities” on page 166.

57. We do not have documentary proof for certain details included in the Director biographies under the section “Our Management” of this Red Herring Prospectus.

We do not have documentary proof for certain details included in the Director biographies under the section “Our Management” on page 150. The details included in the section are based on the details provided by the Directors and are supported by affidavits executed by such Directors, certifying the authenticity of the information provided. We cannot assure you that all the details in relation to our Directors included in this section are true and accurate.

External Risks

58. Political, economic or other factors that are beyond our control may have an adverse effect on our business and results of operations.

The following external risks may have an adverse impact on our business and results of operations should any of them materialise:

- a change in the central or state government or a change in the economic and deregulation policies could adversely affect economic conditions prevalent in the areas in which we operate in general and our business in particular;
- high rates of inflation in India could increase our costs without proportionately increasing our revenues, and as such decrease our operating margins; and
- a slowdown in economic growth or financial instability in India could adversely affect our business and results of operations.

59. The Companies Act, 2013 has effected significant changes to the existing Indian company law framework which may subject us to greater compliance requirements and increase our compliance costs.

A majority of the provisions and rules under the Companies Act, 2013 have been notified and have come into effect from the date of their respective notification, resulting in the corresponding provisions of the Companies Act, 1956 ceasing to have effect. The Companies Act, 2013 has brought into effect significant changes to the Indian company law framework, such as in the provisions related to issue of capital (including provisions in relation to issue of securities on a private placement basis), disclosures in an offer document, corporate governance norms, accounting policies and audit matters, reporting on internal controls over financial reporting by the board of directors, specific compliance requirements such as obtaining prior approval from audit committee, board of directors and shareholders for certain related party transactions, introduction of a provision allowing the initiation of class action suits in India against companies by shareholders or depositors, a restriction on investment by an Indian company through more than two layers of subsidiary investment companies (subject to certain permitted exceptions), prohibitions on loans to directors, insider trading and restrictions on directors and key managerial personnel from engaging in forward dealing. We may also need to spend, in each financial year, at least two percent of our average net profits during the three immediately preceding financial years towards corporate social responsibility activities. As a result of the changes brought about by the Companies Act, 2013 to the provisions relating to accounting policies, going forward, we may also be required to apply a different rate of depreciation. Further, the Companies Act, 2013 imposes greater monetary and other liability on the Company and Directors for any non-compliance. To ensure compliance with the requirements of the Companies Act, 2013, we may need to allocate additional resources, which may increase our regulatory compliance costs and divert management attention.

The Companies Act, 2013 has introduced certain additional requirements which do not have corresponding provisions under the Companies Act, 1956. Accordingly, we may face challenges in interpreting and complying with such requirements due to limited jurisprudence in respect of the relevant provisions. In the event our interpretation of such provisions of the Companies Act, 2013 differs from, or contradicts with, any judicial pronouncements or clarifications issued by the Government in the future, we may face regulatory actions or we may be required to undertake remedial steps. Additionally, some of the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013 overlap with other existing laws and regulations (such as the corporate governance norms and insider trading regulations issued by the SEBI). Further, we cannot currently determine the impact of provisions of the Companies Act, 2013 which are yet to come in force. Any increase in our compliance requirements or in our compliance costs may have an adverse effect on our business and results of operations.

60. We may be affected by competition law in India and any adverse application or interpretation of the Competition Act could adversely affect our business.

The Competition Act, 2002, of India, as amended (“Competition Act”) regulates practices having an appreciable adverse effect on competition (“AAEC”) in the relevant market in India. Under the Competition Act, any formal or informal arrangement, understanding or action in concert, which causes or is likely to cause an AAEC is considered void and results in the imposition of substantial penalties. Further, any agreement among competitors which directly or indirectly involves the determination of purchase or sale prices, limits or controls production, shares the market by way of geographical area or number of guests in the relevant market or directly or indirectly results in bid-rigging or collusive bidding is presumed to have an AAEC in the relevant market in India and is considered void. The Competition Act also prohibits abuse of a dominant position by any enterprise.

On March 4, 2011, the Government issued and brought into force the combination regulation (merger control) provisions under the Competition Act with effect from June 1, 2011. These provisions require acquisitions of shares, voting rights, assets or control or mergers or amalgamations that cross the prescribed asset and turnover based thresholds to be mandatorily notified to and pre-approved by the Competition Commission of India (the “CCI”). However, the impact of the provisions of the Competition Act on the agreements entered into by us cannot be predicted with certainty at this stage.

We are not currently party to any outstanding proceedings, nor have we received notice in relation to non-compliance with the Competition Act or the agreements entered into by us. However, if we are affected, directly or indirectly, by the application or interpretation of any provision of the Competition Act, or any enforcement proceedings initiated by the CCI, or any adverse publicity that may be generated due to scrutiny or prosecution by the CCI or if any prohibition or substantial penalties are levied under the Competition Act, it would adversely affect our business, results of operations and prospects.

61. Public companies in India, including our Company, shall be required to prepare financial statements under Indian Accounting Standards. In addition, all income-tax assesseees in India, including our Company, will be required to follow the Income Computation and Disclosure Standards.

India has decided to adopt the “Convergence of its existing standards with IFRS” and not the “International Financial Reporting Standards” (“IFRS”). These “IFRS based / synchronised Accounting Standards” are referred to in India as Ind AS. The Ministry of Corporate Affairs, Government of India, has through a notification dated February 16, 2015, set out the Ind AS and the timeliness for their implementation. Accordingly our Company is required to prepare their financial statements in accordance with Ind AS from April 1, 2016. Given that Ind AS is different in many respects from Indian GAAP under which our financial statements are currently prepared, our financial statements for the period commencing from April 1, 2016 may not be comparable to our historical financial statements.

Further, we have made no attempt to quantify or identify the impact of the differences between Ind AS and Indian GAAP as applied to our financial statements and there can be no assurance that the adoption of Ind AS will not affect our reported results of operations or financial condition. In addition, our management may also have to divert its time and other resources for the successful and timely implementation of Ind AS. Any failure to successfully adopt Ind AS may have an adverse effect on the trading price of our Equity Shares and/or may lead to regulatory action and other legal consequences. Moreover, our transition to IND AS reporting may be hampered by increasing competition and increased costs for the relatively small number of Ind AS-experienced accounting personnel available as more Indian companies begin to prepare Ind AS financial statements. Any of these factors relating to the use of Ind AS may adversely affect our financial condition and results of operations.

Further, the Ministry of Finance has issued a notification dated March 31, 2015 notifying 10 Income Computation and Disclosure Standards (“ICDS”), thereby creating a new framework for the computation of taxable income. The ICDS came into force with effect from April 1, 2015 and shall apply to the assessment year 2016-17 and subsequent assessment years. The adoption of ICDS is expected to significantly alter the way companies compute their taxable income, as ICDS deviates from several concepts that are followed under general accounting standards, including Indian GAAP and Ind AS. For example, where ICDS-based calculations of taxable income differ from Indian GAAP or Ind AS-based concepts, the ICDS-based calculations will have the effect of requiring taxable income to be recognised earlier, higher overall levels of taxation to apply or both. In addition, ICDS shall be applicable for the computation of income for tax purposes but shall not be applicable for the computation of income for Minimum Alternate Tax, which the Company currently pays.

We have made no attempt to quantify or identify the impact of the computation of taxable income following ICDS. It is possible that the resultant computation of taxable income based on the ICDS and net income based on our Company’s financial statements may be significantly different, and, if they differ, we may be required to recognise taxable income earlier and/or pay higher overall taxes.

62. It may not be possible for investors outside India to enforce any judgement obtained outside India against our Company or our management or any of our associates or affiliates in India, except by way of a suit in India.

Our Company is incorporated as a public limited company under the laws of India and certain of our directors and executive officers reside in India. Further, most of our assets, and the assets of our executive officers and directors, are located in India. As a result, it may be difficult to effect service of process outside India upon us, including in the United States, and our executive officers and directors or to enforce judgments obtained in courts outside India against us or our executive officers and directors, including judgments predicated upon the civil liability provisions of the securities laws of jurisdictions outside India, including without limitation United States federal securities laws.

India has reciprocal recognition and enforcement of judgments in civil and commercial matters with only a limited number of jurisdictions, which includes the United Kingdom, Singapore and Hong Kong. The United States has not been declared as a reciprocating territory for the purposes of the Civil Code and thus a judgement of a court outside India may be enforced in India only by a suit and not by proceedings in execution. In order to be enforceable, a judgement from a jurisdiction with reciprocity must meet certain requirements of the Indian Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (the “Civil Code”). The Civil Code only permits the enforcement of monetary decrees, not being in the nature of any amounts payable in respect of taxes, other charges, fines or penalties and does not include arbitration awards. Judgments or decrees from jurisdictions which do not have reciprocal recognition with India cannot be enforced by proceedings in execution in India. Therefore, a final judgement for the payment of money rendered by any court in a non-reciprocating territory for civil liability, whether or not predicated solely upon the general laws of the non-reciprocating territory, would not be enforceable in India. Even if an investor obtained a judgement in such a jurisdiction against us, our officers or directors, it may be required to institute a new proceeding in India and obtain a decree from an Indian court. However, the party in whose favour such final judgement is rendered may bring a fresh suit in a competent court in India based on a final judgement that has been obtained in a non-reciprocating territory within three years of obtaining such final judgement. It is unlikely that an Indian court would award damages on the same basis or to the same extent as was awarded in a final judgement rendered by a court in another jurisdiction if the Indian court believed that the amount of damages awarded was excessive or inconsistent with public policy in India. In addition, any person seeking to enforce a foreign judgement in India is required to obtain prior approval of the RBI to repatriate any amount recovered pursuant to the execution of the judgement.

63. The occurrence of natural or man-made disasters could adversely affect our results of operations and financial condition.

The occurrence of natural disasters, including cyclones, storms, floods, earthquakes, tornadoes, fires, explosions, pandemic disease and man-made disasters, including acts of terrorism, military actions, civil unrests and other acts of violence or war in India and around the world, could adversely affect our business, financial condition and results of operations, including in the following respects:

- A natural or man-made disaster, could result in damage to our assets or losses in our projects, or the failure of our counterparties to perform, or cause significant volatility in global financial markets.
- Pandemic disease, caused by a virus such as H5N1, the “avian flu” virus, the Ebola virus, or H1N1, the “swine flu” virus, could have a severe adverse effect on our business.
- Political tension, civil unrest, riots, acts of violence, situations of war or terrorist activities may result in disruption of services and may potentially lead to an economic recession and/or impact investor confidence.

India has, from time to time, experienced instances of civil unrest and political tensions and hostilities in some parts of the country and among neighbouring countries. Such political and social tensions could create a perception that investment in Indian companies involves higher degrees of risk could have a possible adverse effect on the Indian economy, future financial performance and the trading prices of our Equity Shares.

64. Our ability to raise foreign capital may be constrained by Indian law.

As an Indian company, we are subject to exchange controls that regulate borrowing in foreign currencies. Such regulatory restrictions limit our financing sources for our projects under development and hence could constrain our ability to obtain financings on competitive terms and refinance existing indebtedness. In addition, we cannot assure you that any required regulatory approvals for borrowing in foreign currencies will be granted to us without onerous conditions, or at all. Limitations on foreign debt may have an adverse effect on our business growth, financial condition and results of operations.

65. Under Indian law, foreign investors are subject to investment restrictions that limit our ability to attract foreign investors, which may adversely impact the trading price of the Equity Shares.

Under foreign exchange regulations currently in force in India, transfer of shares between non-residents and residents are freely permitted (subject to certain exceptions), if they comply with the valuation and reporting requirements specified by the RBI. If a transfer of shares is not in compliance with such requirements and does not fall under any of the exceptions specified by the RBI, then the RBI's prior approval is required. Additionally, shareholders who seek to convert Rupee proceeds from a sale of shares in India into foreign currency and repatriate that foreign currency from India require a no-objection or a tax clearance certificate from the Indian income tax authorities. We cannot assure you that any required approval from the RBI or any other Government agency can be obtained on any particular terms or at all. In addition, due to possible delays in obtaining requisite approvals, investors in our Equity Shares may be prevented from realising gains during periods of price increase or limiting losses during periods of price decline. Please see the section "Restrictions on Foreign Ownership of Indian Securities" on page 320.

66. Any downgrading of India's debt rating by a domestic or international rating agency could adversely affect our business.

India's sovereign debt rating could be downgraded due to various factors, including changes in tax or fiscal policy or a decline in India's foreign exchange reserves, which are outside our control. Any adverse revisions to India's credit ratings for domestic and international debt by domestic or international rating agencies may adversely impact our ability to raise additional financing, and the interest rates and other commercial terms at which such additional financing is available. This could have an adverse effect on our business and financial performance, ability to obtain financing for capital expenditures and the price of the Equity Shares.

67. If the rate of Indian price inflation increases, our results of operations and financial condition may be adversely affected.

Despite a decreasing trend in recent months, in recent years, India's wholesale price inflation index has indicated an increasing inflation trend compared to prior periods. An increase in inflation in India could cause a rise in the cost of transportation, salaries, materials or any other expenses. If this trend continues, we may be unable to reduce our costs or pass our increased costs on to our clients and our results of operations and financial condition may be adversely affected.

68. Fluctuations in the exchange rate of the Indian Rupee and other currencies could have a material adverse effect on the value of the Equity Shares, independent of our financial results.

The Equity Shares will be quoted in Indian Rupees on the BSE and the NSE. Any dividends in respect of the Equity Shares will be paid in Indian Rupees and subsequently converted into appropriate foreign currency for repatriation. Any adverse movement in exchange rates during the time it takes to undertake such conversion may reduce the net dividend to investors. In addition, any adverse movement in exchange rates during a delay in repatriating the proceeds from a sale of Equity Shares outside India, for example, because of a delay in regulatory approvals that may be required for the sale of Equity Shares, may reduce the net proceeds received by shareholders.

69. A slowdown in global or Indian economic growth could cause our businesses to suffer.

Our performance and the growth of our business are necessarily dependent on the health of the overall global and Indian economies. The global economic slowdown, coupled with high volatility and uncertainty as to the future global economic landscape, has had and continues to have an adverse effect on business globally. Any slowdown in economic growth or financial instability in India could also adversely affect our business, financial condition and results of operations.

70. Changing laws, rules and regulations and legal uncertainties in India, may adversely affect our business and financial performance.

Our business and financial performance could be adversely affected by changes in law or interpretations of existing, or the promulgation of new, laws, rules and regulations in India applicable to us and our business. Please see the section “Regulations and Policies” on page 128 for details of the laws currently applicable to us.

There can be no assurance that the central or the state governments in India may not implement new regulations and policies which will require us to obtain approvals and licenses from the central or the state governments in India and other regulatory bodies or impose onerous requirements and conditions on our operations. Any such changes and the related uncertainties with respect to the implementation of the new regulations may have a material adverse effect on all our business, financial condition and results of operations. In addition, we may have to incur capital expenditures to comply with the requirements of any new regulations, which may also materially adversely impact our results of operations.

For instance, the Government has proposed a comprehensive national goods and services tax (“GST”) regime that will combine taxes and levies by the Central and state Governments into a unified rate structure. Given the limited availability of information in the public domain concerning the GST, we are unable to provide any assurance as to the tax regime following implementation of the GST. The implementation of this new structure may be affected by any disagreement between certain state Governments, which could create uncertainty. Any such future amendments may affect our overall tax efficiency, and may result in significant additional taxes becoming payable. The Finance Act, 2015 received presidential assent, whereby certain changes have been announced in relation to various tax legislations. The changes introduced, include, hike in service tax rates, changes to Cenvat Credit Rules, 2004, changes in excise duty rates and amendments to the Customs Act, 1952 and we cannot predict the impact of the changes introduced in Finance Act, 2015 on the business, operations and results of our business.

71. A third party could be prevented from acquiring control of our Company because of anti-takeover provisions under Indian law.

There are provisions in Indian law that may delay, deter or prevent a future takeover or change in control of our Company, even if a change in control would result in the purchase of your Equity Shares at a premium to the market price or would otherwise be beneficial to you. Such provisions may discourage or prevent certain types of transactions involving actual or threatened change in control of us. Under the takeover regulations in India, an acquirer has been defined as any person who, directly or indirectly, acquires or agrees to acquire shares or voting rights or control over a company, whether individually or acting in concert with others. Although these provisions have been formulated to ensure that interests of investors/shareholders are protected, these provisions may also discourage a third party from attempting to take control of our Company. Consequently, even if a potential takeover of our Company would result in the purchase of the Equity Shares at a premium to their market price or would otherwise be beneficial to its stakeholders, it is possible that such a takeover would not be attempted or consummated because of the Indian takeover regulations.

72. The Offer Price of the Equity Shares may not be indicative of the market price of the Equity Shares after the Offer.

The Offer Price of the Equity Shares will be determined by us in consultation with the BRLMs through the Book Building Process. This price will be based on numerous factors, as described under “Basis for Offer Price” on page 88 and may not be indicative of the market price for the Equity Shares after the Offer. The market price of the Equity Shares could be subject to significant fluctuations after the Offer, and may decline below the Offer Price. We cannot assure you that the investor will be able to resell their Equity Shares at or above the Offer Price.

73. There are restrictions on daily movements in the price of the Equity Shares, which may adversely affect a shareholder’s ability to sell, or the price at which it can sell, Equity Shares at a particular point in time.

Following the Offer, our listed Equity Shares will be subject to a daily “circuit breaker” imposed on listed companies by all stock exchanges in India, which does not allow transactions beyond specified increases or decreases in the price of the Equity Shares. This circuit breaker operates independently of the index-based, market-wide circuit breakers generally imposed by SEBI on Indian stock exchanges. The percentage limit on our circuit breakers will be set by the stock exchanges based on the historical volatility in the price and trading volume of the Equity Shares.

The stock exchanges are not required to inform us of the percentage limit of the circuit breaker in effect from time to time. This circuit breaker will limit the upward and downward movements in the price of the Equity Shares. As a result of this circuit breaker, no assurance can be given regarding your ability to sell the Equity Shares or the price at which you may be able to sell the Equity Shares at any particular time.

74. There is no guarantee that our Equity Shares will be listed on the BSE and the NSE in a timely manner or at all.

In accordance with Indian law and practice, permission for listing of our Equity Shares will not be granted until after those Equity Shares have been issued and allotted. Approval requires all other relevant documents authorising the issuing of Equity Shares to be submitted. There could be a failure or delay in listing the Equity Shares on the BSE and the NSE. Any delay in obtaining the approval would restrict your ability to dispose of our Equity Shares.

The regulation and monitoring of Indian securities markets and the activities of investors, brokers and other participants differ, in some cases significantly, from those in Europe and the U.S.

75. Any future issuance of Equity Shares by us may dilute your shareholding and adversely affect the trading price of the Equity Shares.

Any future issuance of the Equity Shares or securities linked to Equity Shares by us may dilute your shareholding in our Company, adversely affect the trading price of the Equity Shares and our ability to raise capital through an issue of our securities. In addition, any perception by investors that such issuances or sales might occur could also affect the trading price of the Equity Shares. No assurance may be given that we will not issue additional Equity Shares.

76. You may be subject to Indian taxes arising out of capital gains on the sale of the Equity Shares.

Under current Indian tax laws, unless specifically exempted, capital gains arising from the sale of Equity Shares in an Indian company are generally taxable in India. Any gain realised on the sale of listed equity shares on a stock exchange held for more than 12 months will not be subject to capital gains tax in India if Securities Transaction Tax (“STT”) has been paid on the transaction. STT will be levied on and collected by a domestic stock exchange on which the Equity Shares are sold. Any gain realised on the sale of equity shares held for more than 12 months, which are sold other than on a recognised stock exchange and on which no STT has been paid to an Indian resident, will be subject to long term capital gains tax in India. Further, any gain realised on the sale of listed equity shares held for a period of 12 months or less will be subject to short term capital gains tax in India. Capital gains arising from the sale of the Equity Shares will be exempt from taxation in India in cases where the exemption from taxation in India is provided under a treaty between India and the country of which the seller is resident. Generally, Indian tax treaties do not limit India’s ability to impose tax on capital gains. As a result, residents of other countries may be liable for tax in India as well as in their own jurisdiction on a gain upon the sale of the Equity Shares.

77. Rights of shareholders under Indian laws may be more limited than under the laws of other jurisdictions.

Indian legal principles related to corporate procedures, directors’ fiduciary duties and liabilities, and shareholders’ rights may differ from those that would apply to a company in another jurisdiction. Shareholders’ rights under Indian law may not be as extensive as shareholders’ rights under the laws of other countries or jurisdictions. Investors may have more difficulty in asserting their rights as shareholder in an Indian company than as shareholder of a corporation in another jurisdiction.

78. Holders of Equity Shares may be restricted in their ability to exercise pre-emptive rights under Indian law and thereby suffer future dilution of their ownership position.

Under the Companies Act, a company incorporated in India must offer its equity shareholders pre-emptive rights to subscribe and pay for a proportionate number of equity shares to maintain their existing ownership percentages prior to issuance of any new equity shares, unless the pre-emptive rights have been waived by the adoption of a special resolution by holders of three-fourths of the equity shares voting on such resolution.

However, if the law of the jurisdiction that you are in does not permit the exercise of such pre-emptive rights without our filing an offering document or registration statement with the applicable authority in such jurisdiction, you will be unable to exercise such pre-emptive rights, unless we make such a filing. If we elect not to file a registration statement, the new securities may be issued to a custodian, who may sell the securities for your benefit. The value such custodian receives on the sale of any such securities and the related transaction costs cannot be predicted. To the extent that you are unable to exercise pre-emptive rights granted in respect of the Equity Shares, your proportional interests in the Company may be reduced.

79. There may be less information available about companies listed on the Indian securities markets compared to information that would be available if we were listed on securities markets in certain other countries.

There may be differences between the level of regulation and monitoring of the Indian securities markets and the activities of investors, brokers and other participants and that of the markets in the U.S. and certain other countries. SEBI governs the Indian capital market (along with the Indian stock exchanges, which also govern the companies whose securities are listed with them) and has issued regulations and guidelines on disclosure requirements, insider trading, substantial acquisitions and takeovers of listed companies and other matters. There may, however, be less publicly available information about companies listed on an Indian stock exchange compared to information that would be available if that company was listed on a securities market in certain other jurisdictions.

80. Significant differences exist between Indian GAAP and other accounting principles, such as U.S. GAAP and IFRS, which may be material to the financial statements prepared and presented in accordance with SEBI ICDR Regulations contained in this Red Herring Prospectus.

The financial statements included in this Red Herring Prospectus are based on financial information that is based on the audited financial statements that are prepared and presented in conformity with Indian GAAP and restated in accordance with the SEBI ICDR Regulations, and no attempt has been made to reconcile any of the information given in this Red Herring Prospectus to any other principles or to base it on any other standards. Indian GAAP differs from accounting principles with which prospective investors may be familiar in other countries, such as U.S. GAAP and IFRS. Significant differences exist between Indian GAAP and U.S. GAAP and IFRS, which may be material to the financial information prepared and presented in accordance with Indian GAAP contained in this Red Herring Prospectus. Accordingly, the degree to which the financial information included in this Red Herring Prospectus will provide meaningful information is dependent on familiarity with Indian GAAP, the Companies Act and the SEBI ICDR Regulations. Any reliance by persons not familiar with Indian GAAP on the financial disclosures presented in this Red Herring Prospectus should accordingly be limited.

81. There is no existing market for our Equity Shares, and a market with adequate liquidity may not develop. Our stock price may fluctuate after the Offer and, as a result, you may lose a significant part or all of your investment.

Prior to the Offer, there has been no public market for our Equity Shares. Listing and quotation does not guarantee that a market for our Equity Shares will develop, or if developed, the liquidity of such market for the Equity Shares. In addition, immediately after the Offer, only 11% of our share capital will be available for trading on the stock exchanges. The trading price of our Equity Shares may fluctuate after the Offer due to a wide variety of factors, including:

- fluctuation in the stock price of our listed Promoter;
- volatility in the Indian and global securities market or in the Indian Rupee's value relative to the U.S. dollar or the Euro;
- our results of operations and performance;
- perceptions about our future performance or the performance of CRO companies generally;

- performance of our competitors and the perception in the market about investments in the CRO sector;
- significant developments in the regulation of pharmaceuticals and biotechnology in our key markets;
- adverse media reports on our Company or the Indian CRO industry;
- changes in the estimates of our performance or recommendations by financial analysts;
- significant developments in India's economic liberalisation and deregulation policies; and
- significant developments in India's fiscal and environmental regulations.

Further, the Offer Price will be determined by us in consultation with the BRLMs and may differ significantly from the price at which our Equity Shares will trade subsequent to completion of the Offer.

82. You will not be able to sell immediately on an Indian Stock Exchange any of the Equity Shares you are allotted in the Offer.

Under the SEBI ICDR Regulations, we are permitted to list the Equity Shares within 12 working days of the Bid/Offer Closing Date. Consequently, the Equity Shares you purchase in the Offer may not be credited to your dematerialised electronic account with Depository Participants until approximately 12 working days after the Bid/Offer Closing Date. You can start trading in the Equity Shares only after they have been credited to your dematerialised electronic account and final listing and trading approvals are received from the Stock Exchanges. There can be no assurance that final listing and trading approvals will be obtained from the Stock Exchanges on time or at all. Further, there can be no assurance that the Equity Shares allocated to you will be credited to your dematerialised electronic account, or that trading in the Equity Shares will commence within the specified time periods. In addition, pursuant to India regulations, certain actions are required to be completed before the Equity Shares can be listed and trading may commence. Investors' book entry or dematerialised electronic accounts with depository participants in India are expected to be credited only after the date on which the offer and allotment is approved by our Board of Directors. There can be no assurance that the Equity Shares allocated to prospective Investors will be credited to their dematerialised electronic accounts, or that trading will commence on time after allotment has been approved by our Board of Directors, or at all.

83. We cannot guarantee the accuracy of third-party statistical, financial and other data or information in this Red Herring Prospectus which may be incomplete or unreliable.

Certain data relating to India, its economy or the industries in which we operate as contained in this Red Herring Prospectus are subject to the caveat that the statistical and other data upon which such discussions are based may be incomplete or unreliable which have been assessed and quantified internally by our Company as no other credible third party sources are available for such data. We have not independently verified data from industry publications and other sources and therefore cannot assure that they are complete or reliable. Although we believe that the data can be considered to be reliable, their accuracy, completeness and underlying assumptions are not guaranteed and their dependability cannot be assured. While we have taken reasonable care in the reproduction of the information, the information has not been prepared or independently verified by us, each of the BRLMs or any of our or their respective affiliates or advisors and, therefore, we make no representation or warranty, express or implied, as to the accuracy or completeness of such facts and statistics, which may not be consistent with other information compiled within or outside India. Due to possibly flawed or ineffective collection methods or discrepancies between published information and market practice and other problems, the statistics herein may be inaccurate or may not be comparable to statistics produced for other economies and should not be unduly relied upon. Further, there is no assurance that they are stated or compiled on the same basis or with the same degree of accuracy as may be the case elsewhere. Statements from third parties that involve estimates are subject to change, and actual amounts may differ materially from those included in this Red Herring Prospectus.

84. There is no public market for our Equity Shares outside India.

After the Offer, there will be no public market for our Equity Shares in the United States, the United Kingdom or any country other than India. The Offer Price will be determined by the Selling Shareholders in consultation with the BRLMs and we cannot assure you that the Offer Price will correspond to the price at which the Equity Shares will trade subsequent to the Offer. Our outstanding Equity Shares may be sold in the United States only pursuant to a registration statement under the Securities Act or an exemption from the registration requirements of the Securities Act. This may also affect the liquidity of the Equity Shares and restrict your ability to sell them.

85. Certain of the Equity Shares are “restricted securities” within the meaning of Rule 144(a)(3) under the Securities Act and may not be sold publicly within the United States.

The Equity Shares to be offered and sold in the United States pursuant to an exemption from registration are “restricted securities” within the meaning of Rule 144(a)(3) under the Securities Act. Restricted securities may not be sold publicly within the United States (although the Equity Shares may be sold to other qualified institutional buyers (as defined in Rule 144A) pursuant to Rule 144A resales) unless they are registered under the Securities Act or sold pursuant to Rule 144 or another exemption from registration. Prospective investors are urged to consult with their own legal advisors regarding any contemplated investment in the Equity Shares, including in relation to compliance with applicable resale restrictions.

86. Your ability to acquire and sell our Equity Shares in jurisdictions outside India is restricted by the distribution and transfer restrictions contained herein.

No actions have been taken to permit a public offering of the Equity Shares in any jurisdiction except India. As such, the Equity Shares have not and will not be registered under the Securities Act, any state securities laws or the law of any jurisdiction other than India. Furthermore, the Equity Shares are subject to restrictions on transferability and resale. You are required to inform yourself about and observe these restrictions. We, our representatives and our agents will not be obligated to recognise any acquisition, transfer or resale of the Equity Shares made other than in compliance with the restrictions contained herein. For details, see the section “Restrictions on Foreign Ownership of Indian Securities” on page 320.

CRO Industry

Contract Research Organisations (“CROs”) offer outsourced services to support discovery and development for R&D driven organisations across industrial sectors like pharmaceuticals, biotechnology, biopharmaceuticals, nutraceuticals, animal health, agro-chemicals, cosmetics and electronics. CRO services span the range of R&D activities from New Molecular Entity (“NME”) discovery, development and manufacturing. Growth in the CRO market has historically been driven by growth in R&D spending and increased outsourcing of R&D activities.

The discovery and development process generally involves (1) discovery (target identification, target validation, lead generation, lead optimisation and lead selection), (2) development (pre-clinical testing, clinical testing and regulatory filings with the FDA and other relevant regulators), and (3) manufacture (process development and early stage manufacture) leading to commercialisation (manufacturing and post-marketing follow-up studies on impact and side effects).

Frost & Sullivan estimates that global R&D expenditure for the pharmaceutical industry in 2014 was approximately US$139 billion, of which US$105 billion could have potentially been outsourced (Source: Frost & Sullivan Report). According to IQ4I Research & Consultancy Pvt. Ltd (“IQ4I”), outsourcing penetration of CRO discovery services in 2013 is estimated to be 51.9% of the global pharmaceutical and biotech industry but poised to grow to 65.7% in 2015, reflecting a CAGR of 12.5% (Source: IQ4I Report). According to the Frost & Sullivan Report, outsourcing penetration for the CRO market for development services as of 2014 is estimated to be 27.3% of the potential outsourcing market for development services, but poised to grow to 38.7% in 2019, reflecting a CAGR of 12.5%.

Although the CRO industry has grown substantially in recent years, the opportunity to further penetrate potential outsourcing markets provides an opportunity for the industry to increase its share of global R&D expenditures.

The global CRO market for discovery services was estimated to be US$14.7 billion in 2014 and is expected to reach US$22.7 billion in 2018, reflecting a CAGR of 11.5% (2014-2018), according to the IQ4I Report. The global CRO market for development services was estimated to be US$28.8 billion in 2014 and is expected to reach US$44.6 billion in 2018, reflecting a CAGR (2014–2018) of 11.6%, according to the Frost & Sullivan Report.

Overview of CRO Services

CROs offer clients an opportunity to manage costs, have flexible operations and realise efficiencies in R&D and related functions. As an industry, CROs have expanded their service offerings over time to meet growing needs for full-service outsourcing across the full spectrum of R&D and related activities. In practice, however, most CRO service providers specialise to some degree based on the needs of their clients and the market in which they operate.

CRO service providers will typically compete in various segments of (1) Discovery, (2) Development and (3) Manufacturing, as reflected below.

Discovery

Discovery covers the process from target identification to target validation to lead generation and lead optimisation. The focus at this stage is to narrow down thousands of compounds to a few hundred, promising possibilities for further research and development. Typically scientists begin with basic research on the physiological target and develop hypothetical mechanisms of action which could potentially bring about the desired outcome. Following basic research, researchers look for a lead compound—a promising molecule that could influence the target in line with the projected hypotheses and potentially become a medicine. Researchers do this in various ways, including creating a molecule, using high-throughput screening techniques to select a few promising possibilities from among thousands of potential candidates, finding compounds from nature, and using biotechnology to genetically engineer living systems to produce disease-fighting molecules.

Some of the key steps in the NME discovery process are described below:

- Target Validation: Target validation involves intensive in vitro, as well as in vivo studies that provide information on the effects of the pharmacological intervention. The result of these efforts helps establish sufficient knowledge so that physiologically relevant model systems could be developed into assays for downstream screening.
- Lead Generation: The aim of this stage of the work is to refine each hit series to try to produce more potent and selective compounds which possess properties adequate to examine their efficacy in any in vivo models that are available.
- Lead Optimisation and Selection: Lead optimisation and selection seeks to identify and synthesise lead compounds, new analogs with improved potency, reduced off-target activities, and physiochemical/metabolic properties suggestive of reasonable in vivo pharmacokinetics through chemical modification of the hit structure. Modifications are chosen by employing knowledge of the structure-activity relationship (SAR) as well as structure-based design if structural information about the target is available.

Development

After the NME discovery stage narrows down thousands of compounds to a few hundred promising possibilities, these molecules enter the development stage. The development stage spans preclinical and clinical testing in addition to drug substance and drug product development.

The key stages in the process are described as below:

- Preclinical Testing: This step involves exhaustive laboratory and animal experimentation of the pre-clinical drug candidates for safety and therapeutic effect in order to determine whether a compound is suitable for human testing. The focus during this stage is largely on generating data around safety and preliminary efficacy by testing the NMEs on relevant animal models. This process may take several years to come up with a molecule considered suitable for human testing. The data generated during this stage is a critical part of the dossier which gets submitted to the relevant regulatory bodies in order to receive approval for the concerned NME for moving to clinical trials.

- Clinical Trials: Drug candidates approved by the relevant regulatory body are typically referred to as an Investigational New Drug Application (“IND”). INDs proceed to clinical trials. Broadly, clinical trials are studies in humans to determine the safety, efficacy and suitable drug dosage of potential drug candidates. The major phases in clinical trials are described below:
 - Phase I trials test a compound in a small group (e.g., 20 to 100) of healthy volunteers to determine the safety of the compound.
 - Phase II trials test the compound in a somewhat larger group (e.g., 100 to 500) of volunteers who have the disease or condition the compound is designed to treat. Phase II trials determine the effectiveness of the compound, examine possible short-term side effects and risks, and identify optimal dose and schedule.
 - Phase III trials test the compound in a much larger group (e.g., 1,000 to 5,000) of participants to generate statistically significant information about safety and efficacy and to determine the overall benefit-risk ratio.
 - Bio-analytical testing of clinical trial samples generated during the aforementioned studies to quantify the safety, efficacy and associated data related to the clinical trial end points. The data generated here helps in evaluating the success or failure of the trial with respect to its predefined objectives.
- Drug Substance Development: Drug substance development covers early stage and late stage process development and optimisation. This process starts at a candidate selection stage, with small quantities of drug substance being manufactured under non-GMP conditions for toxicology evaluation and under GMP conditions for initial clinical studies. Depending on the outcome of these studies, larger quantities of drug substance are manufactured for late stage clinical programs. As an NME passes through the clinical development continuum, increasing emphasis is placed on developing a robust, scalable, safe and efficient manufacturing process which can be used for subsequent commercialisation of the drug.
- Drug Product Development: Drug product development covers early stage and late stage formulation development and manufacture. The drug substance can be formulated in a variety of forms, depending on the preferred mode of administration. The formulations tend to be simpler for preclinical and Phase I trials. As the molecule moves further along the development cycle, the formulation becomes increasingly nuanced in line with the data being generated through the trials. The key formulation types are oral solid dosage forms (tablets, capsules, drug-in-capsule), oral liquid dosage forms (solutions and suspensions), injectable dosage forms (solutions and lyophilised), and modified release oral dosage forms (functionally coated mini-tablets, drug layered beads as well as matrix tablet formulations).

Manufacturing

NMEs can be used by millions of people or sometimes by a small, select population, and often are on the market for many years. Consequently, manufacturing facilities must be carefully designed so that the commercialised product can be consistently and efficiently produced at the highest level of quality.

Accordingly, manufacturing facilities must be constructed to the high standards to ensure safety and quality in the manufacturing process. For example, pharmaceutical companies must adhere to FDA or other relevant regulations, and must upgrade facilities when new NMEs are approved, since each new NME is manufactured differently.

SUMMARY OF OUR BUSINESS

Overview

We are one of the leading India-based contract research organisations (“CRO”), offering a suite of integrated, end-to-end discovery and development services for novel molecular entities (“NMEs”) across industrial sectors including pharmaceutical, biotechnology, agrochemicals, consumer health, animal health, cosmetic and nutrition companies. Our service offerings in discovery and development cover multiple domains across small molecules, large molecules, antibody-drug conjugates (“ADC”) and oligonucleotides. Our integrated discovery and development platforms help organisations conduct discovery (from hit to candidate selection), development (including pre-clinical and clinical studies, analytical and bio-analytical evaluation, formulation development and stability studies) and pilot manufacturing (scale-up, pre-clinical and clinical supplies) under one roof with a distinctive economic advantage. Our service offerings also support the development of bio-similar and generic molecules. In the near term, we intend to forward integrate into commercial-scale manufacturing of NMEs.

Outsourcing discovery and development work is an established alternative to in-house development among multinational organisations. While traditionally multinational organisations had looked at outsourcing as a way to reduce their research and development (“R&D”) expenditures, the R&D outsourcing industry is evolving from a mere leveraging of cost arbitrage to enhancing R&D productivity and reducing the time to market.

According to the Frost & Sullivan Report, the global R&D expenditure for the pharmaceutical industry in 2014 was approximately US$139 billion, of which US$105 billion could be potentially outsourced. According to the IQ4I Report, the global CRO market for discovery services, our core focus area in the CRO sector, was estimated to be US$14.7 billion in 2014 and is expected to reach US$22.7 billion in 2018, reflecting a CAGR of 11.5% (2014-18).

As an experienced CRO with a proven track record of providing quality NME discovery, development and manufacturing services and continued focus on reliability, responsiveness and protection of client’s intellectual property, we believe we are well-positioned to benefit from the expected growth in the CRO industry. We offer an attractive variable cost alternative to the traditionally fixed cost, in-house, resource intensive business model of R&D focussed organisations.

We offer services through flexible business models that are customised to our client’s requirements. These range from a full-time equivalent (“FTE”) to a fee-for-service (“FFS”) model, or a combination thereof. During fiscal 2015, we serviced 221 clients, ranging from multinational corporations to start-ups, including eight of the top 10 global pharmaceutical companies by sales for 2014. (Source for top 10 global pharmaceutical companies by sales for 2014 — IMS Health MIDAS, December 2014) We have several long-term relationships and multi-year contracts with our clients, including three long-duration multi-disciplinary partnerships, each with a dedicated research centre, with three of the world’s leading global healthcare organisations Bristol-Myers Squibb Co. (“BMS”), Abbott Laboratories (Singapore) Pte. Ltd. (“Abbott”) and Baxter International Inc. (“Baxter”).

We deliver our services through a combination of scientific talent, globally accredited systems and R&D infrastructure. As of March 31, 2015, our tangible fixed assets (gross block) were ₹9,311 million. Our laboratory and manufacturing facilities are spread over more than 900,000 sq. ft. and located in Bengaluru, India. As of May 31, 2015, we had 2,122 scientists, including 258 Ph.Ds. and 1,665 scientists with a Master’s degree.

We were incorporated in 1993 and are headquartered in Bengaluru, India. We are a subsidiary of Biocon Limited (“Biocon”), a global biopharmaceutical enterprise focused on delivering affordable formulations and compounds. Biocon has been listed on the Indian stock exchanges since 2004 and as of May 31, 2015 had a market cap of ₹90.3 billion on the BSE as well as the NSE. Over the years, Biocon has successfully brought to the market several affordable and alternative therapeutic drugs in the areas of diabetes, oncology and auto-immune diseases. Biocon is currently focused on bringing its portfolio of generic insulins and bio-similar monoclonal antibodies to global markets.

For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015, we generated total revenue of ₹8,716 million, restated profit of ₹1,750 million and EBITDA of ₹2,928 million. For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2014, we generated total revenue of ₹7,077 million, restated profit of ₹1,348 million and EBITDA of ₹2,226 million. For the three fiscal years ended March 31, 2015, our total revenue, restated profit and EBITDA grew at a CAGR of 27.7%, 35.1% and 28.3%, respectively.

Effective April 1, 2014, our subsidiary Clinigene International Limited (“Clinigene”), through which we have provided our clinical research and clinical trial services, was amalgamated with us. Prior to this date, our results did not include the results of Clinigene.

For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015, our revenue from the sale of services was ₹8,427 million. For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015, we derived 36.1% and 63.9% of our revenue from the sale of services from long-term contracts with dedicated infrastructure and other contracts, respectively. For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015, we derived 95.1% and 4.9% of our revenue from the sale of services to customers outside India and from customers in India, respectively.

The charts below present the split of our revenue from the sale of services for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015 between long-term contracts with dedicated infrastructure and other contracts and between customers outside India and customers in India, respectively:

Strengths

We believe we are well-positioned to capture market opportunities and to benefit from the expected growth in the R&D outsourcing market through our competitive strengths, which principally include the following:

World-class infrastructure, systems and processes that comply with quality standards to serve international markets and successful audits by regulatory authorities such as the FDA and EMA

As of March 31, 2015, our tangible fixed assets (gross block) were ₹9,311 million. Our laboratory and manufacturing facilities are spread over more than 900,000 sq. ft. and are located in Bengaluru, India. We believe our infrastructure, along with high standards of regulatory compliance and quality services, provide us with a sustainable competitive advantage. We operate our laboratory and manufacturing facilities to high standards that are consistent with the requirements of our large global clients. Our research facilities and systems are certified with ISO 9001:2008, ISO 14001:2004 and OHSAS 18001:2007 standards. Our pre-clinical research facilities are Good Laboratory Practices (“GLP”) certified and accredited by Association for Assessment and Accreditation of Laboratory Animal Care (“AAALAC”). Our clinical facilities are GLP compliant, National Accreditation Board for Testing and Calibration Laboratories (“NABL”), College of American Pathologists (“CAP”) and Central Drugs Standard Control Organisation (“CDSCO”) accredited and have undergone multiple FDA audits. In 2014, we successfully completed an FDA pre-approval inspection of one of our manufacturing facilities. In 2010 and 2013, we also successfully completed EMA audits of our bio-analytical and clinical facilities. In addition to regulatory inspections, our facilities and systems are regularly inspected by our clients.

Talented and qualified pool of scientists and an experienced management

We have an experienced and qualified team of scientists across multiple disciplines. As of May 31, 2015, 90.6% of our scientist pool of 2,122 scientists had a Master’s degree or a Ph.D. We believe our position as an industry leader represents a significant competitive advantage in attracting and retaining high-quality scientists required to successfully execute our innovative business model and to differentiate our service offerings from those of other CROs. We recruit primarily from the large scientific talent pool in India as well as from overseas, in particular, Indian nationals returning home after having studied or worked overseas with significant educational or research industry experience. For the three fiscal years ended March 31, 2013, March 31, 2014 and March 31, 2015, we had an average attrition rate of 14.3%.

According to India's University Grants Commission's annual report for 2012-2013, approximately 4 million students enrol annually for undergraduate education in the sciences. We believe there is also a large pool of students who seek to pursue their career in India after obtaining scientific qualifications (Master's, Ph.D.'s and post-doctoral) overseas. This makes India an attractive destination for world-class talent which, when combined with modern R&D enabling infrastructure, makes a value proposition for multinational organisations looking to outsource R&D.

We are led by a dedicated and experienced executive management team that has a median of 20 years of experience across global clinical research, pharmaceutical and life sciences industries. Our team has leveraged its deep knowledge and wide network of industry relationships to drive significant growth in revenue and earnings over the past five years.

Integrated service offerings across multiple domains with a proven track-record of successful delivery, reliability, cost efficiency and client satisfaction

We have evolved from being a discovery chemistry and discovery biology-focused CRO to an integrated provider of discovery and development services for NMEs across a range of domains including small molecules, large molecule biologics, ADCs and oligonucleotides. The depth and breadth of our scientific capabilities and service offerings provide us multiple entry points during the life cycle of our clients' molecules across the discovery and development process. Our broad discovery and development capabilities also enable us to serve a number of industrial sectors beyond the pharmaceutical and biotechnology sectors.

We believe our operational track record in successful delivery of projects, responsiveness, process innovation, turnaround times, and productivity has facilitated the strengthening of our client base. Over the years, we have built significant credibility and a regulatory track record in various therapeutic platforms and service models. This has helped us attract a wider range of new clientele as well as deepen our existing client collaborations through successive renewal and expansion of contractual arrangements. An example of this can be found in our research collaboration with BMS, which since fiscal 2009 has produced nine drug candidates for further study and helped BMS reduce time and costs associated with advancing new compounds to first-in-human studies. There are also other examples of projects that have grown in size and where our working relationships with our clients have become more strategic.

Our flexible business models allow us to meet the discovery and development needs of a wide range of clients, from small biotechnology companies to large pharmaceutical companies. Through more than 20 years of experience, we have developed significant expertise managing large integrated collaborations and executing complex projects. In addition, we have been able to take advantage of India's large, low-cost scientific talent pool to deliver our services to multinational companies at competitive rates, especially when compared with costs for comparable services in developed countries.

Attractive and diversified client base with several client collaborations

During fiscal 2015, we serviced 221 clients, ranging from multinational corporations to start-ups, including eight of the top 10 global pharmaceutical companies by sales for 2014. We have longstanding, extensive relationships with multinational clients such as BMS, Baxter, and Merck & Co, as well as emerging small- to mid-sized companies such as Achillion Pharmaceuticals, Inc., Aquinox Pharmaceuticals, Inc. and Saniona AB. We continually strive towards strengthening our client relationships by ensuring that our service offerings keep pace with our clients' requirements. For example, in fiscal 2009, we established a dedicated centre for BMS to support their R&D across multiple disciplines. Over time, this dedicated centre has become their largest R&D presence in Asia with more than 400 scientists. The capabilities and therapeutic focus of this R&D centre have evolved in line with the shift in BMS' R&D strategy. BMS has also recently extended this engagement to 2020. Our integrated service offerings coupled with consistent performance and delivery has helped us continuously renew our client engagements as well. To illustrate, eight of our top 10 clients for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015 had been working with us for at least five years. Regardless of size, our clients seek innovative product development, superior quality and skilled scientific knowledge to support their R&D needs.

Commitment to protection of our clients' intellectual property and data confidentiality

Protection of intellectual property and data confidentiality is integral to the success of R&D outsourcing. Since our inception, we have made it a strategic priority to safeguard our clients' proprietary rights by using well-established and strictly enforced intellectual property protection procedures. We have a zero-tolerance policy for confidentiality breaches and data leakages. We implement this policy through a combination of solutions including technology, work-flow and information segregation as well as legal remedies. All our employees are required to sign non-disclosure agreements when they join our Company. Our entire physical infrastructure is access controlled, with access granted only on a need-to-work basis. Information regarding the projects being undertaken is segregated and shared on a need-to know-basis post discussions with our clients. Work flows are designed to minimise overlaps and sharing of information between various groups. Data sharing instruments such as USB drives, external email and cloud access are restricted and monitored vigilantly. Furthermore, each of our three long-term clients, BMS, Abbott and Baxter, have a dedicated, ring-fenced infrastructure with secured connectivity in addition to our Company-wide intellectual property protection protocols. This physical separation of client projects ensures enhanced security and protection of our clients' intellectual property. We have not experienced any material breach of confidentiality to date.

Financial stability and stable cash flows

Discovery and development is an extensive process which builds a composite of information drawn from multiple disciplines. Typically organisations that engage in outsourcing for discovery and development are looking for a long-term engagement where a CRO partner can support them through the entire process. We have the financial stability and steady operational cash flows to enable the extension of our platforms in line with the present and future needs of our clientele. Our long term collaborations with certain clients lead to predictable and stable cash flows. Our strong balance sheet and financial performance has helped us in reassuring clients that we will be able to support their NME development with dedicated investments in terms of both capabilities and capacities. Over the years, we have invested in specialised services and equipment and dedicated infrastructure to support these growing needs. Our ability to make these investments helps strengthen trust and engagement with our clients, which enhances our ability to retain them and extend our engagement across multiple platforms. As at March 31, 2015, our Debt / Equity ratio was 0.18. For fiscal 2015, our EBITDA was ₹2,928 million.

Strategies

Our Company's vision is to be a world-class partner delivering innovative and scientific solutions for our clients. Accordingly, the key components of our strategy to achieve this vision are as follow:

"Follow the molecule" by providing our clients with integrated services

We plan to build on our success in integrated services to "follow" our clients' molecules across discovery, development and manufacturing. We believe that we are well-positioned as a one-stop shop for our clients to advance their R&D programmes from the discovery stage through preclinical and clinical trials and, with our new planned manufacturing facilities to support them through the commercialisation process. For example, we have worked on several of our clients' molecules from lead selection stage through phase I clinical trials and beyond, providing services encompassing various multi-disciplinary activities such as drug substance process development and current Good Manufacturing Practices ("cGMP") compliant manufacturing (from gram scale to multi-kg scale), formulation and analytical development and stability studies.

Expand capabilities and capacities while enhancing efficiencies in R&D services

We are establishing new capabilities and augmenting our existing services across the discovery and development continuum in line with the changing requirements of the global R&D focussed industries. For example, in 2009 we invested in biologics development capabilities in line with the increasing focus on large molecules by global organisations. We are now investing further in this area to drive our growth and capitalise on the changing pipeline mix of our clients. Additionally, we have invested in new capabilities such as the discovery and development of ADCs and oligonucleotides. We have also established a bio-analytical centre to undertake high-end analysis which supplements our clinical services.

We continuously invest in capacity augmentation. In September 2014, our new 75,000 sq. ft. stability centre became operational and our 200,000 sq. ft. R&D centre, which will service increased requirements for discovery chemistry, discovery biology and dedicated centres, is scheduled to become operational in fiscal 2016. We are also in the process of setting up additional capacities in formulation development and biologics manufacturing.

We continue to enhance operational efficiency and increase productivity by leveraging technology, enhancing physical infrastructure, and improving processes. We have recently implemented an enterprise-wide SAP platform to facilitate business growth through efficient use of resources, creation of synergies and monitoring of performance. We continue to evaluate other measures including high through-put automation technologies to enhance efficiencies and improve performance.

Scale-up our manufacturing capabilities

We intend to evolve from a CRO into a Contract Research and Manufacturing Services (“CRAMS”) organisation with commercial-scale manufacturing capabilities, as we leverage our existing relationships with clients and provide forward integration on the discovery and development continuum. We currently manufacture developmental batches of both small and large molecules to support clinical trials for multiple clients. In the area of small molecules, we have multiple client-programmes that are in late-stage clinical development. We intend to leverage our longstanding client relationships and our successful regulatory track-record, including with the FDA, to become a commercial manufacturing partner of these clients. We have recently entered into three long-term contracts with two existing clients for commercial manufacturing of their novel small molecules. Currently one of these molecules is under late stage development, while the other two are at various stages of clinical development. We also intend to attract new clients for commercial manufacturing opportunities.

We have commenced the process of establishing a new commercial-scale facility in Mangaluru to manufacture novel small molecules for innovator companies in pharmaceutical, agrochemical and other industrial sectors. We have also expanded our current small molecule manufacturing facilities in Bengaluru to meet the interim manufacturing needs of our clients. Additionally, we are in the process of expanding our large molecule manufacturing capabilities by establishing a new unit in Bengaluru.

Engage, expand and extend client collaborations

We have seen an increasing trend amongst multinational companies to limit their outsourcing activities to a select group of CROs. This select group of CROs tends to have a broad range of integrated capabilities enabling clients to deepen and strengthen their engagement across multiple services. (Source: IQ4I Report) We believe that this trend will become more prevalent across the biotechnology and pharmaceutical industries, and we believe our track record of success and growing integrated service platforms position us to take advantage of such opportunities.

We intend to further leverage our successful delivery, quality performance and track record of successful audits by regulatory authorities such as the FDA and EMA and our clients and intellectual property protection to strengthen our client relationships. We believe there are significant opportunities to expand and extend our current collaborations by expanding the range and depth of discovery and development solutions used by those clients. We intend to do this by offering additional tailored solutions to their R&D and commercial pipeline.

In order to ensure we provide the most value to our clients and pursue new opportunities, we intend to continue to follow a targeted account management strategy based on a partnering approach and focussing on growth potential. Targeted client engagement including personalised project managers and visits to our facilities by clients can help expand existing client collaborations and win new clients. We will continue to pursue opportunities to establish dedicated centres to meet our clients’ long-term discovery and development and manufacturing requirements.

While pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies will continue to remain our core client base, we intend to deepen our penetration in allied sectors. We intend to extend our core competencies of discovery and development of small and large molecules to support organisations across sectors which have similar R&D requirements. This will include sectors such as nutraceuticals, animal health, agro-chemicals, cosmetics and electronics.

Illustration of Book Building Process and Price Discovery Process

Investors should note that this example is solely for illustrative purposes and is not specific to the Offer; it also excludes Bidding by Anchor Investors.

Bidders can bid at any price within the price band. For instance, assume a price band of ₹20 to ₹24 per share, issue size of 3,000 equity shares and receipt of five bids from bidders, details of which are shown in the table below. A graphical representation of the consolidated demand and price would be made available at Bidding centres during the Bidding period. The illustrative book given below shows the demand for the equity shares of the issuer company at various prices and is collated from bids received from various investors.

Bid Quantity	Bid Amount (₹)	Cumulative Quantity	Subscription
500	24	500	16.67%
1,000	23	1,500	50.00%
1,500	22	3,000	100.00%
2,000	21	5,000	166.67%
2,500	20	7,500	250.00%

The price discovery is a function of demand at various prices. The highest price at which the issuer is able to issue the desired number of equity shares is the price at which the book cuts off, i.e., ₹22.00 in the above example. The issuer, in consultation with the book running lead managers, will finalise the issue price at or below such cut-off price, i.e., at or below ₹22.00. All bids at or above this issue price and cut-off bids are valid bids and are considered for allocation in the respective categories.

Allotment to Retail Individual Investors and Minimum Bid Lots

In the event, the Bids received from Retail Individual Investors exceeds 7,000,000 Equity Shares, then the maximum number of Retail Individual Bidders who can be allocated/ Allotted the minimum Bid Lot will be computed by dividing the total number of the Equity Shares available for allocation/ Allotment to Retail Individual Bidders by the minimum Bid Lot (“Maximum RIB Allottees”). The allocation/ Allotment to Retail Individual Bidders will then be made in the following manner:

- In the event the number of Retail Individual Bidders who have submitted valid Bids in the Offer is equal to or less than Maximum RIB Allottees, (i) Retail Individual Bidders shall be allocated the minimum Bid Lot; and (ii) the balance Equity Shares, if any, remaining in the Retail Category shall be allocated on a proportionate basis to the Retail Individual Bidders who have received allocation as per (i) above for less than the Equity Shares Bid by them (i.e. who have Bid for more than the minimum Bid Lot)
- In the event the number of Retail Individual Bidders who have submitted valid Bids in the Offer is more than Maximum RIB Allottees, the Retail Individual Bidders (in that category) who will then be allocated minimum Bid Lot shall be determined on draw of lots basis

For details, see “Offer Procedure” on page 309.

Underwriting Agreement

After the determination of the Offer Price and allocation of Equity Shares, but prior to the filing of the Prospectus with the RoC, our Company and the Selling Shareholder will enter into an Underwriting Agreement with the Underwriters for the Equity Shares proposed to be offered through the Offer. [●]	[●]	[●]

In the event of any default in payment, the respective Underwriter, in addition to other obligations defined in the Underwriting Agreement, will also be required to procure purchases for or purchase of the Equity Shares to the extent of the defaulted amount in accordance with the Underwriting Agreement. The Underwriting Agreement has not been executed as on the date of this Red Herring Prospectus and will be executed after the determination of the Offer Price and allocation of Equity Shares, but prior to the filing of the Prospectus with the RoC.

Each Option entitles the holder to purchase one Equity Share at a price of ₹22.50 per Equity Share. STATEMENT OF POSSIBLE TAX BENEFITS AVAILABLE TO THE COMPANY AND ITS SHAREHOLDERS Outlined below are the possible special and general tax benefits available to Syngene International Limited ('the Company') and the shareholders of the Company under the Income Tax Act, 1961 ('Act'), presently in force in India as identified/prepared by the Company. Several of these benefits are dependent on the Company or its shareholders fulfilling the conditions prescribed under the relevant provisions of the Act. Hence, the ability of the Company or its shareholders to derive the tax benefits is dependent upon fulfilling such conditions, which based on the business imperatives, the Company or its shareholders may or may not choose to fulfill.

A. Benefits to the Company under the Act

The Company will be entitled to deduction under the sections mentioned hereunder from its total income chargeable to Income Tax.

1. Special tax benefits

The following specific tax benefits could be available to the Company after fulfilling conditions as per the respective provisions of the Act.

Profits and Gains derived out of exports by Unit set up in a Special Economic Zone

As per the provisions of Section 10AA of the Act, the Company is eligible to claim deduction in respect of the profits derived from export of articles/ things/ services from its units set up in Special Economic Zones, if it begins to manufacture or produce articles or things or provide any services during the previous year relevant to any assessment year commencing on or after 1 April 2006. The deduction is available to the extent of 100% of eligible profits for the initial 5 years followed by 50% of the eligible profits for the next 5 years. Further, a deduction to the extent of 50% of the eligible profits is available where the Company credits a corresponding amount to a 'Special Economic Zone Re-investment Reserve Account' to be utilized in the specified manner. The benefit is available subject to fulfillment of prescribed conditions.

However, such profits derived by the Company are not eligible to be excluded in the computation of 'Book Profits' under Minimum Alternative Tax ('MAT'). Nonetheless, such MAT paid on the book profits of the Company computed in terms of the provisions of Act, read with the Companies Act, 2013 would be eligible for credit against tax liability arising under normal provisions of Act.

Further, such credit would not be allowed to be carried forward and set off beyond 10 assessment years immediately succeeding the assessment year in which such credit becomes allowable.

Additional Depreciation

In terms of Section 32(1)(ia) of the Act, the Company is entitled to additional depreciation at the rate of 20% of the actual cost of new plant and machinery acquired and installed on or after 31 March 2005. However, the benefit under this section is subject to certain conditions (such as conduct of 'eligible business', etc) and restricted to specified assets acquired by the Company.

Finance Act, 2015 has amended Section 32 with effect from Assessment Year 2016-17 to provide that if a specified asset has been acquired and put to use for a period of less than 180 days in a previous year and the claim of additional depreciation in respect of the same has been restricted to 50% during that year, the Company will be entitled to claim the balance additional depreciation in respect of that asset in the subsequent assessment year.

Investment Allowance in respect of newly acquired plant and machinery

In terms of Section 32AC of the Act, the Company is eligible to an allowance at the rate of 15% of specified assets acquired and installed during the period 1 April 2013 to 31 March 2015 (Assessment Year 2014-15 and 2015-16), if the total investment in such specified assets by the Company exceeds Rs 100 Crores and subject to other conditions (such as conduct of 'eligible business', etc) as may be prescribed. This allowance is not required to be deducted from the written down value of the block of assets. Therefore, the entitlement is over and above the cost incurred by the Company which is otherwise allowed over the years as depreciation.

Further, Finance Act, 2014 has extended the benefit of this section to mid-scale companies, providing for deduction at the rate of 15% of the specified assets acquired and installed during the period 1 April 2014 to 31 March 2017 (Assessment Year 2015-16 and 2017-18), if the investment in such specified assets exceeds Rs 25 Crores in a particular financial year. However, the benefit extended by Finance Act, 2014 shall not be available once the Company is already eligible to claim allowance as stated above.

If any such specified asset, acquired and installed by the Company in accordance with the provisions of Section 32AC of the Act, is sold or otherwise transferred (except in connection with the amalgamation or demerger) within a period of 5 years from the date of its installation, the amount of deduction claimed by the Company shall be deemed to be the income of the Company for the year in which such asset is sold / transferred.

2. General Tax Benefits

(a) Business income

- The Company is entitled to claim depreciation on specified tangible and intangible assets owned (wholly or partly) by it and used for the purpose of their business as per provisions of Section 32 of the Act.
- Business losses, if any, for an assessment year can be carried forward and set off against business profits for 8 subsequent assessment years. Unabsorbed depreciation, if any, for an assessment year can be carried forward and set-off against any source of income in subsequent assessment years without any limitation of time as per provisions of Section 32 of the Act.
- As per the provisions of Section 35D of the Act, any specified preliminary expenditure incurred by an Indian company before commencement of business or after commencement of business in connection with extension of an undertaking or setting up a new unit shall be allowed a deduction equivalent to one-fifth of such expenditure for each of the five successive previous years beginning with the previous year in which the business is commenced/ extended. However, any deduction in excess of 5% of cost of project/ capital employed would be ignored.

(b) MAT credit

- As per Section 115JAA of the Act, the Company is eligible to claim credit for MAT paid for any assessment year commencing on or after April 1, 2006 against normal income tax payable in subsequent assessment years.
- MAT credit shall be allowed for any assessment year to the extent of difference between the tax paid under Section 115JB and the tax payable as per the normal provisions of the Act for that assessment year. Such MAT credit is available for set-off up to 10 assessment years succeeding the assessment year in which the MAT credit arises in accordance with sub-sections (4) and (5) to Section 115JAA.

(c) Securities Transaction Tax ('STT')

- As per provisions of Section 36(1)(xv) of the Act, STT paid in respect of the taxable securities transactions entered into in the course of the business is allowed as a deduction if the income arising from such taxable securities transactions is included in the income computed under the head 'Profit and gains of business or profession'. Where such deduction is claimed, no further deduction in respect of the said amount is allowed while determining the income chargeable to tax as capital gains.

- However, as per provisions of Section 14A of the Act, expenditure incurred to earn an exempt income shall not be allowed as deduction while determining taxable income.
- The domestic company distributing dividends will be liable to pay dividend distribution tax at the rate of 15%¹ on the amount of dividend declared, distributed or paid till 30 September 2014. This tax is payable by the domestic company notwithstanding that no income tax is payable on its total income. No deduction shall be allowed to the Company or shareholder in respect of the dividend which has been subject to such distribution tax or the tax thereon.
- Further w.e.f. October 1, 2014, Finance Act, 2014, has amended Section 115-O in order to provide that for the purpose of determining the tax on distributed profits payable in accordance with the Section 115-O, any amount which is declared, distributed or paid by any domestic company shall be increased to such amount as would, after reduction of the tax on such increased amount at the rate of 15%, be equal to such distributed profits. In other words, the dividends which are actually received by the shareholders of the domestic company need to be grossed up for the purpose of computing the additional tax, resulting in an effective tax rate of 17.64%² on the amount of dividend declared, distributed or paid.
- As per the provisions of Section 115BBD of the Act, dividend received by an Indian company from a specified foreign company (in which the Indian company holds 26% or more in nominal value of the equity share capital of the foreign company) would be taxable at the concessional rate of 15% on gross basis (plus applicable surcharge and cess). The Finance Act, 2014 has extended the concessional rate of 15% without limiting it to a particular assessment year.
- For removing the cascading effect of dividend distribution tax, while computing the amount of dividend distribution tax payable by a domestic company, the following shall be reduced :
 - dividend received from its subsidiary on which dividend distribution tax has been paid by such subsidiary ;
 - dividend received from its foreign subsidiary on which tax is payable by the domestic company under Section 115BBD.

For the limited purposes of determining dividend distribution tax, a company shall be treated as a subsidiary of another if the latter holds more than half in nominal value of the equity share capital of the former (domestic or foreign).

(e) Buy-back of shares

- As per Section 115QA of the Act, an Indian unlisted company will have to pay 20%² tax on 'distributed income' on buy-back of shares. Distributed income has been defined to mean consideration paid by the Indian unlisted company for purchase of its own shares as reduced by the amount which was received by the Indian unlisted company at the time of issue of such shares. The said provision has come into effect from June 1, 2013.

¹plus a surcharge of 10% on the distribution tax and education cess and secondary and higher education cess of 2% and 1% respectively on the amount of distribution tax and surcharge thereon

² plus a surcharge of 12% on the distribution tax and education cess and secondary and higher education cess of 2% and 1% respectively on the amount of distribution tax and surcharge thereon

- Such tax is payable by the company notwithstanding that no income tax is payable on its total income. No deduction shall be allowed to the company or shareholder in respect of the income which has been subject to such distribution tax or the tax thereon.

(f) Capital gains

(i) Computation of capital gains

- Capital assets are to be categorized into short-term capital assets and long-term capital assets based on the period of holding.
- Capital asset being a share held in a company or any other security listed in a recognized stock exchange in India or unit of the Unit Trust of India or a unit of a mutual fund specified under Section 10(23D) or a zero coupon bonds, held by an assessee for 12 months or less upto the date immediately preceding the date of its transfer, shall be considered to be a Short Term Capital Asset, capital gains arising from transfer of which shall be Short Term Capital Gains ('STCG').
- In respect of any other capital assets, STCG means capital gains arising from the transfer of a capital asset, held by an assessee for 36 months or less.
- Finance Act, 2014 has amended Section 2(42A) of the Act whereby capital assets, being security (other than a unit) listed in a recognized stock exchange in India or unit of the Unit Trust of India or a unit of equity oriented fund or a zero coupon bond, held by an assessee for not more than 12 months are considered to be short term capital asset. In respect of any other capital assets, the holding period should not exceed 36 months to be considered as short term capital assets. However, this amendment is applicable for transactions effected after July 10, 2014.
- Therefore, as per the current law, capital asset being unlisted share or unit of mutual fund (other than an equity oriented mutual fund) shall be short-term capital asset if it is held for not more than 36 months.
- As per provisions of Section 111A of the Act, gains arising on sale of Short Term Capital Assets being equity shares or units of equity oriented mutual fund [which has been set up under a scheme of a mutual fund specified under Section 10(23D)], are subject to tax at the rate of 15% provided the transaction is chargeable to STT. No deduction under Chapter VI-A is allowed from such income.
- However, where such transaction is not chargeable to STT, STCG is taxable at the rate of 30%.
- Capital assets other than Short Term Capital Assets are treated as Long Term Capital Assets, gains arising from transfer of which shall be Long Term Capital Gains ('LTCG').
- Gains arising on transfer of a Long Term Capital Asset, being equity shares of a company or units of an equity oriented fund (which has been set up under a scheme of a mutual fund specified under Section 10(23D)) or a unit of business trust as defined in Section 2(13A), shall be exempt from tax as per provisions of Section 10(38) of the Act, provided the transaction is chargeable to securities transaction tax (STT) and subject to conditions specified in that section.
- However, such income and expenses (relatable to such income) are to be considered while determining book profits in accordance with provisions of Section 115JB of the Act.
- The Finance Act, 2012 has amended STT [Chapter VII of Finance Act (No 2) of 2004]. As per the amendment, sale of unlisted equity shares under an offer for sale to the public which are included in an initial public offer and where such shares are subsequently listed on a recognized stock exchange, the same would be covered within the ambit of taxable securities transaction under the said Chapter. Accordingly, STT is leviable on sale of shares under an offer for sale to the public in an initial public offer and the LTCG arising on transfer of such shares would be exempt from tax as per provisions of Section 10(38) of the Act.

- As per provisions of Section 48 of the Act, LTCG arising on transfer of capital assets, other than bonds, debentures (excluding capital indexed bonds issued by the Government) and depreciable assets, shall be computed by deducting the indexed cost of acquisition and indexed cost of improvement from the full value of consideration.
- As per provisions of Section 112 of the Act, LTCG not exempt under Section 10(38) of the Act are subject to tax at the rate of 20% with indexation benefits. However, tax payable on transfer of listed securities or units or zero coupon bonds shall not exceed 10% of the LTCG (without indexation benefit). However, Finance Act, 2014 has amended the provisions of Section 112 allowing the concessional rate of tax of 10% on LTCG to listed securities (other than unit) and zero coupon bonds. This amendment is applicable for transactions effected after July 10, 2014.
- The tax rates mentioned above stands increased by surcharge, payable by a domestic company at the rate of 7% where the taxable income of the domestic company exceeds Rs 10,000,000 but not Rs. 100,000,000. The surcharge shall be payable at the rate of 12% where the taxable income of a domestic company exceeds Rs 100,000,000. Further, education cess and secondary and higher education cess on the total income tax at the rate of 2% and 1% respectively is payable by all categories of taxpayers.
- As per Section 50 of the Act, where a capital asset transferred was forming part of a block of assets in respect of which depreciation has been allowed under the Act, capital gains shall be computed in the following manner:
 - where full value of consideration on account of transfer of any asset forming part of block of asset, as reduced by expenditure incurred wholly or exclusively in connection with transfer, exceeds the written down value of block of assets and actual cost of assets acquired during the year, such excess shall be deemed to be STCG and taxed accordingly.
 - where any block of assets ceases to exist, for the reason that all the assets in that block are transferred, the difference between the consideration arising on result of transfer and the written down value of block of assets and the actual cost of assets acquired during the year, shall be deemed to be short term capital gains/ (losses) and taxed accordingly.
- As per Finance Act, 2013, any income arising to shareholders on account of buy-back of shares as referred to in Section 115QA of the Act (buy-back of shares by unlisted companies) shall be exempt in the hands of the shareholders under Section 10(34A).
- As per provisions of Section 70 read with Section 74 of the Act, any short term capital loss arising on transfer of any Short Term Capital Asset during a year is allowed to be set-off against short term as well as LTCG arising on transfer of any other capital asset. Balance loss, if any, shall be carried forward and set-off against any capital gains (short term or long term) arising during subsequent 8 assessment years.
- As per provisions of Section 70 read with Section 74 of the Act, any long term capital loss arising on transfer of any Long Term Capital Asset during a year is allowed to be set-off only against LTCG arising on transfer of any other Long Term Capital Asset. Balance loss, if any, shall be carried forward and set-off against LTCG arising during subsequent 8 assessment years.

(ii) Exemption of capital gains from income- tax

- Under Section 54EC of the Act, capital gains arising from transfer of long term capital assets [other than those already exempt under Section 10(38)] shall be exempt from tax, subject to the conditions and to the extent specified therein, if the capital gain are invested within a period of six months from the date of transfer in the bonds redeemable after three years and issued by:
 - National Highway Authority of India (NHAI) constituted under Section 3 of National Highway Authority of India Act, 1988; and

- Rural Electrification Corporation Limited ('REC'), a company formed and registered under the Companies Act, 1956.
- Where a part of the capital gains is reinvested, the exemption is available on a proportionate basis.
- The maximum investment in the long term specified asset should not exceed Rs 5,000,000 during the financial year in which the original asset is transferred and in the subsequent financial year.
- Where the new bonds are transferred or converted into money within three years from the date of their acquisition, the amount so exempted shall be taxable as capital gains in the year of transfer / conversion.
- The characterization of the gain/ losses, arising from sale/ transfer of shares/ units as business income or capital gains would depend on the nature of holding and various other factors.

(g) Other Provisions

- As per provisions of Section 80JJAA, where the profits of the Company include profits derived from the manufacture of goods in a 'factory', it is entitled to claim a deduction of an amount equal to 30% of 'additional wages' paid to new 'regular workmen' employed in such factory during the year in excess of prescribed limits and subject to prescribed conditions. Such deduction is available for 3 assessment years, including the assessment year in which the employment is made.
- With effect from April 1, 2016 the deduction under Section 80JJAA of the Act has been extended in respect of 'additional wages' paid to new 'regular workmen' in excess of 50 workmen employed during the year subject to the condition that such increase is not less than 10% of the existing 'workmen' employed as on the last date of the preceding year.
- As per provisions of Section 80G of the Act, the Company is entitled to claim deduction of a specified amount in respect of eligible donations, subject to the fulfillment of the conditions and threshold specified in that section. The aggregate amount of deduction under Section 80G shall not exceed the gross total income of the Company.
- As per Section 80GGB of the Act any sum contributed by the Company to a political party/ electoral trust, in any mode other than cash would be allowed as a deduction in computing the total income.

B. Benefits available to the Resident members/ shareholders of the Company under the Act

(a) Dividends exempt under Section 10(34)

- As per provisions of Section 10(34) of the Act, dividend (both interim and final) received by the resident members / shareholders from the Company shall be exempt from tax. However, as per provisions of Section 14A of the Act, expenditure incurred to earn an exempt income shall not be allowed as deduction while determining taxable income.

(b) Capital gains

(i) Computation of capital gains

- Capital assets are to be categorized into short-term capital assets and long-term capital assets based on the period of holding.
- Capital asset being a share held in a company or any other security listed in a recognized stock exchange in India or unit of the Unit Trust of India or a unit of a mutual fund specified under Section 10(23D) or a zero coupon bonds, held by an assessee for 12 months or less upto the date immediately preceding the date of its transfer, shall be considered to be a Short Term Capital Asset, capital gains arising from transfer of which shall be STCG.

- In respect of any other capital assets, STCG means capital gains arising from the transfer of a capital asset, held by an assessee for 36 months or less.
- Finance Act, 2014 has amended Section 2(42A) of the Act whereby capital assets, being security (other than a unit) listed in a recognized stock exchange in India or unit of the Unit Trust of India or a unit of equity oriented fund or a zero coupon bond, held by an assessee for not more than 12 months are considered to be short term capital asset. In respect of any other capital assets, the holding period should not exceed 36 months to be considered as short term capital assets. However, this amendment is applicable for transactions effected after July 10, 2014.
- Therefore, as per the current law, capital asset being unlisted share or unit of mutual fund (other than an equity oriented mutual fund) shall be short-term capital asset if it is held for not more than 36 months.
- As per provisions of Section 111A of the Act, gains arising on sale of Short Term Capital Assets being equity shares or units of equity oriented mutual fund [which has been set up under a scheme of a mutual fund specified under Section 10(23D)], are subject to tax at the rate of 15% provided the transaction is chargeable to STT. No deduction under Chapter VI-A is allowed from such income.
- However, where such transaction is not chargeable to STT, STCG is taxable at the normal rates of taxation as applicable to the taxpayer.
- Capital assets other than Short Term Capital Assets are treated as Long Term Capital Assets, gains arising from transfer of which shall be LTCG.
- Gains arising on transfer of a Long Term Capital Asset, being equity shares of a company or units of an equity oriented fund (which has been set up under a scheme of a mutual fund specified under Section 10(23D)) or a unit of business trust as defined in Section 2(13A), shall be exempt from tax as per provisions of Section 10(38) of the Act, provided the transaction is chargeable to STT and subject to conditions specified in that section.
- The Finance Act, 2012 has amended STT [Chapter VII of Finance Act (No 2) of 2004]. As per the amendment, sale of unlisted equity shares under an offer for sale to the public which are included in an initial public offer and where such shares are subsequently listed on a recognized stock exchange, the same would be covered within the ambit of taxable securities transaction under the said Chapter. Accordingly, STT is leviable on sale of shares under an offer for sale to the public in an initial public offer and the LTCG arising on transfer of such shares would be exempt from tax as per provisions of Section 10(38) of the Act.
- As per provisions of Section 48 of the Act, LTCG arising on transfer of capital assets, other than bonds, debentures (excluding capital indexed bonds issued by the Government) and depreciable assets, shall be computed by deducting the indexed cost of acquisition and indexed cost of improvement from the full value of consideration.
- As per provisions of Section 112 of the Act, LTCG not exempt under Section 10(38) of the Act are subject to tax at the rate of 20% with indexation benefits. However, tax payable on transfer of listed securities or units or zero coupon bonds shall not exceed 10% of the LTCG (without indexation benefit). Finance Act, 2014 has amended the provisions of Section 112 allowing the concessional rate of tax of 10% on LTCG to listed securities (other than unit) and zero coupon bonds. This amendment is applicable for transactions effected after July 10, 2014.
- As per Finance Act, 2013, any income arising to shareholders on account of buy-back of shares as referred to in Section 115QA of the Act (buy-back of shares by unlisted companies) shall be exempt in the hands of the shareholders under Section 10(34A).

- In the case of domestic companies, the tax rates mentioned above stands increased by surcharge, payable by a domestic company at the rate of 7% where the taxable income of the domestic company exceeds Rs 10,000,000. The surcharge shall be payable at the rate of 12% where the taxable income of the domestic company exceeds Rs 100,000,000. Further, education cess and secondary and higher education cess on the total income tax at the rate of 2% and 1% respectively is payable by all categories of taxpayers.
- The surcharge shall be payable at the rate of 12% where the total taxable income of a taxpayer other than a company exceeds Rs 10,000,000. Further, education cess and secondary and higher education cess on the total income tax at the rate of 2% and 1% respectively is payable.
- The resident shareholder may reduce the gains arising on the transfer of a capital asset from its basic exemption limit.
- As per provisions of Section 70 read with Section 74 of the Act, any short term capital loss arising on transfer of any Short Term Capital Asset during a year is allowed to be set-off against short term as well as LTCG arising on transfer of any other capital asset. Balance loss, if any, shall be carried forward and set-off against any capital gains (short term or long term) arising during subsequent 8 assessment years.
- As per provisions of Section 70 read with Section 74 of the Act, any long term capital loss arising on transfer of any Long Term Capital Asset during a year is allowed to be set-off only against LTCG arising on transfer of any other Long Term Capital Asset. Balance loss, if any, shall be carried forward and set-off against LTCG arising during subsequent 8 assessment years.

(ii) Exemption of capital gains from income tax

- As per Section 54EC of the Act, capital gains arising from the transfer of a long term capital asset [other than those already exempt under Section 10(38)] are exempt from capital gains tax if such capital gains are invested within a period of 6 months after the date of such transfer in specified bonds issued by NHAI and REC and subject to the conditions specified therein.
- Where a part of the capital gains is reinvested, the exemption is available on a proportionate basis.
- The maximum investment in the long term specified asset should not exceed Rs 5,000,000 during the financial year in which the original asset is transferred and in the subsequent financial year.
- Where the new bonds are transferred or converted into money within three years from the date of their acquisition, the amount so exempted is taxable as capital gains in the year of transfer/conversion.
- In addition to the same, some benefits are also available to a resident shareholder being an individual or Hindu Undivided Family ('HUF'). As per provisions of Section 54F of the Act, LTCG arising from transfer of shares shall be exempt from tax if the net consideration from such transfer is utilized within a period of one year before, or two years after the date of transfer, for purchase of a new residential house, or for construction of one residential house within three years from the date of transfer and subject to conditions and to the extent specified therein.

(c) Other Provisions

- The characterization of the gain / losses, arising from sale / transfer of shares as business income or capital gains would depend on the nature of holding and various other factors.
- As per provisions of Section 56(2)(vii) of the Act and subject to exception provided in second proviso therein, where an individual or HUF receives shares and securities without consideration or for a consideration which is less than the aggregate fair market value of the shares and securities by an amount exceeding fifty thousand rupees, the excess of fair market value of such shares and securities over the said consideration is chargeable to tax under the head 'income from other sources'. However, the said section shall not be applicable in case shares and securities are received under instances specified under the proviso thereon.

C. Benefits to the Non-Resident members/ shareholders of the Company under the Act

(a) Dividends exempt under Section 10(34)

As per provisions of Section 10(34), dividend (both interim and final), if any, received by Non-resident shareholder from the Company shall be exempt from tax. However, as per provisions of Section 14A of the Act, expenditure incurred to earn an exempt income shall not be allowed as deduction while determining taxable income.

(b) Capital gains

(i) Computation of capital gains

- Capital assets are to be categorized into short-term capital assets and long-term capital assets based on the period of holding.
- Capital asset being a share held in a company or any other security listed in a recognized stock exchange in India or unit of the Unit Trust of India or a unit of a mutual fund specified under Section 10(23D) or a zero coupon bonds, held by an assessee for 12 months or less upto the date immediately preceding the date of its transfer, shall be considered to be a Short Term Capital Asset, capital gains arising from transfer of which shall be STCG.
- In respect of any other capital assets, STCG means capital gains arising from the transfer of a capital asset, held by an assessee for 36 months or less.
- Finance Act, 2014 has amended Section 2(42A) of the Act whereby capital assets, being security (other than a unit) listed in a recognized stock exchange in India or unit of the Unit Trust of India or a unit of equity oriented fund or a zero coupon bond, held by an assessee for not more than 12 months are considered to be short term capital asset. In respect of any other capital assets, the holding period should not exceed 36 months to be considered as short term capital assets. However, this amendment is applicable for transactions effected after July 10, 2014.
- Therefore, as per the current law, capital asset being unlisted share or unit of mutual fund (other than an equity oriented mutual fund) shall be short-term capital asset if it is held for not more than 36 months.
- As per provisions of Section 111A of the Act, gains arising on sale of Short Term Capital Assets being equity shares or units of equity oriented mutual fund [which has been set up under a scheme of a mutual fund specified under Section 10(23D)], are subject to tax at the rate of 15% provided the transaction is chargeable to STT. No deduction under Chapter VI-A is allowed from such income.
- However, where such transaction is not chargeable to STT, STCG is taxable at the normal rates of taxation as applicable to the taxpayer.
- Capital assets other than Short Term Capital Assets are treated as Long Term Capital Assets, gains arising from transfer of which shall be LTCG.
- Gains arising on transfer of a Long Term Capital Asset, being equity shares of a company or units of an equity oriented fund (which has been set up under a scheme of a mutual fund specified under Section 10(23D)) or a unit of business trust as defined in Section 2(13A), shall be exempt from tax as per provisions of Section 10(38) of the Act, provided the transaction is chargeable to STT and subject to conditions specified in that section.
- The Finance Act, 2012 has amended STT [Chapter VII of Finance Act (No 2) of 2004]. As per the amendment, sale of unlisted equity shares under an offer for sale to the public which are included in an initial public offer and where such shares are subsequently listed on a recognized stock exchange, the same would be covered within the ambit of taxable securities transaction under the said Chapter. Accordingly, STT is leviable on sale of shares under an offer for sale to the public in an initial public offer and the LTCG arising on transfer of such shares would be exempt from tax as per provisions of Section 10(38) of the Act.

- As per provisions of Section 112 of the Act, gains arising from the transfer of long term capital asset, being unlisted securities (other than by way of offer for sale under an initial public offer) is chargeable to tax at 10% without indexation and foreign exchange fluctuation benefits.
- Further, gains arising on transfer of long term capital assets (other than unlisted securities) are subject to tax at the rate of 20% with indexation benefits. The indexation benefits are however not available in case the shares are acquired in foreign currency. In such a case, the capital gains shall be computed in the manner prescribed under the first proviso to Section 48. As per first proviso to Section 48 of the Act, where the shares have been purchased in foreign currency by a non-resident, the capital gains arising on its transfer need to be computed by converting the cost of acquisition, expenditure incurred in connection with such transfer and full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer, into the same foreign currency in which the shares were originally purchased. The resultant gains thereafter need to be reconverted into Indian currency. The conversion needs to be at the prescribed rates prevailing on dates stipulated. If the tax payable on transfer of listed securities exceeds 10% of the LTCG without indexation benefits, the excess tax shall be ignored for the purpose of computing tax payable by the assessee.
- As per the Finance Act, 2013, any income arising to shareholders on account of buy-back of shares as referred to in Section 115QA of the Act (buy-back of shares by unlisted companies) shall be exempt in the hands of the shareholders under Section 10(34A).
- The tax rates mentioned above stands increased by surcharge and cess as follows:
 - In case of a foreign company, whose total taxable income exceeds Rs 10,000,000 surcharge shall be payable at the rate of 2% of income tax payable.
 - In case of a foreign company whose total taxable income exceeds Rs 100,000,000 the rate of surcharge shall increase from 2% to 5%.
 - In case of other non-residents, whose total taxable income exceeds Rs 10,000,000 surcharge shall be payable at the rate of 12% of income tax payable.
 - Further, education cess and secondary and higher education cess on the total income tax at the rate of 2% and 1% respectively is payable by all categories of taxpayers.
- As per provisions of Section 70 read with Section 74 of the Act, any short term capital loss arising on transfer of any Short Term Capital Asset during a year is allowed to be set-off against short term as well as LTCG arising on transfer of any other capital asset. Balance loss, if any, shall be carried forward and set-off against any capital gains (short term or long term) arising during subsequent 8 assessment years.
- As per provisions of Section 70 read with Section 74 of the Act, any long term capital loss arising on transfer of any Long Term Capital Asset during a year is allowed to be set-off only against LTCG arising on transfer of any other Long Term Capital Asset. Balance loss, if any, shall be carried forward and set-off against LTCG arising during subsequent 8 assessment years.

(ii) Exemption of capital gains from income tax

- As per Section 54EC of the Act, capital gains arising from the transfer of a long term capital asset [other than those already exempt under Section 10(38)] are exempt from capital gains tax if such capital gains are invested within a period of 6 months after the date of such transfer in specified bonds issued by NHAI and REC and subject to the conditions specified therein.

- Where a part of the capital gains is reinvested, the exemption is available on a proportionate basis.
- The maximum investment in the long term specified asset should not exceed Rs 5,000,000 during the financial year in which the original asset is transferred and in the subsequent financial year.
- Where the new bonds are transferred or converted into money within three years from the date of their acquisition, the amount so exempted is taxable as capital gains in the year of transfer/conversion.
- The characterization of the gain/ losses, arising from sale/ transfer of shares/ units as business income or capital gains would depend on the nature of holding and various other factors.
- In addition to the same, some benefits are also available to a shareholder being an individual or HUF. As per provisions of Section 54F of the Act, LTCG arising from transfer of shares shall be exempt from tax if the net consideration from such transfer is utilized within a period of one year before, or two years after the date of transfer, for purchase of a new residential house, or for construction of one residential house within three years from the date of transfer and subject to conditions and to the extent specified therein.

(c) Other provisions

- The characterization of the gain / losses, arising from sale / transfer of shares as business income or capital gains would depend on the nature of holding and various other factors.
- As per provisions of Section 56(2)(vii) of the Act and subject to exception provided in second proviso therein, where an individual or HUF receives shares and securities without consideration or for a consideration which is less than the aggregate fair market value of the shares and securities by an amount exceeding fifty thousand rupees, the excess of fair market value of such shares and securities over the said consideration is chargeable to tax under the head 'income from other sources'. However, the said section shall not be applicable in case the shares and securities are received under instances specified under the proviso thereon.

(d) Tax Treaty benefits

- As per provisions of Section 90(2) of the Act, non-resident shareholders can opt to be taxed in India as per the provisions of the Act or the double taxation avoidance agreement entered into by the Government of India with the country of residence of the non-resident shareholder, whichever is more beneficial. It needs to be noted that a non-resident is required to hold a valid tax residency certificate. Additionally the non-resident tax payer is required to provide such other documents and information in the Form 10F as prescribed vide Notification 57 of 2013 dated 1 August 2013. However, it may be noted that Tax Authorities may ask for other information and supporting documents if required (such as PAN, etc).

 - Specified foreign exchange assets include shares of an Indian company which are acquired / purchased / subscribed by NRI in convertible foreign exchange.
 - As per provisions of Section 115E of the Act, LTCG arising to a NRI from transfer of specified foreign exchange assets as duly mentioned in Section 115C(f) of the Act is taxable at the rate of 10% (plus applicable surcharge and cess).

- As per provisions of Section 115E of the Act, income [other than dividend which is exempt under Section 10(34)] from investments and LTCG (other than gain exempt under Section 10(38)) from assets (other than specified foreign exchange assets under Section 115C(f)) arising to a NRI is taxable at the rate of 20% (plus applicable surcharge and cess). No deduction is allowed from such income in respect of any expenditure or allowance or deductions under Chapter VI-A of the Act.
- As per provisions of Section 115F of the Act, LTCG arising to a NRI on transfer of a foreign exchange asset shall be exempt from tax if the net consideration from such transfer is invested in the specified assets or savings certificates within six months from the date of such transfer, subject to the extent and conditions specified in that section. If only part of the net consideration is so reinvested, the exemption will be proportionately reduced. However the amount so exempted will be chargeable to tax subsequently, if the specified assets are transferred or converted into money within three years from the date of their acquisition.
- As per provisions of Section 115G of the Act, where the total income of a NRI consists only of income / LTCG from such foreign exchange asset / specified asset and tax thereon has been deducted at source in accordance with the Act, the NRI shall not be required to file a return of income.
- As per provisions of Section 115H of the Act, where a person who is a NRI in any previous year, becomes assessable as a resident in India in respect of the total income of any subsequent year, he / she may furnish a declaration in writing to the assessing officer, along with his / her return of income under Section 139 of the Act for the assessment year in which he / she is first assessable as a resident, to the effect that the provisions of the Chapter XII-A shall continue to apply to him / her in relation to investment income derived from the specified assets for that year and subsequent years until such assets are transferred or converted into money.
- All the tax rates mentioned above would stand increased by surcharge and cess as applicable to other non-resident assessee under the Act.

As per provisions of Section 115-I of the Act, a NRI can opt not to be governed by the provisions of Chapter XII-A for any assessment year by furnishing return of income for that assessment year under Section 139 of the Act, declaring therein that the provisions of the chapter shall not apply for that assessment year. In such a situation, the other provisions of the Act shall be applicable while determining the taxable income and tax liability arising thereon.

CRO Industry

Contract Research Organisations (“CROs”) offer outsourced services to support discovery and development for R&D driven organisations across industrial sectors like pharmaceuticals, biotechnology, biopharmaceuticals, nutraceuticals, animal health, agro-chemicals, cosmetics and electronics. CRO services span the range of R&D activities from New Molecular Entity (“NME”) discovery, development and manufacturing. Growth in the CRO market has historically been driven by growth in R&D spending and increased outsourcing of R&D activities.

The discovery and development process generally involves (1) discovery (target identification, target validation, lead generation, lead optimisation and lead selection), (2) development (pre-clinical testing, clinical testing and regulatory filings with the FDA and other relevant regulators), and (3) manufacture (process development and early stage manufacture) leading to commercialisation (manufacturing and post-marketing follow-up studies on impact and side effects).

Frost & Sullivan estimates that global R&D expenditure for the pharmaceutical industry in 2014 was approximately US$139 billion, of which US$105 billion could have potentially been outsourced (Source: Frost & Sullivan Report). According to IQ4I Research & Consultancy Pvt. Ltd (“IQ4I”), outsourcing penetration of CRO discovery services in 2013 is estimated to be 51.9% of the global pharmaceutical and biotech industry but poised to grow to 65.7% in 2015, reflecting a CAGR of 12.5% (Source: IQ4I Report). According to the Frost & Sullivan Report, outsourcing penetration for the CRO market for development services as of 2014 is estimated to be 27.3% of the potential outsourcing market for development services, but poised to grow to 38.7% in 2019, reflecting a CAGR of 12.5%.

Although the CRO industry has grown substantially in recent years, the opportunity to further penetrate potential outsourcing markets provides an opportunity for the industry to increase its share of global R&D expenditures.

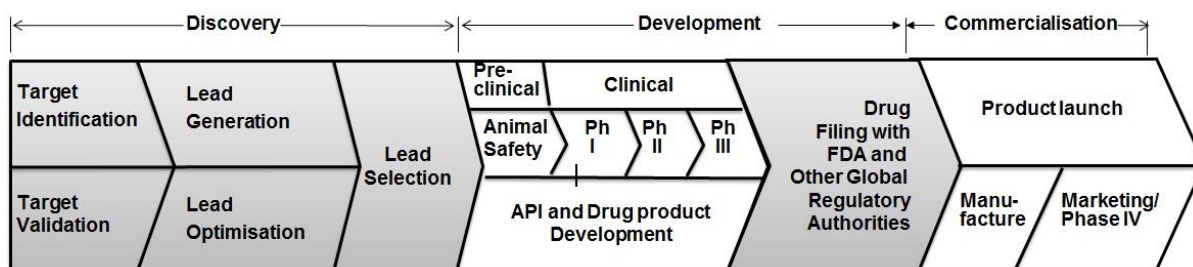

The global CRO market for discovery services was estimated to be US$14.7 billion in 2014 and is expected to reach US$22.7 billion in 2018, reflecting a CAGR of 11.5% (2014-2018), according to the IQ4I Report. The global CRO market for development services was estimated to be US$28.8 billion in 2014 and is expected to reach US$44.6 billion in 2018, reflecting a CAGR (2014–2018) of 11.6%, according to the Frost & Sullivan Report.

Overview of CRO Services

CROs offer clients an opportunity to manage costs, have flexible operations and realise efficiencies in R&D and related functions. As an industry, CROs have expanded their service offerings over time to meet growing needs for full-service outsourcing across the full spectrum of R&D and related activities. In practice, however, most CRO service providers specialise to some degree based on the needs of their clients and the market in which they operate.

Discovery

Discovery covers the process from target identification to target validation to lead generation and lead optimisation. The focus at this stage is to narrow down thousands of compounds to a few hundred, promising possibilities for further research and development. Typically scientists begin with basic research on the physiological target and develop hypothetical mechanisms of action which could potentially bring about the desired outcome. Following basic research, researchers look for a lead compound—a promising molecule that could influence the target in line with the projected hypotheses and potentially become a medicine. Researchers do this in various ways, including creating a molecule, using high-throughput screening techniques to select a few promising possibilities from among thousands of potential candidates, finding compounds from nature, and using biotechnology to genetically engineer living systems to produce disease-fighting molecules.

Some of the key steps in the NME discovery process are described below:

- Target Validation: Target validation involves intensive in vitro, as well as in vivo studies that provide information on the effects of the pharmacological intervention. The result of these efforts helps establish sufficient knowledge so that physiologically relevant model systems could be developed into assays for downstream screening.
- Lead Generation: The aim of this stage of the work is to refine each hit series to try to produce more potent and selective compounds which possess properties adequate to examine their efficacy in any in vivo models that are available.
- Lead Optimisation and Selection: Lead optimisation and selection seeks to identify and synthesise lead compounds, new analogs with improved potency, reduced off-target activities, and physiochemical/metabolic properties suggestive of reasonable in vivo pharmacokinetics through chemical modification of the hit structure. Modifications are chosen by employing knowledge of the structure-activity relationship (SAR) as well as structure-based design if structural information about the target is available.

Development

After the NME discovery stage narrows down thousands of compounds to a few hundred promising possibilities, these molecules enter the development stage. The development stage spans preclinical and clinical testing in addition to drug substance and drug product development.

The key stages in the process are described as below:

- Preclinical Testing: This step involves exhaustive laboratory and animal experimentation of the pre-clinical drug candidates for safety and therapeutic effect in order to determine whether a compound is suitable for human testing. The focus during this stage is largely on generating data around safety and preliminary efficacy by testing the NMEs on relevant animal models. This process may take several years to come up with a molecule considered suitable for human testing. The data generated during this stage is a critical part of the dossier which gets submitted to the relevant regulatory bodies in order to receive approval for the concerned NME for moving to clinical trials.

- Clinical Trials: Drug candidates approved by the relevant regulatory body are typically referred to as an Investigational New Drug Application (“IND”). INDs proceed to clinical trials. Broadly, clinical trials are studies in humans to determine the safety, efficacy and suitable drug dosage of potential drug candidates. The major phases in clinical trials are described below:
 - Phase I trials test a compound in a small group (e.g., 20 to 100) of healthy volunteers to determine the safety of the compound.
 - Phase II trials test the compound in a somewhat larger group (e.g., 100 to 500) of volunteers who have the disease or condition the compound is designed to treat. Phase II trials determine the effectiveness of the compound, examine possible short-term side effects and risks, and identify optimal dose and schedule.
 - Phase III trials test the compound in a much larger group (e.g., 1,000 to 5,000) of participants to generate statistically significant information about safety and efficacy and to determine the overall benefit-risk ratio.
 - Bio-analytical testing of clinical trial samples generated during the aforementioned studies to quantify the safety, efficacy and associated data related to the clinical trial end points. The data generated here helps in evaluating the success or failure of the trial with respect to its predefined objectives.
- Drug Substance Development: Drug substance development covers early stage and late stage process development and optimisation. This process starts at a candidate selection stage, with small quantities of drug substance being manufactured under non-GMP conditions for toxicology evaluation and under GMP conditions for initial clinical studies. Depending on the outcome of these studies, larger quantities of drug substance are manufactured for late stage clinical programs. As an NME passes through the clinical development continuum, increasing emphasis is placed on developing a robust, scalable, safe and efficient manufacturing process which can be used for subsequent commercialisation of the drug.
- Drug Product Development: Drug product development covers early stage and late stage formulation development and manufacture. The drug substance can be formulated in a variety of forms, depending on the preferred mode of administration. The formulations tend to be simpler for preclinical and Phase I trials. As the molecule moves further along the development cycle, the formulation becomes increasingly nuanced in line with the data being generated through the trials. The key formulation types are oral solid dosage forms (tablets, capsules, drug-in-capsule), oral liquid dosage forms (solutions and suspensions), injectable dosage forms (solutions and lyophilised), and modified release oral dosage forms (functionally coated mini-tablets, drug layered beads as well as matrix tablet formulations).

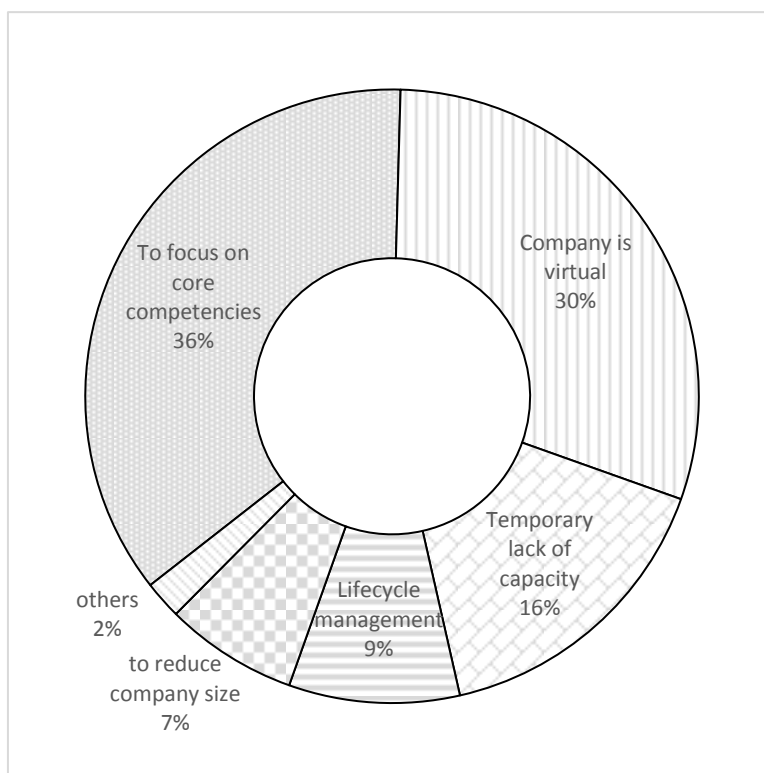

Manufacturing

NMEs can be used by millions of people or sometimes by a small, select population, and often are on the market for many years. Consequently, manufacturing facilities must be carefully designed so that the commercialised product can be consistently and efficiently produced at the highest level of quality.

Accordingly, manufacturing facilities must be constructed to the high standards to ensure safety and quality in the manufacturing process. For example, pharmaceutical companies must adhere to FDA or other relevant regulations, and must upgrade facilities when new NMEs are approved, since each new NME is manufactured differently.

Factors Driving Outsourcing of R&D

According to Contract Pharma's 2014 Annual Outsourcing Survey, respondents attributed their decisions to outsource to the factors in the chart below.

Source: Contract Pharma, 2014 Annual Outsourcing Survey

Factors driving R&D and outsourcing trends include:

Focus on Core Competencies

Many industry participants and consultants have suggested that pharmaceutical companies are revisiting what is deemed a core competency, suggesting more willingness to outsource functions across the development spectrum (the “D” of R&D), and certain discovery research functions such as lead optimisation (part of the “R” of R&D). According to a survey by RolandBerger Strategy Consultants, pharmaceutical executives identified marketing, sales and clinical development as the core competencies of their organisations, with other functions such as discovery and pre-clinical development lagging (Source: “Pharma at the Crossroads: Choosing Directions in a Transforming Healthcare World” by Roland Berger Strategy Consultants, 2008). To the extent such discovery and pre-clinical development processes do not represent pharmaceutical core competencies, the activities are outsourced. The pressure to lower internal R&D costs and optimise processes, coupled with an increasing level of scientific and technical sophistication at CROs, could lead to more functions being outsourced over time.

Company is Virtual: Smaller Clients and Virtual Pharma

Emerging venture-backed or virtual biotechnology firms focusing on a limited range of products generally have limited resources, infrastructure and experience in drug discovery and development. With greater access to capital, these firms may increasingly have the resources to outsource discovery and development services to CROs. These organisations tend to seek a broader range of services from CROs than traditional pharmaceutical companies. The rebound in biotech funding has given a thrust to R&D outsourcing from these companies. According to PwC/NVCA MoneyTree Report with data provided by Thomson Reuters, for the full year 2014, investments in the U.S. life sciences sector rose 29% in value, with $8.6 billion invested in 789 deals (Source: PricewaterhouseCoopers/National Venture Capital Association MoneyTree Report; data: Thomson Reuters, February 2015).

Client Flexibility and Moving from Fixed to Variable Cost Models

Rising costs of R&D, profit pressures arising from patent expirations and the need for greater flexibility have reduced the willingness of pharmaceutical companies to incur large fixed costs associated with large scale R&D programs. Outsourcing allows clients to convert a portion of their R&D budgets from a fixed to a variable cost, giving them greater flexibility to shift strategic and development priorities in response to market conditions. This trend was reflected in a recent survey of outsourcing clients conducted by Parexel International in which the flexibility to convert fixed R&D costs into variable costs was cited as the second most important factor motivating a shift to outsourcing (following access to capabilities not available in-house) (Source: “Strategic Partnerships 2013: Transforming and Unlocking Value in Biopharmaceutical Development” by PARAXEL International Corporation, 2013). In addition, clients prefer to tap into outsourcing services when they undergo temporary lack of capacities rather than making additional investments into infrastructure.

Decreasing the Unit Cost of R&D Output

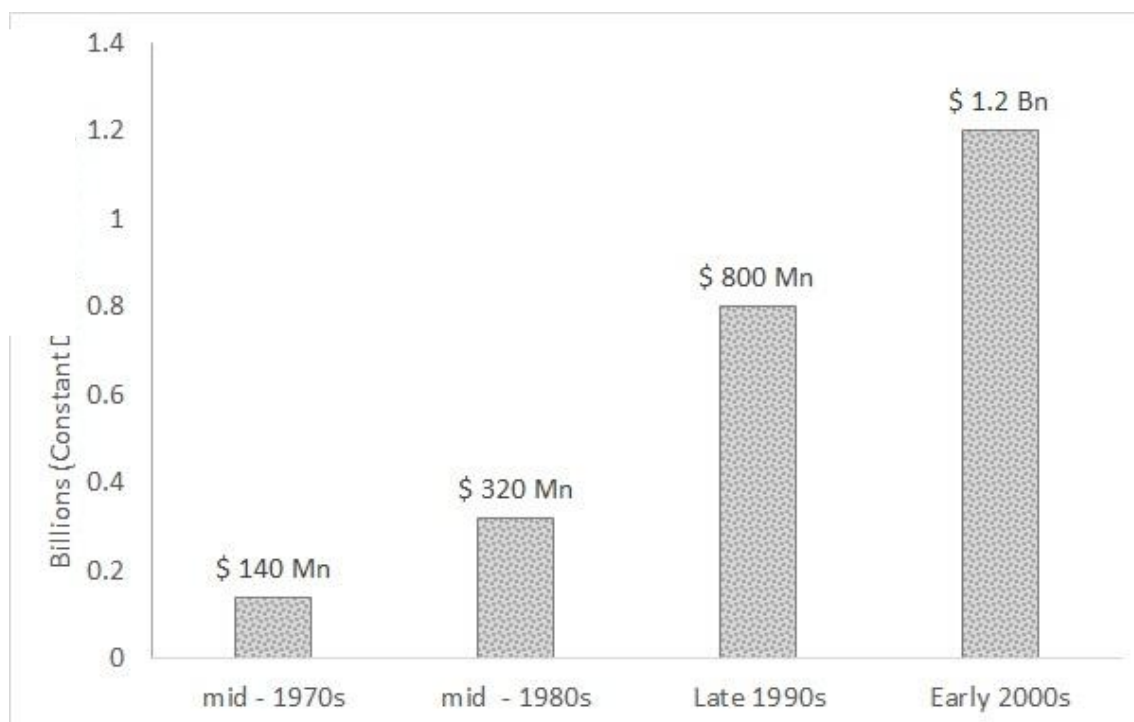

Pharmaceutical companies face pressure to decrease the unit cost of R&D output by realising efficiencies in the R&D process without compromising the pace and quality of drug development. According to a 2012 article titled “Diagnosing the decline in pharmaceutical R&D efficiency” appearing in Nature Reviews Drug Discovery, the number of new drugs approved per billion US dollars on R&D has halved roughly every nine years since 1950 (or, equivalently, the cost of developing a new drug has doubled every nine years), falling around 80-fold in inflation-adjusted terms (Source: Adapted by permission from Macmillan Publishers Ltd: Diagnosing the decline in pharmaceutical R&D efficiency, Nature Reviews Drug Discovery 11 (191-200), March 2012). Since there are natural limits on the pace of drug development, improving R&D productivity through cost management is a significant issue. This decreased productivity has come in conjunction with a “patent cliff” in which small molecule products representing US$154 billion of annual sales revenue came off patent protection from 2009 to 2013, with another US$27 billion of branded drugs projected to come off patent protection in 2015 alone (Source: Global Outlook for Medicines Through 2018 by IMS Institute for Healthcare Informatics©, November 2014), motivating pharmaceutical companies to invest in R&D to drive new drugs to market and replace lost revenue. However, in 2008, it was estimated that for every dollar lost in declining product revenues due to patent expirations by 2012, the large-cap pharmaceutical companies would only be able to replace on average 26 cents with new product revenues. (Source: Adapted by permission from Macmillan Publishers Ltd: Diagnosing the decline in pharmaceutical R&D efficiency, Nature Reviews Drug Discovery 11 (191-200), March 2012)

The pharmaceutical industry has responded to R&D productivity challenges by seeking to improve the return on investment for R&D spending by realising efficiencies through outsourcing. The average cost to develop a new drug, including the costs of failures, has increased from US$140 million in the late 1970's to US$800 million by the late 1990's and approximately US$1.2 billion by the early 2000s (all in US dollars as of 2000). Furthermore, for every 5,000 to 10,000 potential compounds that are evaluated, ultimately only one receives approval from the FDA. (Source: Pharmaceutical Research and Manufacturers of America, 2014 Biopharmaceutical Research Industry Profile (Washington, DC: PhRMA, April 2014)). Given the relatively low yield from early stage compounds, cost effective drug development processes are critical to the health of the pharmaceutical industry.

The rise in the average cost of developing an NME (USD million) is reflected in the chart below:

Source: Pharmaceutical Research and Manufacturers of America, 2014 Biopharmaceutical Research Industry Profile (Washington, DC: PhRMA, April 2014)

CROs, especially those based in Asia Pacific and Eastern Europe, provide a significant cost advantage to organisations seeking to rationalise their R&D spends. The lower cost structure in these regions helps in reducing the R&D spend by decreasing the unit cost of R&D output.

R&D Pipeline Growth

Frost & Sullivan estimates that global R&D expenditure for the pharmaceutical industry in 2014 was approximately US$139 billion reflecting a growth of 2.2% vis-à-vis 2013. (Source: Frost & Sullivan Report). With a handful of promising and innovative products in the industry pipeline, and with 2014 representing the best year for approvals of NMEs since the 1990s, the Frost & Sullivan Report projects an increase in R&D spending from US$139.0 billion in 2014 to US$152.3 billion in 2018, implying a CAGR of 2.3% during such period. Healthy prescription pharmaceutical sales growth (projected to grow at a CAGR of 5.1% from 2013 to 2020 to a projected US$1,017 billion in 2020) (Source: EvaluatePharma® World Preview 2014, Evaluate Ltd, www.evaluate.com) and improving FDA approval levels may also allow pharmaceutical companies to allocate more capital to R&D spending. Frost & Sullivan estimates that out of the current R&D spends, about 75% could be potentially outsourced indicating significant headroom for growth of the global outsourcing industry.

Client Relationships and Contracting

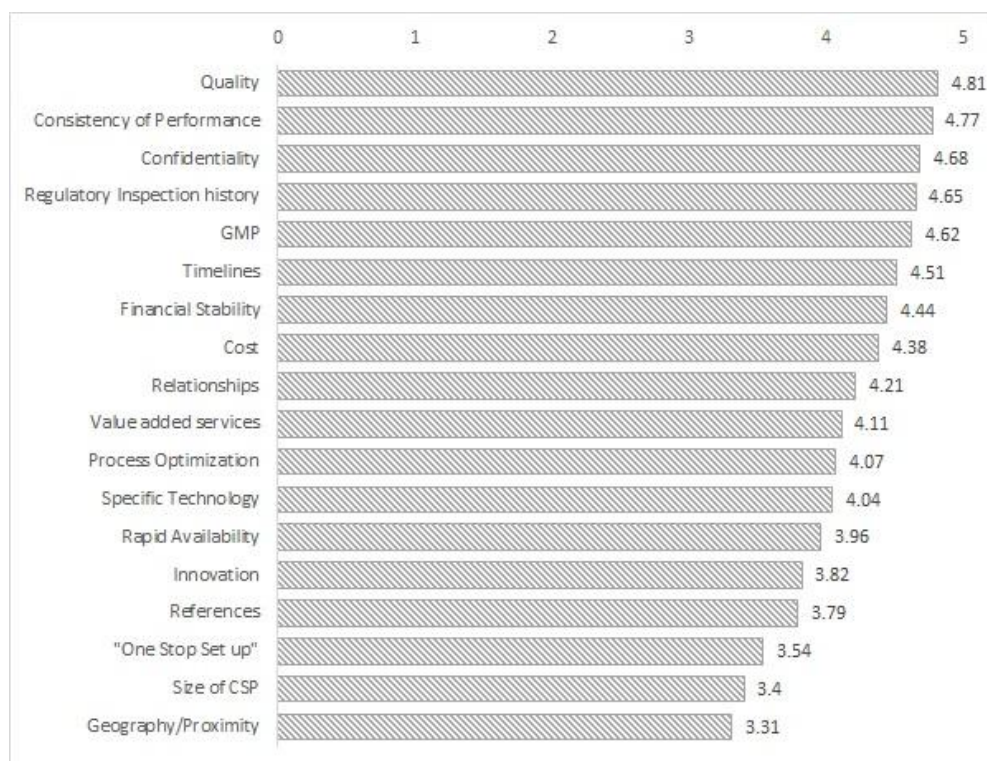

CRO contracts can take a variety of forms, ranging from the strategic partnerships to functional service agreements for a specific function (i.e., target validation, hit identification, lead optimisation, etc.) or more one-off transactional contracts. Furthermore, these relationships can be for a specific compound, set of trials, therapeutic area, or geography. CROs typically employ business development teams, often segmented by service offering, to participate in request-for-proposal processes. Clients evaluate CROs on numerous factors.

According to Contract Pharma's 2014 Annual Outsourcing Survey, respondents cited the following items as the most important considerations when selecting an outsourcing vendor:

- Quality: Quality is the foremost consideration for clients, implying that clients do not view outsourcing as a pure cost play;
- Consistency of Performance: Consistent performance is one of the leading considerations for clients, which indicates that clients are looking for a dependable partner with whom they can work consistently over a longer time horizon;
- Confidentiality: Concerns relating to the protection of proprietary intellectual property and discovery and development initiatives ranks among the top client priorities. Clients typically demand that CRO providers have adequate processes in place to protect confidential information in addition to a verifiable track record of IP protection;
- Regulatory Inspection History & Good Manufacturing Processes ("GMP"): CROs are subject to inspection by the FDA and other regulators, and outsourcing clients take a keen interest in the regulatory inspection history of a CRO provider to ensure compliance with applicable regulations. Hence, clients typically conduct frequent audits of their CRO's facility to ensure sustained quality and systems management. Good Manufacturing Practices are the practices required to conform to regulatory guidelines recommended to control the manufacture and sale of food, drug products, and active pharmaceutical products, and are key priorities for CRO clients to avoid any regulatory or reputational damages originating from the outsourcing decision; and
- Financial Stability: The NME discovery and development process spans several years, and clients prefer to work with CROs who have a demonstrated history of efficient fiscal management and stability. This assurance is critical for them to establish long term working relationships.

Contract Pharma's 2014 Annual Outsourcing Survey respondents full survey results are provided below, citing the following criteria as most important when selecting an outsourcing partner (on a scale of 1 to 5):

Evolution of CRO Services in Asia Pacific: Moving up the Value Chain

As biopharmaceutical companies and other clients outsource more of their value-added R&D functions to focus on core competencies such as brand management, marketing and sales, CROs, including those in Asia, to move up the value chain. Multi-nationals are increasingly turning to research based partnerships as a way of sourcing high end expertise and building up drug discovery investment in Asia.

Asia-Pacific is projected to be the fastest growing region in the NME discovery outsourcing market, registering a CAGR of 15.5% from US$4.2 billion in 2014 to US$7.5 billion in 2018 due to efficient CRO hubs especially in India and China.

Revenue by Molecule Type

According to the IQ4I Report, the small molecules market was the largest contributor to CRO industry revenue at approximately 86% in 2014 and is projected to grow at a CAGR of 8.9% during the forecast period 2014–18 to reach US$17.6 billion by 2018 from US$12.5 billion in 2014. The IQ4I Report further projects that biologics will grow faster at a CAGR of 23.0% during the forecast period 2014–18 compared to the small molecules market to reach US$4.8 billion in 2018 from US$2.1 billion in 2014. The growth is attributable to the increase in biologics R&D spending and shorter approval times, although high development costs have limited the growth of biologics to date (Source: IQ4I Report).

Outsourcing of Commercial Manufacturing

Most pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies outsource at least part of their manufacturing. Since most pharmaceutical companies view their core competencies as R&D and Marketing & Sales (“M&S”), commercial manufacturing represents a growth area for CRO firms, who typically already manufacture pharmaceuticals on a non-commercial scale. Historically, large companies that are inclined to manufacture in-house do so primarily to maximise their return on investment in facilities and capital by operating at maximum capacity. However, because of the unpredictability of the drug development pipeline, sizing a plant to maintain maximum capacity is challenging. To reduce risks, a growing number of drug companies outsource some of their manufacturing to outsourcing companies. Such partnering arrangements enable companies to manage surges in capacity needs without tying up assets during slower periods. In addition, smaller companies often do not have the resources or capital to invest in process development and manufacturing facilities, and thus tend to outsource more of their manufacturing costs.

Key Drivers of Pharmaceutical R&D Outsourcing to India

India has become a major destination for pharmaceutical R&D outsourcing. Historically, India has offered a significant cost advantage and skilled personnel. However, as pharmaceutical companies outsource more R&D functions, outsourcing to India is increasingly seen as a strategic move to garner quality and value, rather than just a tactical decision to lower costs.

Availability of Skilled Resources: India possesses a critical mass of highly skilled English speaking scientists with demonstrated expertise in areas such as drug discovery chemistry; a labour force that is continuously growing due to the high number of PhDs who graduate from top institutions each year.

Lower Labour Costs: According to Frost & Sullivan, The cost of conducting clinical trials in countries, such as China, India and Indonesia, is 25-40% less expensive than in western countries.

Strong Infrastructure: India has cutting-edge technology and IT expertise, a growing pool of doctors and improving hospital infrastructure with access to a growing pool of talent trained in global clinical trials.

OUR BUSINESS

Overview

We are one of the leading India-based contract research organisations (“CRO”), offering a suite of integrated, end-to-end discovery and development services for novel molecular entities (“NMEs”) across industrial sectors including pharmaceutical, biotechnology, agrochemicals, consumer health, animal health, cosmetic and nutrition companies. Our service offerings in discovery and development cover multiple domains across small molecules, large molecules, antibody-drug conjugates (“ADC”) and oligonucleotides. Our integrated discovery and development platforms help organisations conduct discovery (from hit to candidate selection), development (including pre-clinical and clinical studies, analytical and bio-analytical evaluation, formulation development and stability studies) and pilot manufacturing (scale-up, pre-clinical and clinical supplies) under one roof with a distinctive economic advantage. Our service offerings also support the development of bio-similar and generic molecules. In the near term, we intend to forward integrate into commercial-scale manufacturing of NMEs.

Outsourcing discovery and development work is an established alternative to in-house development among multinational organisations. While traditionally multinational organisations had looked at outsourcing as a way to reduce their research and development (“R&D”) expenditures, the R&D outsourcing industry is evolving from a mere leveraging of cost arbitrage to enhancing R&D productivity and reducing the time to market.

According to the Frost & Sullivan Report, the global R&D expenditure for the pharmaceutical industry in 2014 was approximately US$139 billion, of which US$105 billion could be potentially outsourced. According to the IQ4I Report, the global CRO market for discovery services, our core focus area in the CRO sector, was estimated to be US$14.7 billion in 2014 and is expected to reach US$22.7 billion in 2018, reflecting a CAGR of 11.5% (2014-18).

As an experienced CRO with a proven track record of providing quality NME discovery, development and manufacturing services and continued focus on reliability, responsiveness and protection of client’s intellectual property, we believe we are well-positioned to benefit from the expected growth in the CRO industry. We offer an attractive variable cost alternative to the traditionally fixed cost, in-house, resource intensive business model of R&D focussed organisations.

We offer services through flexible business models that are customised to our client’s requirements. These range from a full-time equivalent (“FTE”) to a fee-for-service (“FFS”) model, or a combination thereof. During fiscal 2015, we serviced 221 clients, ranging from multinational corporations to start-ups, including eight of the top 10 global pharmaceutical companies by sales for 2014. (Source for top 10 global pharmaceutical companies by sales for 2014 — IMS Health MIDAS, December 2014) We have several long-term relationships and multi-year contracts with our clients, including three long-duration multi-disciplinary partnerships, each with a dedicated research centre, with three of the world’s leading global healthcare organisations Bristol-Myers Squibb Co. (“BMS”), Abbott Laboratories (Singapore) Pte. Ltd. (“Abbott”) and Baxter International Inc. (“Baxter”).

We deliver our services through a combination of scientific talent, globally accredited systems and R&D infrastructure. As of March 31, 2015, our tangible fixed assets (gross block) were ₹9,311 million. Our laboratory and manufacturing facilities are spread over more than 900,000 sq. ft. and located in Bengaluru, India. As of May 31, 2015, we had 2,122 scientists, including 258 Ph.Ds. and 1,665 scientists with a Master’s degree.

We were incorporated in 1993 and are headquartered in Bengaluru, India. We are a subsidiary of Biocon Limited (“Biocon”), a global biopharmaceutical enterprise focused on delivering affordable formulations and compounds. Biocon has been listed on the Indian stock exchanges since 2004 and as of May 31, 2015 had a market cap of ₹90.3 billion on the BSE as well as the NSE. Over the years, Biocon has successfully brought to the market several affordable and alternative therapeutic drugs in the areas of diabetes, oncology and auto-immune diseases. Biocon is currently focused on bringing its portfolio of generic insulins and bio-similar monoclonal antibodies to global markets.

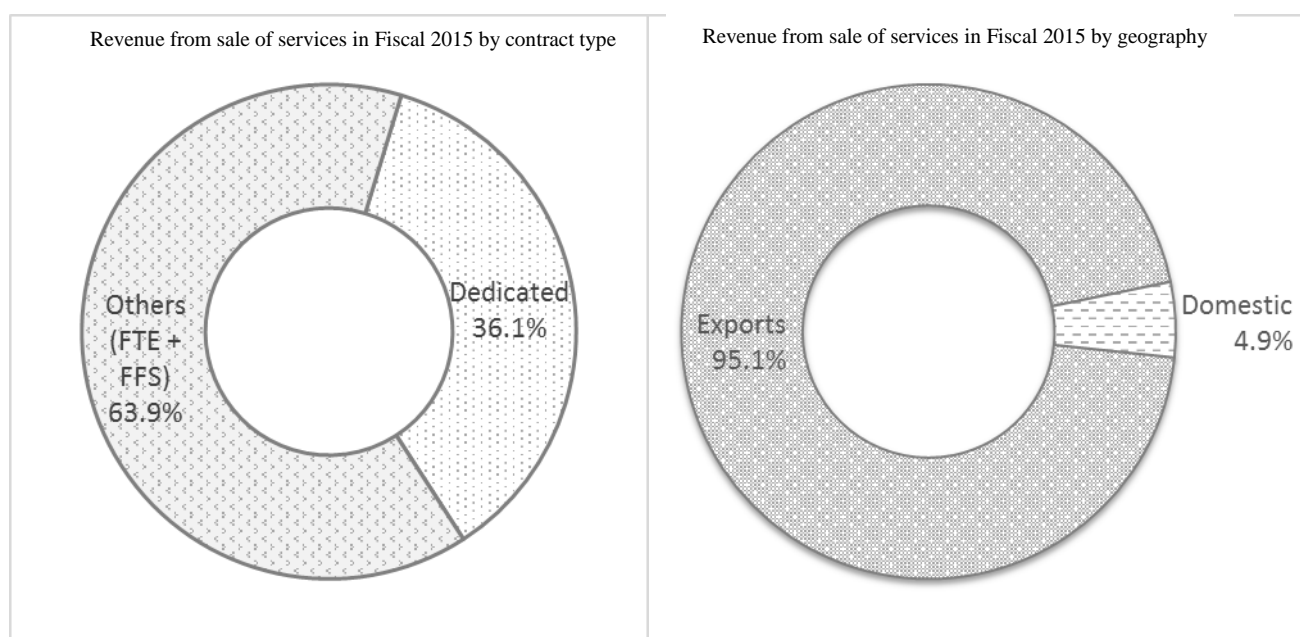

For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015, we generated total revenue of ₹8,716 million, restated profit of ₹1,750 million and EBITDA of ₹2,928 million. For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2014, we generated total revenue of ₹7,077 million, restated profit of ₹1,348 million and EBITDA of ₹2,226 million. For the three fiscal years ended March 31, 2015, our total revenue, restated profit and EBITDA grew at a CAGR of 27.7%, 35.1% and 28.3%, respectively.

Effective April 1, 2014, our subsidiary Clinigene International Limited (“Clinigene”), through which we have provided our clinical research and clinical trial services, was amalgamated with us. Prior to this date, our results did not include the results of Clinigene.

For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015, our revenue from the sale of services was ₹8,427 million. For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015, we derived 36.1% and 63.9% of our revenue from the sale of services from long-term contracts with dedicated infrastructure and other contracts, respectively. For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015, we derived 95.1% and 4.9% of our revenue from the sale of services to customers outside India and from customers in India, respectively.

The charts below present the split of our revenue from the sale of services for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015 between long-term contracts with dedicated infrastructure and other contracts and between customers outside India and customers in India, respectively:

Strengths

We believe we are well-positioned to capture market opportunities and to benefit from the expected growth in the R&D outsourcing market through our competitive strengths, which principally include the following:

World-class infrastructure, systems and processes that comply with quality standards to serve international markets and successful audits by regulatory authorities such as the FDA and EMA

As of March 31, 2015, our tangible fixed assets (gross block) were ₹9,311 million. Our laboratory and manufacturing facilities are spread over more than 900,000 sq. ft. and are located in Bengaluru, India. We believe our infrastructure, along with high standards of regulatory compliance and quality services, provide us with a sustainable competitive advantage. We operate our laboratory and manufacturing facilities to high standards that are consistent with the requirements of our large global clients. Our research facilities and systems are certified with ISO 9001:2008, ISO 14001:2004 and OHSAS 18001:2007 standards. Our pre-clinical research facilities are Good Laboratory Practices (“GLP”) certified and accredited by Association for Assessment and Accreditation of Laboratory Animal Care (“AAALAC”). Our clinical facilities are GLP compliant, National Accreditation Board for Testing and Calibration Laboratories (“NABL”), College of American Pathologists (“CAP”) and Central Drugs Standard Control Organisation (“CDSCO”) accredited and have undergone multiple FDA audits. In 2014, we successfully completed an FDA pre-approval inspection of one of our manufacturing facilities. In 2010 and 2013, we also successfully completed EMA audits of our bio-analytical and clinical facilities. In addition to regulatory inspections, our facilities and systems are regularly inspected by our clients.

Talented and qualified pool of scientists and an experienced management

We have an experienced and qualified team of scientists across multiple disciplines. As of May 31, 2015, 90.6% of our scientist pool of 2,122 scientists had a Master's degree or a Ph.D. We believe our position as an industry leader represents a significant competitive advantage in attracting and retaining high-quality scientists required to successfully execute our innovative business model and to differentiate our service offerings from those of other CROs. We recruit primarily from the large scientific talent pool in India as well as from overseas, in particular, Indian nationals returning home after having studied or worked overseas with significant educational or research industry experience. For the three fiscal years ended March 31, 2013, March 31, 2014 and March 31, 2015, we had an average attrition rate of 14.3%.

According to India's University Grants Commission's annual report for 2012-2013, approximately 4 million students enrol annually for undergraduate education in the sciences. We believe there is also a large pool of students who seek to pursue their career in India after obtaining scientific qualifications (Master's, Ph.D.'s and post-doctoral) overseas. This makes India an attractive destination for world-class talent which, when combined with modern R&D enabling infrastructure, makes a value proposition for multinational organisations looking to outsource R&D.

We are led by a dedicated and experienced executive management team that has a median of 20 years of experience across global clinical research, pharmaceutical and life sciences industries. Our team has leveraged its deep knowledge and wide network of industry relationships to drive significant growth in revenue and earnings over the past five years.

Integrated service offerings across multiple domains with a proven track-record of successful delivery, reliability, cost efficiency and client satisfaction

We have evolved from being a discovery chemistry and discovery biology-focused CRO to an integrated provider of discovery and development services for NMEs across a range of domains including small molecules, large molecule biologics, ADCs and oligonucleotides. The depth and breadth of our scientific capabilities and service offerings provide us multiple entry points during the life cycle of our clients' molecules across the discovery and development process. Our broad discovery and development capabilities also enable us to serve a number of industrial sectors beyond the pharmaceutical and biotechnology sectors.

We believe our operational track record in successful delivery of projects, responsiveness, process innovation, turnaround times, and productivity has facilitated the strengthening of our client base. Over the years, we have built significant credibility and a regulatory track record in various therapeutic platforms and service models. This has helped us attract a wider range of new clientele as well as deepen our existing client collaborations through successive renewal and expansion of contractual arrangements. An example of this can be found in our research collaboration with BMS, which since fiscal 2009 has produced nine drug candidates for further study and helped BMS reduce time and costs associated with advancing new compounds to first-in-human studies. There are also other examples of projects that have grown in size and where our working relationships with our clients have become more strategic.

Our flexible business models allow us to meet the discovery and development needs of a wide range of clients, from small biotechnology companies to large pharmaceutical companies. Through more than 20 years of experience, we have developed significant expertise managing large integrated collaborations and executing complex projects. In addition, we have been able to take advantage of India's large, low-cost scientific talent pool to deliver our services to multinational companies at competitive rates, especially when compared with costs for comparable services in developed countries.

Attractive and diversified client base with several client collaborations

During fiscal 2015, we serviced 221 clients, ranging from multinational corporations to start-ups, including eight of the top 10 global pharmaceutical companies by sales for 2014. We have longstanding, extensive relationships with multinational clients such as BMS, Baxter, and Merck & Co, as well as emerging small- to mid-sized companies such as Achillion Pharmaceuticals, Inc., Aquinox Pharmaceuticals, Inc. and Saniona AB. We continually strive towards strengthening our client relationships by ensuring that our service offerings keep pace with our clients' requirements. For example, in fiscal 2009, we established a dedicated centre for BMS to support their R&D across multiple disciplines. Over time, this dedicated centre has become their largest R&D presence in Asia with more than 400 scientists. The capabilities and therapeutic focus of this R&D centre have evolved in line with the shift in BMS' R&D strategy. BMS has also recently extended this engagement to 2020. Our integrated service offerings coupled with consistent performance and delivery has helped us continuously renew our client engagements as well. To illustrate, eight of our top 10 clients for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015 had been working with us for at least five years. Regardless of size, our clients seek innovative product development, superior quality and skilled scientific knowledge to support their R&D needs.

Commitment to protection of our clients' intellectual property and data confidentiality

Protection of intellectual property and data confidentiality is integral to the success of R&D outsourcing. Since our inception, we have made it a strategic priority to safeguard our clients' proprietary rights by using well-established and strictly enforced intellectual property protection procedures. We have a zero-tolerance policy for confidentiality breaches and data leakages. We implement this policy through a combination of solutions including technology, work-flow and information segregation as well as legal remedies. All our employees are required to sign non-disclosure agreements when they join our Company. Our entire physical infrastructure is access controlled, with access granted only on a need-to-work basis. Information regarding the projects being undertaken is segregated and shared on a need-to know-basis post discussions with our clients. Work flows are designed to minimise overlaps and sharing of information between various groups. Data sharing instruments such as USB drives, external email and cloud access are restricted and monitored vigilantly. Furthermore, each of our three long-term clients, BMS, Abbott and Baxter, have a dedicated, ring-fenced infrastructure with secured connectivity in addition to our Company-wide intellectual property protection protocols. This physical separation of client projects ensures enhanced security and protection of our clients' intellectual property. We have not experienced any material breach of confidentiality to date.

Financial stability and stable cash flows

Discovery and development is an extensive process which builds a composite of information drawn from multiple disciplines. Typically organisations that engage in outsourcing for discovery and development are looking for a long-term engagement where a CRO partner can support them through the entire process. We have the financial stability and steady operational cash flows to enable the extension of our platforms in line with the present and future needs of our clientele. Our long term collaborations with certain clients lead to predictable and stable cash flows. Our strong balance sheet and financial performance has helped us in reassuring clients that we will be able to support their NME development with dedicated investments in terms of both capabilities and capacities. Over the years, we have invested in specialised services and equipment and dedicated infrastructure to support these growing needs. Our ability to make these investments helps strengthen trust and engagement with our clients, which enhances our ability to retain them and extend our engagement across multiple platforms. As at March 31, 2015, our Debt / Equity ratio was 0.18. For fiscal 2015, our EBITDA was ₹2,928 million.

Strategies

Our Company's vision is to be a world-class partner delivering innovative and scientific solutions for our clients. Accordingly, the key components of our strategy to achieve this vision are as follow:

"Follow the molecule" by providing our clients with integrated services

We plan to build on our success in integrated services to "follow" our clients' molecules across discovery, development and manufacturing. We believe that we are well-positioned as a one-stop shop for our clients to advance their R&D programmes from the discovery stage through preclinical and clinical trials and, with our new planned manufacturing facilities to support them through the commercialisation process. For example, we have worked on several of our clients' molecules from lead selection stage through phase I clinical trials and beyond, providing services encompassing various multi-disciplinary activities such as drug substance process development and current Good Manufacturing Practices ("cGMP") compliant manufacturing (from gram scale to multi-kg scale), formulation and analytical development and stability studies.

Expand capabilities and capacities while enhancing efficiencies in R&D services

We are establishing new capabilities and augmenting our existing services across the discovery and development continuum in line with the changing requirements of the global R&D focussed industries. For example, in 2009 we invested in biologics development capabilities in line with the increasing focus on large molecules by global organisations. We are now investing further in this area to drive our growth and capitalise on the changing pipeline mix of our clients. Additionally, we have invested in new capabilities such as the discovery and development of ADCs and oligonucleotides. We have also established a bio-analytical centre to undertake high-end analysis which supplements our clinical services.

We continuously invest in capacity augmentation. In September 2014, our new 75,000 sq. ft. stability centre became operational and our 200,000 sq. ft. R&D centre, which will service increased requirements for discovery chemistry, discovery biology and dedicated centres, is scheduled to become operational in fiscal 2016. We are also in the process of setting up additional capacities in formulation development and biologics manufacturing.

We continue to enhance operational efficiency and increase productivity by leveraging technology, enhancing physical infrastructure, and improving processes. We have recently implemented an enterprise-wide SAP platform to facilitate business growth through efficient use of resources, creation of synergies and monitoring of performance. We continue to evaluate other measures including high through-put automation technologies to enhance efficiencies and improve performance.

Scale-up our manufacturing capabilities

We intend to evolve from a CRO into a Contract Research and Manufacturing Services (“CRAMS”) organisation with commercial-scale manufacturing capabilities, as we leverage our existing relationships with clients and provide forward integration on the discovery and development continuum. We currently manufacture developmental batches of both small and large molecules to support clinical trials for multiple clients. In the area of small molecules, we have multiple client-programmes that are in late-stage clinical development. We intend to leverage our longstanding client relationships and our successful regulatory track-record, including with the FDA, to become a commercial manufacturing partner of these clients. We have recently entered into three long-term contracts with two existing clients for commercial manufacturing of their novel small molecules. Currently one of these molecules is under late stage development, while the other two are at various stages of clinical development. We also intend to attract new clients for commercial manufacturing opportunities.

We have commenced the process of establishing a new commercial-scale facility in Mangaluru to manufacture novel small molecules for innovator companies in pharmaceutical, agrochemical and other industrial sectors. We have also expanded our current small molecule manufacturing facilities in Bengaluru to meet the interim manufacturing needs of our clients. Additionally, we are in the process of expanding our large molecule manufacturing capabilities by establishing a new unit in Bengaluru.

Engage, expand and extend client collaborations

We have seen an increasing trend amongst multinational companies to limit their outsourcing activities to a select group of CROs. This select group of CROs tends to have a broad range of integrated capabilities enabling clients to deepen and strengthen their engagement across multiple services. (Source: IQ4I Report) We believe that this trend will become more prevalent across the biotechnology and pharmaceutical industries, and we believe our track record of success and growing integrated service platforms position us to take advantage of such opportunities.

We intend to further leverage our successful delivery, quality performance and track record of successful audits by regulatory authorities such as the FDA and EMA and our clients and intellectual property protection to strengthen our client relationships. We believe there are significant opportunities to expand and extend our current collaborations by expanding the range and depth of discovery and development solutions used by those clients. We intend to do this by offering additional tailored solutions to their R&D and commercial pipeline.

In order to ensure we provide the most value to our clients and pursue new opportunities, we intend to continue to follow a targeted account management strategy based on a partnering approach and focussing on growth potential. Targeted client engagement including personalised project managers and visits to our facilities by clients can help expand existing client collaborations and win new clients. We will continue to pursue opportunities to establish dedicated centres to meet our clients’ long-term discovery and development and manufacturing requirements.

While pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies will continue to remain our core client base, we intend to deepen our penetration in allied sectors. We intend to extend our core competencies of discovery and development of small and large molecules to support organisations across sectors which have similar R&D requirements. This will include sectors such as nutraceuticals, animal health, agro-chemicals, cosmetics and electronics.

We believe our clients value our ability to offer a wide breadth of quality services to meet their R&D needs, and we intend to continue to expand our service offerings in line with the evolving requirements of our clients in the future.

Discovery Chemistry

Discovery chemistry is the process of designing novel chemical entities with potential application across a wide variety of sectors. For example, a pharmaceuticals-focussed organisation would aim to discover molecules targeted at a specific disease area. The typical activities in this space are the generation of new chemical entities and their initial optimisation. We started offering these services in 1994 and have expanded our capabilities over time to a wide range of molecule classes and industries.

Today we service organisations across pharmaceutical, biotechnology, veterinary, agricultural, nutritional, cosmetic, flavours and perfumes, chemical, diagnostics and electronics industries. Our services now encompass several principle compound classes including heterocyclic, natural products, saccharides, peptides and nucleosides. We work on the synthesis of molecules for integrated discovery and generation of compound libraries, reference standards, metabolites, impurities, surfactants, dyes and polymers. The synthesis of these compounds is supported by analytical laboratories which are equipped to purify and analyse them to ensure that they are at a predetermined purity level before they are tested in animals or in vitro cell systems for efficacy and safety.

Discovery Biology

Discovery biology supports both small and large molecule discovery research. In the case of small molecules, it plays an important role in target identification and validation, and participates in the lead selection process. On the other hand, for large molecules, the discovery biology team is responsible for therapeutic molecule generation, protein engineering, screening and lead selection. The lead selection process for both small and large molecules involves multiple evaluation parameters, with key inputs from drug metabolism and pharmacokinetics (“DMPK”) studies and in-vivo evaluation.

Starting from 1994, continuous investment in this space has resulted in the establishment of capabilities across multiple therapeutic molecule classes such as recombinant proteins, monoclonal antibodies and ADCs. We currently offer services in molecular biology, cell-line and antibody generation, protein sciences, assay biology, absorption, distribution, metabolism, and excretion (“ADME”) and crystallography in addition to DMPK and in-vivo pharmacology. These capabilities are supported by modern infrastructure and a scientific team with global experience.

In addition, discovery biology plays a significant role in development and supply of critical bio-reagents to support global discovery research for multiple clients. Furthermore, we have leveraged our technical expertise and knowledge to provide innovative solutions for research in agricultural, nutraceutical and cosmetic industry.

Chemical Development

The chemical development platform supports the development of a process for manufacturing of small molecule, facilitating an NME’s transition from the laboratory to a manufacturing setup based on increasing volumes. We started offering these services in 2001, and today have comprehensive offerings in the space of NME drug substance development. We offer services that help clients develop NME manufacturing processes which are scalable, robust, reproducible, safe and efficient. This includes the synthesis of novel molecules from gram stage (in research labs) to several hundred kg (in manufacturing facilities).

This transition is unique for each molecule, with its own set of challenges. We draw upon various technologies and analytical methods to support this process. Our current process R&D capabilities include process design and optimisation, scale up, engineering studies, process hazard evaluation studies, design of experiments, particle engineering, flow chemistry, polymorph and salt screening, and process automation. All of these activities include the principles of “Quality by Design” to ensure that our clients have an optimal, safe, cost effective and robust process to support the clinical development and eventual commercial manufacturing of their molecule.

We have non-GMP and cGMP capabilities to support scale-up studies and pre-clinical supplies and our facilities are versatile and flexible to accommodate a variety of process needs in terms of operating parameters, type of chemistry and size and type of process equipment.

Formulation

As a molecule moves forward through the discovery and development continuum towards clinical evaluation in humans, a drug substance has to be converted to a drug product (also known as a formulation), which is customised to the specific mode of administration. Typically, molecules have simpler formulations when they are being tested at preclinical and phase I stage. The final formulation evolves along with the clinical development phase, and gets further optimised as the molecule moves towards commercialisation.

We forayed into this space in 2010 and currently offer a broad spectrum of formulation development capabilities for early as well as late phase formulation projects. These capabilities include pre-formulation studies, toxicology, formulation development, and early and late phase clinical formulation development. Our capabilities span across various types of formulations including oral solids (tablets, capsules, drug-in-capsule), oral liquids (solutions and suspensions), injectables (solutions and lyophilised), and modified release oral dosage forms (functionally coated mini-tablets, drug layered beads as well as matrix tablet formulations). Our topical formulation development capabilities include gels and polymeric films.

Our cGMP pilot scale manufacturing facility for solid orals supports scale-up activities, process development and manufacture of clinical supplies. Our facility has obtained a cGMP certification from the Drug Controller General of India (“DCGI”) and has been successfully audited and inspected for quality and safety by various clients. We are now investing in capacity augmentation for this service platform in Bengaluru.

Safety Assessment

The main objective of our safety assessment department is to assess the hazard potential of drugs and other products in animals and in vitro cell systems which are used as surrogate species for extrapolation of data to humans. These activities are part of the pre-clinical studies conducted to determine the suitability of a drug before they are tested in humans. Similar studies are also conducted to assess the safety of pesticides, food additives, cosmetics and other chemicals. All toxicology studies intended for registration purposes must be conducted under GLP.

We set up our vivarium in 2009 in line with the growing requirement of our clientele. Our vivarium is AAALAC accredited and has a dedicated GLP section for regulatory toxicology studies in addition to a dedicated non-GLP area for discovery, disease models (pharmacology), drug metabolism and pharmacokinetic studies. Safety assessment, or toxicology studies, in animals span several disciplines (safety pharmacology, general toxicology, genetic toxicology, reproductive toxicology, behavioural toxicology, immune-toxicology and carcinogenicity). Currently, we have the capability to conduct studies in rats, mice, rabbits, and guinea pigs using a variety of routes to simulate human use conditions.

Clinical Services

Clinical services encompass a broad range of activities most notably clinical trials, BA/BE studies, bio-analytical testing, central lab services, medical writing, biostatistics and data management services, and pharmacovigilance services. We have historically conducted these services through our subsidiary, Clinigene. Clinigene was set up in 2000 and as of April 1, 2014 it has been amalgamated with us pursuant to a court-approved scheme.

We offer full-service solutions for clinical development of drugs, nutraceuticals and medical devices. Our clinical trial services encompass phase I-IV clinical trials in patient populations at hospital sites across India. Our human pharmacology unit conducts phase I trials and BA/BE studies in healthy volunteers. Our central laboratory provides services exclusively for clinical research. We also provide bio-analytical services to support preclinical and clinical development programs of small molecules and large molecules. Our bio-analytical lab is GLP-compliant, and specialises in immunogenicity and pharmacokinetic analysis of biologics such as monoclonal antibodies, recombinant proteins, enzymes, biomarkers and cytokines. Our facilities have been inspected by several regulatory agencies such as the FDA and EMA.

Stability Services

Stability testing forms an integral part of the drug development process which helps establish the shelf life of the product. These studies are conducted as per the International Conference on Harmonisation of Technical Requirements for Registration of Pharmaceuticals for Human Use (“ICH”) stability guidelines. The API and formulation of every NME that goes through the development continuum are required to be placed on stability to assess their stability. The purpose of stability testing is to provide evidence on how the quality of an API and formulation varies with time under the influence of a variety of environmental factors such as temperature, humidity, and light, and to establish a shelf life and recommended storage conditions. The design of the stability-testing programme takes into account the intended market and the climatic conditions in the area in which the product will be used. This is accomplished by placing samples of API and formulations in stability chambers with variety of light, temperatures and humidity conditions. At pre-determined time intervals, samples are pulled out of stability chambers for analytical testing to determine their stability. This data is generated over a typical timeframe of two to three years and is used to define the shelf life and the recommended storage condition for that product.

Our Company has recently established a stability centre aimed at providing services supporting early stage (IND stability) to commercial stability studies. This stability centre is a multi-product GMP facility spread over 75,000 sq. ft. across three floors.

Large Molecules Development

The large molecules development platform supports the development of a process for manufacturing of a novel biological entity as it transitions from the laboratory to a manufacturing set-up based on increasing volumes. We started offering these services in 2009, and today have comprehensive offerings in the space of biologics drug substance development.

We offer services in end-to-end early stage development (from DNA to IND), early and late stage process development and optimisation, product testing and characterisation, as well as technology transfer, scale-up and manufacturing of clinical supplies. Our experience range includes development of monoclonal antibodies, glycoproteins, sub-unit and complex proteins, and conjugated proteins in E. coli, Chinese Hamster Ovary (“CHO”) and pichia platforms.

Our multi-product manufacturing facility is designed to allow for capacity and technological flexibility, for optimal personnel and product flow, as well as regulatory compliance. This includes two separate suites for manufacturing, one each for mammalian cell culture and microbial production, each with its own separate upstream and downstream areas. We have stringent quality control and assurance systems in place to ensure a strong control on the operations. We have been audited by several large and mid-size pharmaceutical clients along with regulatory authorities and third party consultants. We are now investing in capacity augmentation for this service platform in Bengaluru.

Manufacturing

A successful discovery and development process culminates into the commercialisation of the molecule for the targeted application. However, this stage is underpinned by the performance of the drug in clinical trials. The drug supplies needed to support these trials are known as developmental supplies and have to be produced in a cGMP facility. The volumes needed to support the clinical trials and subsequent commercialisation gradually increase over time in line with the molecule’s progress. Typically, the volumes required to support the commercial launch are significantly higher than the quantities needed during the development phase. A subsequent ramp up in volumes however is contingent on the market response to the molecule.

Over the years, a number of our clients’ programmes have progressed through the development phase where we have gained significant process knowledge and experience by conducting process development and optimisation activities for these molecules. We believe this would typically make us a partner of choice to manufacture developmental batches and large-scale commercial supplies of these molecules if and when they are commercialised. We are currently supporting multiple novel molecules for late stage development and we believe that some of these molecules could help our foray into commercial scale manufacturing.

We have recently invested in capacity expansion of our small molecule manufacturing facility to support the ongoing late stage development programs of our clients. We believe that this capacity augmentation will be able to support the initial commercial launch volumes. We are also investing in a green field commercial scale manufacturing facility to be set up in Mangaluru to support additional volumes as may be required.

Our facilities have cGMP certification from the DCGI and have been successfully audited and inspected for quality and safety by various clients. In October 2014, we successfully cleared a FDA pre-approval inspection of one of our facilities. We believe that this approval is a validation of our quality systems that support cGMP manufacturing processes.

Dedicated Centres

We have entered into certain long term client contracts, usually five years or longer, and as part of these long-term collaborations, we often set up a dedicated, customised and ring-fenced infrastructure in line with our client’s requirements. These dedicated centres are generally multi-disciplinary, FTE-based engagements which support the R&D requirements of our clients. Our clients may also fund the purchase of certain assets related to these long-term collaborations. While these assets are reflected in our financial statements and remain the property of our Company during the term of our engagement, the client may take-over these assets upon the termination of the engagement.

Our first dedicated centre was set up for BMS in 2009 and engages over 400 of our scientists. We have recently extended the BMS dedicated centre engagement to 2020. In addition, in 2012, we set up a dedicated research centre for Abbott and a dedicated research centre for Baxter in 2013. The Abbott Nutrition R&D centre (“ANRD”) engages about 30 of our scientists focused on maternal, paediatric, neo-natal nutrition and diabetes care in line with emerging market needs. The Baxter Global Research Centre (“BGRC”) has a multi-disciplinary team of about 150 of our scientists who work on product and analytical development, preclinical evaluation in parenteral nutrition and renal therapy.

We expect to continue to set up dedicated research centres in response to our clients’ needs.

Contractual Arrangements

We are generally awarded projects based upon our responses to requests for proposals received from organisations across R&D focussed sectors, not-for profit groups and academic and government organisations, and medical device industries, as well as work orders executed under our long-term collaboration agreements.

We have both long-term and short-term FTE contracts. In our FTE contracts, we typically bill based on the number of scientists deployed. In our long-term contracts our clients agree to a minimum utilisation of a specified number of scientists, which we dedicate to that client’s work. The scope of services and deliverables under FTE contracts generally evolves over time. We also agree to absorb a certain quantum of material costs in our FTE contracts, and then charge any additional spends on materials to our client. Our FTE contracts are generally renewable annually.

Our FFS contracts are short-term in nature. In FFS contracts, we generally agree to fixed prices for agreed services within a defined scope. While we may seek additional payments for work required outside the defined scope, we bear the risk of cost overruns for work within the scope.

Generally, our contracts are terminable by the client upon written notice of 30 to 90 days or such other period as may be agreed for a variety of reasons, including changes in regulatory or global standards, a consolidation or merger of the client, the client’s decision to forgo a particular study, the failure of drugs to satisfy efficacy and/or safety requirements, unexpected or undesired results of drug testing, the performance of our Company or the decision of the client to move their business to a different CRO. We are generally able to recover, at minimum, our invested costs when contracts are terminated. These contracts often require payment to us of expenses to wind down a study or project, payment to us of fees earned to date, and, in some cases, a termination fee.

We usually price contracts in U.S. dollars and incur costs, including employee and a significant portion of our material costs relating to those contracts, in Indian Rupees. We generally hedge our future revenues through a combination of hedging instruments including puts options and range forwards. Our hedging policy has migrated from instruments like forwards to plain puts and range forwards, mainly to reduce volatility.

Our FTE contracts are generally treated as “time and materials” contracts for accounting and revenue recognition purposes, while our FFS contracts are generally treated as fixed price contracts for these purposes. For more information on our revenue recognition policies, please see the section “Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations — Critical Accounting Policies — Revenue Recognition” on page 197.

Clients and Suppliers

During fiscal 2015, we serviced 221 clients, ranging from multinational corporations to start-ups, including eight of the top 10 global pharmaceutical companies by sales for 2014. (Source for top 10 global pharmaceutical companies by sales for 2014 — IMS Health MIDAS, December 2014) We have longstanding, extensive relationships with large multinational organisations as well as emerging small-to mid-sized companies.

Eight of our top 10 clients for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015 had been working with us for at least five years. Further, among the majority of our clients, revenue is diversified by multiple projects for a variety of compounds.

We rely on third party domestic and international suppliers for certain chemicals and equipment as well as support services, including the procurement, handling and transportation of animals for our research services.

Our Facilities

Our Registered Office is located in Bengaluru and we currently conduct our laboratory and manufacturing activities at two primary facilities which we lease from our Promoter, Biocon.

- Biocon SEZ, Biocon Park, Plot No. 3, 4 and 5 Bommasandra Industrial Area IV Phase, Jigani Link Road, Bommasandra, Bengaluru; and
- Plot number 113/C2, Bommasandra Industrial Area, Bengaluru.

We conduct our clinical trials on a property owned by us located at Semicon Park, Tower – I, Electronic City Phase II Industrial Area, Bengaluru.

In addition, we have entered into a utility service agreement with our Promoter, Biocon, pursuant to the terms of which, Biocon supplies us utility services such as water, steam, nitrogen as well as provides services like sewage and effluent treatment and security services.

We are in the process of setting up a manufacturing facility in Mangaluru to manufacture novel small molecules for companies in pharmaceutical, agrochemical and other industrial sectors. In December 2014, we entered into a memorandum of understanding (“MoU”) with Mangalore SEZ Limited (“MSEZL”), a private company that is developing the Mangalore SEZ and has acquired land from the Karnataka Industrial Areas Development Board. Pursuant to the terms of the MoU and an extension letter of MSEZL, we are required to execute and register a lease deed with MSEZL before July 31, 2015. According to the MoU, the lease will be for a term up to January 26, 2060 with the option of a subsequent renewal. As of March 31, 2015, we have made payments of ₹53 million under this MoU. MSEZL will also provide operations and maintenance services. In January 2015, we submitted an application to the Development Commissioner of the Mangaluru SEZ for granting our Company co-developer status in order to establish a commercial-scale API manufacturing facility in Mangaluru, which was approved on March 17, 2015.

We believe that our properties, taken as a whole, are in good operating condition and are suitable for our business operations.

Sales and Marketing

Our client engagement typically begins with a single service and we work towards expanding our offerings in other areas of the discovery and development continuum to support various molecules in their development pipelines. This transition of our client engagement from a single service (component play) to a set of services (cluster play) to an integrated play where we engage the client across multiple platforms or stage of development is integral to our strategy of strengthening relationships. We also set up dedicated centres for our clients which are customised to their specific requirements. This evolution of our client relationship from component to cluster to integrated to a dedicated play is typically accompanied by a shift in focus from cost arbitrage to R&D productivity to innovation as the client gains more confidence in our ability to deliver and support them through their discovery and development process.

We employ a team of business development sales representatives and support staff that promote, market and sell our services to life sciences companies primarily in North America, Europe and Japan. In addition to significant marketing and business development experience, many of these individuals have technical and/or scientific backgrounds.

Our business development team works with our senior executives, functional heads and project team leaders to maintain key client relationships and engage in business development activities. For many of our large client relationships, we have strategic account management teams to provide clients with a single point of contact to support delivery, cultural and process integration and to facilitate integrate opportunities.

Competition

The R&D outsourcing industry consists of a number of full-service global CROs and numerous other small, limited-service providers based out of India, China, Eastern Europe and developed country markets. Some of our competitors have a much broader portfolio of business, greater resources and more experience than us. In addition to competing with a number of global, full-service companies and smaller providers, we also face competition from captive R&D centres, as well as universities. Newer, small entities with speciality focuses, such as those aligned to a specific disease or therapeutic area, also compete aggressively for clients.

CROs compete on the basis of a number of factors, including reliability, past performance, expertise and experience in specific therapeutic areas, scope of service offerings, infrastructure, track record of intellectual property protection, strengths in various geographic markets, technological capabilities and price. Although there can be no assurance that we will continue to do so, we believe that we compete favourably in these areas. If in the future we are unable to effectively compete in these areas, we could lose business to our competitors which could harm our operating results.

Intellectual Property

Protection of our clients' intellectual property is critical to our business. In our business of providing R&D services, our clients generally retain ownership of all associated intellectual property, including those they provide to us and those arising from the services we provide. Our success therefore depends in substantial part on our ability to protect the proprietary rights of our clients. Since our inception, we have made it a strategic priority to safeguard our clients' proprietary rights.

We adopt several measures to protect the intellectual property of our clients. As one aspect of our system of protecting intellectual property rights, including our clients' and our own, we enter into agreements with all our employees, under which all intellectual property arising from the activities conducted by them during their employment belongs to us, and our employees waive all relevant rights or claims to such intellectual property. Furthermore, our service agreements provide that all intellectual property generated during the course of a project is exclusively the property of the client for whom we are conducting the project. All our employees are also bound by confidentiality obligations and are required to maintain confidentiality of the data generated by them.

Despite measures we take to protect intellectual property of our clients or our own, unauthorised parties may attempt to obtain and use information that we regard as proprietary. See "Risk Factors — General Risks Related to Our Business — If we fail to protect the intellectual property rights of our clients, we may be subject to liability for breach of contract and may suffer damage to our reputation" on page 20. To date, we are not aware of any such breaches. We rely upon a combination of confidentiality policies, nondisclosure agreements and other contractual arrangements to protect our trade secrets, and copyright and trademark laws to protect intellectual property rights.

For details of intellectual property owned by us, please see the section "Government Approvals" on page 231.

Employees

As of May 31, 2015, we had 2,685 full-time employees, including 2,122 scientists, which term is defined to include our employees in technical roles whose highest educational degree is in the sciences (Chemistry, Biology and related areas). As of May 31, 2015, 258 scientists held Ph.Ds and 1,665 scientists held Master's degrees. We do not have any employees that are covered by a collective bargaining agreement, and we believe our overall relations with our employees are good.

Our scientists and technical staff collectively possess expertise in variety of disciplines supporting life-sciences based discovery and development to make the services we provide increasingly valuable to our current and potential clients.

The level of competition among employers in India for skilled personnel is high. We believe that our brand recognition is an advantage in attracting qualified candidates. In addition, we believe that our wide range of service offerings allows us to offer broad experience to our scientists.

Indemnification and Insurance

We may be held liable for errors or omissions in connection with the discovery and development and manufacturing services we perform. It is possible that we could be held liable for claims and expenses arising from any professional malpractice of the scientists with whom we contract or employ, or in the event of personal injury to or death of persons.

In the normal course of business, we enter into agreements with our clients that incorporate indemnification provisions. We typically seek to limit our indemnification, where possible, by limiting the amount payable and limiting the scope of our indemnification, under our contracts with clients. However, contractual arrangements are subject to negotiation with clients, and the terms and scope of any indemnification, limitation of liability or exclusion of liability may vary from client to clients and based on the type of services.

While we maintain liability insurance that covers the locations in which we currently do business, it is possible that we could become subject to claims not covered by insurance or that exceed our coverage limits. We could be materially and adversely affected if we were required to pay damages or bear the costs of defending any claim that is outside the scope of, or in excess of, a contractual indemnification provision, beyond the level of insurance coverage or not covered by insurance, or in the event that an indemnifying party does not fulfil its indemnification.

We currently maintain an industrial all risks policy, which covers our building, plants and machinery against fire, earthquake and other disasters and also covers against burglary, theft and riot and vehicular insurance. We also maintain an insurance policy under the Public Liability Insurance Act, 1991 and clinical trials insurance which indemnifies us against any adverse drug reactions including diseases, injury or death of a research subject and damage to third party property. We have a marine insurance policy which covers movement of goods in transit. In addition, we maintain commercial general liability coverage and terrorism insurance coverage to protect us against losses. We have obtained directors' and officers' liability cover. We also maintain group term life, health and personal accident insurance policies, which cover medical expenses, disability, and life insurance for employees and dependents.

Environmental Regulation and Liability

We are subject to various laws and regulations relating to the protection of the environment and human health and safety in all of the countries in which we do business, including laws and regulations governing the management and disposal of hazardous substances and wastes, the cleanup of contaminated sites and the maintenance of a safe workplace. Our operations include the use, generation, and disposal of hazardous materials and highly regulated medical wastes.

Legal Proceedings

We are party to legal proceedings incidental to our business. While our management currently believes that the ultimate outcome of these proceedings, individually and in the aggregate, will not have a material adverse effect on our financial statements, litigation is subject to inherent uncertainties. Were an unfavourable ruling to occur, there exists the possibility of a material adverse impact on our financial condition and results of operations. For details, see the section "Outstanding Litigation and Material Developments" on page 210.

REGULATIONS AND POLICIES

Given below is a summary of certain relevant laws and regulations applicable to our Company. The information in this chapter has been obtained from publications available in the public domain. The description of the applicable regulations as given below has been provided in a manner to provide general information to the investors and is not exhaustive and shall not be treated as a substitute for professional legal advice. The statements below are based on the current provisions of applicable law, which are subject to change or modification by subsequent legislative, regulatory, administrative or judicial decisions.

Under the provisions of various Central Government and State Government statutes and legislations, our Company is required to obtain and regularly renew certain licenses or registrations and to seek statutory permissions to conduct our business and operations.

Key regulations applicable to our Company

The Special Economic Zones Act, 2005 and Special Economic Zone Rules, 2006

Special Economic Zones (“SEZs”) are established, regulated and governed by the Special Economic Zones Act, 2005, as amended (the “SEZ Act”). The SEZ Act was enacted for the establishment, development and management of SEZs for promotion of exports. An SEZ is a specifically delineated duty free enclave, deemed to be a foreign territory for the purposes of trade as well as duties and tariffs. A board of approval (“SEZ Board”) has been set up under the SEZ Act, which is responsible for promoting SEZs and ensuring their orderly development. The SEZ Board has a number of powers including the authority to approve proposals for the establishment of SEZs, the operations to be carried out in the SEZ by the developer, foreign collaborations and foreign direct investments.

The Special Economic Zone Rules, 2006 (the “SEZ Rules”) have been enacted to effectively implement the provisions of the SEZ Act. The SEZ Rules provide a simplified procedure for a single window clearance from central and state governments for setting up SEZs and ‘units’ in SEZs. The SEZ Rules also prescribe the procedure for the operation and maintenance of an SEZ, the setting up of a SEZ and conducting business within SEZs, with an emphasis on ‘self-certification’. The SEZ Rules also provide for the terms and conditions subject to which entrepreneurs and developers shall be entitled to exemptions, drawbacks and concessions, etc. The SEZ Rules stipulate the minimum area requirement for various categories of SEZs.

Export Oriented Unit Scheme

The Ministry of Commerce, Government of India introduced the Export Oriented Unit (“EOU”) Scheme on December 31, 1980. There is no specially earmarked zone under the EOU scheme and an EOU may be set up anywhere in India subject to operation under the customs bond. They are typically required to fulfill certain criteria such as achievement of positive net foreign exchange over a period of five years. EOUs are units which must export their entire production. They may be engaged in the manufacture, services, development of software, trading, repair, remaking, reconditioning and re-engineering. EOUs are allowed to import or locally procure, duty free, all types of goods including capital goods, raw materials and consumables required for export production. EOUs are deemed to be “Private Custom Bonded Warehouses” under section 58 and 65 of the Customs Act.

Drugs (Control) Act, 1950 (“Drugs Act”)

The Drugs Act provides for the control of the sale, supply and distribution of drugs. Under the Drugs Act, any drug may be declared by the Central Government to be a drug within its purview. The authorities may also prohibit the disposal or direct the sale of any specified drug.

Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 (“DCA”) and the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 (“DCA Rules”)

In order to maintain high standards of medical treatment, the DCA regulates the import, manufacture, distribution and sale of drugs and cosmetics and prohibits the manufacture and sale of certain drugs and cosmetics which are, inter alia, misbranded, adulterated, spurious or harmful. The DCA Rules specifies the requirement of a license for the manufacture of any drug or cosmetic including for the purpose of examination, testing or analysis are required to obtain necessary consent. It further mandates that every person holding a license must keep and maintain such records, registers and other documents as may be prescribed which may be subject to inspection by the relevant authorities.

According to the DCA Rules, human clinical trials are conducted in four sequential phases that may overlap under some circumstances:

- Phase I: The objective of phase I of trials is the estimation of safety and tolerability with the initial administration of an investigational new drug into human(s). Studies in this phase of development usually have non-therapeutic objectives and may be conducted in healthy volunteers subjects or certain types of patients. Drugs with significant potential toxicity e.g. cytotoxic drugs are usually studied in patients. Phase I trials should preferably be carried out by investigators trained in clinical pharmacology with access to the necessary facilities to closely observe and monitor the subjects.
- Phase II: The objective of phase II of trials is to evaluate the effectiveness of a drug for a particular indication or indications in patients with the condition under study and to determine the common short-term side-effects and risks associated with the drug. Studies in phase II should be conducted in a group of patients who are selected by relatively narrow criteria leading to a relatively homogeneous population. These studies should be closely monitored. An important goal for this Phase is to determine the dose(s) and regimen for phase III trials. Doses used in phase II are usually (but not always) less than the highest doses used in phase I.
- Phase III: The purpose of these trials is to obtain sufficient evidence about the efficacy and safety of the drug in a larger number of patients, generally in comparison with a standard drug and/or a placebo as appropriate. These trials may be carried out by clinicians in the concerned therapeutic areas, having facilities appropriate to the protocol. If the drug is already approved/marketed in other countries, phase III data should generally be obtained from at least 100 patients distributed over three to four centres primarily to confirm the efficacy and safety of the drug, in Indian patients when used as recommended in the product monograph for the claims made. If the application is for conduct of clinical trials as a part of multi-national clinical development of the drug, the number of sites and the patients as well as the justification for undertaking such trials in India shall be provided to the licensing authority
- Phase IV: Post Marketing trials are studies (other than routine surveillance) performed after drug approval and related to the approved indication(s). These trials go beyond the prior demonstration of the drug's safety, efficacy and dose definition. These trials may not be considered necessary at the time of new drug approval but may be required by the licensing authority for optimizing the drug's use. They may be of any type but should have valid scientific objectives. Phase IV trials include additional drug-drug interaction(s), dose-response or safety studies and trials designed to support use under the approved indication(s), e.g. mortality/morbidity studies, epidemiological studies etc.

Ethical Guidelines for Biomedical Research on Human Participants, 2006 ("ICMR Code")

The Indian Council of Medical Research has issued the ICMR Code which envisages that medical and related research using human beings as research participants must, necessarily, inter alia, ensure that the research is conducted under conditions in a manner conducive to and consistent with their dignity, well being and under conditions of professional fair treatment and transparency. Further such research is subjected to evaluation at all stages of the same.

As required by the ICMR Code, it is mandatory that all proposals on biomedical research involving human participants should be cleared by an appropriately constituted institutional ethics committee ("IEC") to safeguard the welfare and the rights of the participants. The IEC should have a maximum strength of 8 to 12 persons with the chairman being preferably from outside the institution so as to maintain independence of the committee. The other members should be a mix of medical, non-medical, scientific and non-scientific persons including lay public to reflect the differed viewpoints.

These ethics committees are entrusted not only with the initial review of the proposed research protocols prior to initiation of the projects but also have a continuing responsibility of regular monitoring of the approved programmes to foresee the compliance of the ethics during the period of the project. Such an ongoing review have to be in accordance with the international guidelines wherever applicable and the Standard Operating Procedures of the World Health Organization.

The ICMR Code also provides that the human participants may be paid for the inconvenience and time spent, and should be reimbursed for expenses incurred, in connection with their participation in the research. They may also receive free medical services. During the period of research if any such participant requires treatment for complaints other than the one being studied necessary, free ancillary care or appropriate treatments may be provided. However, payments should not be so large or the medical services so extensive as to make prospective participants consent readily to enroll in research against their better judgment, which would then be treated as undue inducement.

Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (“Narcotic Act”)

The Narcotic Act sets out the statutory framework for drug law enforcement in India. It prohibits, inter alia, the cultivation, production, manufacture, possession, sale, purchase, transportation, warehousing, consumption, inter-state movement, transshipment and import and export of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, except for medical or scientific purposes. It also controls and regulates selected chemicals which can be used in the illicit manufacture of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances. Offences under the Narcotic Act are essentially related to violations of the various prohibitions imposed under it, punishable by both imprisonment and monetary fines. The Narcotic Act was amended in 1989 to mandate death penalty for second offences relating to contraventions involving more than certain quantities of specified narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances. Subsequently, the Narcotic Act was amended in 2014 to remove restrictions on certain drugs called ‘essential narcotic drugs’ and to improve treatment and care for people dependent on drugs.

The Poisons Act, 1919 (the “Poisons Act”)

The Poisons Act restricts the use of poisons and these include aconite, arsenic, morphine, heroin, essential oils of almonds, oxalic acid, poppies, chloroform, zinc chloride, etc. The Poisons Act empowers the Central Government to prohibit the importation into India across any customs frontier defined by the Central Government of any specified poison and regulate the grant of licenses.

Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960 (“PCA Act”) and the Breeding of and Experiments on Animals (Control and Supervision) Rules, 1998 (the “Breeding Rules”)

The PCA Act envisages preventing infliction of unnecessary pain or suffering on animals and amending the laws relating to the prevention of cruelty to animals. The Act also provides for the constitution of an Animal Welfare Board to take care of the welfare of the animals in general, and also provides that the Animal Welfare Board constitute a Committee for the Purpose of Control and Supervision on Experimentation with Animals (“CPCSEA”). This committee is empowered to regulate the legal and ethical aspects of experimental animals being used in research and enact preventive measures wherever there is violation of the law.

The PCA Act renders legality to the performance of experiments (including experiments involving operations) on animals for the purpose of advancement by new discovery of physiological knowledge or of knowledge which shall be useful for saving or for prolonging life or alleviating suffering or for combating any disease, whether of human beings, animals or plants. However, the CPCSEA is entrusted with the duty to monitor the experiments on animals through an Institutional Animals Ethics Committee and ensure taking all such measures as may be required so that unnecessary pain or suffering is not meted out to animals being subjected to the experiments.

The PCA Act also provides that that in cases where experiments are performed in any institution, the responsibility for performing the experiments with due care and humanity and under the influence of some anesthetic of sufficient power to prevent the animals feeling pain, is placed on the person in charge of the institution and that, in cases where experiments are performed outside an institution by individuals, such individuals are qualified in that behalf and the experiments are performed on their full responsibility.

The Breeding of and Experiments on Animals (Control and Supervision) Rules, 1998 (the “Breeding Rules”), issued under the PCA Act, provides that no establishment shall carry on the business of breeding of animals or trade of animals for the purpose of experiments unless it is registered under the PCA Act. Every such registered establishment has to maintain a register as per the specified format and record complete particulars about the kind of animal to be used for conducting any experiment, the health of the animal, the nature of experiment to be performed, and the reasons necessitating the performance of such an experiment on particular species.

The Institutional Animals Ethics Committee, established under PCA Act is entrusted with the control and supervision of experiments on animal performed in an establishment which is constituted and operated in accordance with procedures specified for the purpose by the CPCSEA. Any registered establishment, before acquiring an animal or conducting any experiment on such animal, has to apply for permission of the CPCSEA or the Institutional Animals Ethics Committee.

Atomic Energy Act, 1962 (“Atomic Energy Act”) and Atomic Energy (Radiation Protection) Rules, 2004 (“Atomic Energy Rules”)

The Atomic Energy Act, inter alia, mandates that no minerals, concentrates and other materials which contain prescribed substances be disposed of without the previous permission in writing of the Central Government. Further, the Atomic Energy Act provides that the Central Government may require a person to make periodical and other returns or such statements accompanied by plans, drawings and other documents as regards any prescribed substance in the Atomic Energy Act that can be a source of atomic energy and further states that the Central Government may prohibit among other things the acquisition, production, possession, use, disposal, export or import of any prescribed equipment or substance except under a license granted by it to that effect.

Pursuant to the provisions of the Atomic Energy Act, the Central Government has framed the Atomic Energy Rules, which apply to practices adopted and interventions applied with respect to radiation sources. The Atomic Energy Rules prescribe guidelines such as license for carrying out activities relating to radiation, specifies procedure for obtaining licenses, exemptions, etc. and requirements for radiation surveillance, health surveillance etc.

Radiation Protection Rules, 1971 (“Radiation Rules”)

The Radiation Rules provide that all persons handling radioactive material need to obtain a license from a competent authority. It stipulates that no person is to use any radioactive material for any purpose, in any location and in any quantity, other than in a manner otherwise specified in the license and that every employer must designate a “Radiological Safety Officer” and maintain records with respect to every such radiation worker in the manner prescribed in the Radiation Rules.

Radiation Surveillance Procedures for Medical Application of Radiation, 1989 (“Radiation Surveillance Procedures”)

The Radiation Surveillance Procedures have been notified in pursuance of rule 15 of the Radiation Rules. In terms of the Radiation Surveillance Procedures, employers have to ensure that all procedures and operations involving radiation installations, radiation equipment and radioactive materials are performed in conjunction with a pre planned surveillance programme approved by the competent authority so as to ensure adequate protection. The Radiation Surveillance Procedures also provide for licensing of radioactive equipment and maintenance of records.

Lift Rules

We are subject to the registration and licence requirements and safety rules and regulations framed by the state governments of Karnataka under Karnataka Lifts Act, 1974 and the Karnataka Lift Rules 1976.

Trade Marks Act, 1999 (“Trade Marks Act”)

The Trade Marks Act provides for the application and registration of trademarks in India. The purpose of the Trade Marks Act is to grant exclusive rights to marks such as a brand, label and heading and to obtain relief in case of infringement for commercial purposes as a trade description. Application for the registration of trademarks has to be made to Controller-General of Patents, Designs and Trade Marks who is the Registrar of Trademarks for the purposes of the Trade Marks Act. The Trade Marks Act prohibits any registration of deceptively similar trademarks or chemical compound among others. It also provides for penalties for infringement, falsifying and falsely applying trademarks.

Foreign regulations applicable to our Company

Our Company is, or is expected to be, subject to regulation, principally through inspections, by the FDA and the EMA and the National Competent Authorities (“NCA”) in respect of its services as detailed below:

- chemical development: small molecule manufacturing and testing;
- biologics: large molecule manufacturing and testing;
- formulation: formulation development and testing; and
- dedicated research centres that we establish for our clients, including Abbot, BMS and Baxter.

The FDA and EMA are responsible for coordinating inspections on behalf of their respective agencies in connection with the assessment of marketing authorisation applications, marketing authorisation renewals or referrals. These inspections may cover:

- Good Manufacturing Practice (GMP);
- Good Clinical Practice (GCP);
- Good Laboratory Practice (GLP); or
- Good Pharmacovigilance Practice (GVP).

Inspections aim to verify specific aspects of the clinical or laboratory testing of a medicine, its manufacture or control, or to ensure compliance with GMP, GCP, GLP or GVP. Inspections may be routine or may be triggered by issues arising during the assessment of the dossier or by other information such as previous inspection experience. They are usually requested during the initial review of a Marketing Authorisation Application, but could arise post-authorisation.

FDA

FDA is an agency within the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (“HHS”), the principal U.S. agency for protecting the health of all Americans and providing essential human services. FDA is responsible for protecting the public health in the United States by assuring that human and veterinary drugs, vaccines and other biological products and medical devices intended for human use are safe and effective. All drugs approved in the United States, regardless of where they are made, must be in compliance with the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (the “Act”), which requires that drugs meet manufacturing standards to assure quality and product label requirements. Domestic and foreign facilities are inspected for compliance with applicable regulations, including GMP, GCP, and GLP.

In furtherance of these objectives for drugs that are distributed within the U.S., FDA may conduct an inspection of a company’s research, development or manufacturing operations for a variety of reasons, such as a routinely scheduled investigation, a survey, or in a response to a reported problem. Refusing or delaying an inspection can have consequences. Section 707 of the Food and Drug Administration Safety and Innovation Act (“FDASIA”) added 501(j) to the Act to deem adulterated a drug that “has been manufactured, processed, packed, or held in any factory, warehouse, or establishment and the owner, operator, or agent of such factory, warehouse, or establishment delays, denies, or limits an inspection, or refuses to permit entry or inspection.” FDA has issued guidance that defines the circumstances that would constitute delaying, denying, or limiting inspection, or refusing to permit entry or inspection, for purposes of section 501(j).

FDA will typically inspect one or more clinical sites to assure compliance with GCP before approving an NDA. Failure to comply with GCP may result in the FDA putting a clinical trial on hold or stopping a clinical trial. FDA also will inspect the facility or the facilities at which the product is manufactured before the NDA is approved. The FDA will not approve the product unless GMP compliance is satisfactory. FDA also may take into account results of inspections performed by certain counterpart foreign regulatory agencies in assessing compliance with GCP or GMP; FDA has entered into international agreements with foreign agencies, including the EMA, to facilitate such information sharing. If FDA determines the contents of the application, the manufacturing process, or the manufacturing facilities are not acceptable, it will outline the deficiencies in the submission and often will request additional testing or information. Notwithstanding the submission of additional information to remedy the noted deficiencies, FDA ultimately may decide that the application does not satisfy the regulatory criteria for approval.

FDA approaches inspections at foreign drug facilities in the same manner as domestic U.S. inspections; however, an FDA inspection of a facility outside the U.S. will be pre-announced and scheduled with the establishment to be inspected. During the inspection, inspectors typically tour the company’s drug manufacturing facility and examine its cGMP processes by interviewing employees and reviewing documentation and records. Inspection teams typically evaluate documented product complaints, process failures, product failures, failures in laboratory tests, process changes, and investigations of any batches requiring rework or reprocessing. FDA may concentrate on particular systems depending on the type of facility, e.g., environmental monitoring in facilities with aseptic processing.

At the conclusion of the on-site inspection, investigators typically present findings verbally to company management and discuss the observed objectionable conditions and practices on Form 483. The “483s” are inspectional observations, and do not represent a final FDA determination regarding the site’s compliance with cGMPs. Companies provide a formal response to the 483s, although they are not regulatory obligated to do so. A company's response, which may indicate that the objectionable conditions and practices have been or will be corrected, is intended to avoid an FDA decision to pursue further action against the company, such as an untitled letter or a Warning Letter.

A Warning Letter is the FDA's principal means of achieving compliance with the Act, and gives individuals and firms an opportunity to take voluntary and prompt corrective action before FDA initiates an enforcement action. FDA issues Warning Letters for violations of regulatory significance and to establish prior notice. Authorized FDA officials may issue Warning Letters to foreign producers of FDA-regulated products based on establishment inspections or other information. FDA-issued Warning Letters, with redactions to remove confidential information, are posted on FDA's Warning Letters internet page. FDA uses Untitled Letters for violations that are not as significant as those that trigger warning letters. Unlike a Warning Letter, an Untitled Letter does not include a statement warning that failure to promptly correct a violation may result in an enforcement action.

FDA has authority to take both administrative and judicial enforcement actions to protect the public from dangerous and illegal products, to punish persons and companies who violate the law, and to deter violations. Administrative actions include product recalls, debarment of individuals or companies who have been convicted of felonies, withdrawals of product approvals, license revocations, and disqualification of clinical investigators. Judicial actions include seizures of violative products, injunctions, criminal prosecutions, and certain civil money penalties. FDA need not issue a Warning Letter as a prerequisite to taking enforcement action.

FDA prohibits persons debarred under the FDCA from providing services in any capacity to a person that has an approved or pending drug product application. The NDA applicant must submit a certification regarding debarment. The FDCA also authorizes FDA to seek civil penalties for violation of this prohibition, from both the firm who uses the services of a debarred individual and from the individual.

EMA and NCAs

The EMA is an agency of the European Union ("EU"), based in London. The EMA's main responsibility is the protection and promotion of public and animal health, through the evaluation and supervision of medicines for human and veterinary use. The EMA is responsible for the scientific evaluation of applications for EU marketing authorisations for human and veterinary medicines in the centralised procedure. Under the centralised procedure, which is mandatory for certain categories of medicines, pharmaceutical companies submit a single marketing-authorisation application to the EMA. Once granted by the European Commission, a centralised marketing authorisation is valid in all EU Member States, as well as in the European Economic Area ("EEA") countries. Where the centralised procedure is not mandatory, pharmaceutical companies can use national authorisation procedures, including the decentralised and mutual recognition procedures (commonly referred to as the national authorisation procedures). National Competent Authorities, such as the UK's Medicines and Healthcare Products Regulatory Agency ("MHRA"), are responsible for approving medicines in such procedures.

NCAs have the power to conduct inspections of a company's research, development or manufacturing operations, with respect to both nationally and centrally authorised products. Specifically with respect to centrally authorised products, it is common practice for inspections to be conducted jointly by the EMA and the NCAs. The EMA and the NCAs also have the power to conduct joint inspections in facilities located in countries located outside the EU. Following an inspection, inspectors provide a written inspection report to the inspected site or applicant and provide an opportunity for response. Some inspection reports require follow-up due to critical or major findings. The inspectors will comment on any response from an inspected site or applicant and may monitor future compliance with any proposed corrective action plan. Inspectors grade their findings according to the following scale:

Critical: Conditions, practices or processes that adversely affect the rights, safety or well being of the subjects or the quality and integrity of data. Observations classified as critical may include a pattern of deviations classified as major.

Major: Conditions, practices or processes that might adversely affect the rights, safety or well-being of the subjects and/or the quality and integrity of data. Observations classified as major may include a pattern of deviations or numerous minor observations.

Possible consequences of critical and major findings include rejection of data or direct legal action by regulatory or national authorities.

Minor: Conditions, practices or processes that would not be expected to adversely affect the rights, safety or well being of the subjects or the quality and integrity of data. Minor observations indicate the need for improvement of conditions, practices and processes.

Comments: Suggestions on how to improve quality or reduce the potential for a deviation to occur in the future.

Environment Regulations

We are subject to various environment regulations as the operation of our establishments might have an impact on the environment in which they are situated. The basic purpose of the statutes given below is to control, abate and prevent pollution. In order to achieve these objectives, Pollution Control Boards (“PCBs”), which are vested with diverse powers to deal with water and air pollution, have been set up in each state. The PCBs are responsible for setting the standards for maintenance of clean air and water, directing the installation of pollution control devices in industries and undertaking inspection to ensure that industries are functioning in compliance with the standards prescribed. These authorities also have the power of search, seizure and investigation. All industries are required to obtain consent orders from the PCBs, which are indicative of the fact that the industry in question is functioning in compliance with the pollution control norms. These consent orders are required to be periodically renewed.

Water (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act, 1974 (“Water Act”)

The Water Act prohibits the use of any stream or well for the disposal of polluting matter, in violation of the standards set down by the State Pollution Control Board (“State PCB”). The Water Act also provides that the consent of the State PCB must be obtained prior to opening of any new outlets or discharges, which are likely to discharge sewage or effluent.

Air (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act, 1981 (“Air Act”)

The Air Act requires that any individual, industry or institution responsible for emitting smoke or gases by way of use as fuel or chemical reactions must apply in a prescribed form and obtain consent from the State PCB prior to commencing any activity. The State PCB is required to grant, or refuse, consent within four months of receipt of the application. The consent may contain conditions relating to specifications of pollution control equipment to be installed. Within a period of four months after the receipt of the application for consent the State PCB shall, by order in writing and for reasons to be recorded in the order, grant the consent applied for subject to such conditions and for such period as may be specified in the order, or refuse consent.

Environment Protection Act, 1986 (“EPA”)

The EPA has been enacted with an objective of protection and improvement of the environment and for matters connected therewith. As per this Act, the Central Government has been given the power to take all such measures for the purpose of protecting and improving the quality of the environment and to prevent environmental pollution. Further, the Central Government has been given the power to give directions in writing to any person or officer or any authority for any of the purposes of the Act, including the power to direct the closure, prohibition or regulation of any industry, operation or process.

Bio-Medical Waste (Management and Handling) Rules, 1998 (“BMW Rules”)

The BMW Rules apply to all persons who generate, transport, treat, dispose or handle bio-medical waste in any form. The BMW Rules mandate every occupier of an institution generating bio-medical waste to take steps to ensure that such waste is handled without any adverse effect to human health and environment and to set up bio-medical waste treatment facilities as prescribed under the BMW Rules. The BMW Rules further require such persons to apply to the prescribed authority for grant of authorization and submit an annual report to the prescribed authority and also to maintain records related to the generation, collection, storage, transportation, treatment, disposal, and/ or any form of handling of bio-medical waste in accordance with the BMW Rules and the guidelines issued thereunder.

Hazardous Wastes (Management, Handling and Transboundary Movement) Rules, 2008 (“Hazardous Waste Rules”)

The Hazardous Waste Rules define the term “hazardous waste” and any person who has control over the affairs of a factory or premises or any person in possession of the hazardous waste is classified as an “occupier”. In terms of the Hazardous Waste Rules, occupiers have been, inter alia, made responsible for safe and environmentally sound handling of hazardous wastes generated in their establishments and are required to obtain license/ authorisation from the respective state pollution control board for generation, processing, treatment, package, storage, transportation, use, collection, destruction, conversion, offering for sale, transfer or the like of the hazardous waste.

Water (Prevention & Control of Pollution) Cess Act, 1977 (“Water Cess Act”) and Water (Prevention & Control of Pollution) Cess Rules, 1978 (“Water Cess Rules”)

The Water Cess Act has been enacted to provide for the levy and collection of a cess on water consumed by persons carrying on certain industries and by local authorities, with a view to augment the resources of the central and State PCB for the prevention and control of water pollution constituted under the Water Act. The Water Cess Rules have been notified under section 17 of the Water Cess Act and provide, inter alia, for the standards of the meters and places where they are to be affixed and the furnishing of returns by consumers.

The Explosives Act, 1884 (“Explosives Act”)

The Explosives Act regulates the manufacture, possession, use, sale, transport, import and export of explosives and empowers the Central Government to make rules for the regulation and prohibition of these activities in relation to any specified class of explosives. Persons lawfully involved in these activities are required to obtain a license from the appropriate authority in terms of the provisions of the Explosives Act.

2.1 Summary of significant accounting policies

a. Use of estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with Indian GAAP requires the management to make judgements, estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of revenues, expenses, assets and liabilities and the disclosure of contingent liabilities, at the end of the reporting period. Although these estimates are based on the management's best knowledge of current events and actions, uncertainty about these assumptions and estimates could result in the outcomes requiring a material adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets or liabilities in future periods.

b. Tangible fixed assets and depreciation

Fixed assets are stated at cost, net of accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses if any. The cost comprises purchase price, borrowing costs if capitalization criteria are met, the cost of replacing part of the fixed assets and directly attributable cost of bringing the asset to its working condition for the intended use. Each part of an item of property, plant and equipment with a cost that is significant in relation to the total cost of the item is depreciated separately. This applies mainly to components for machinery. When significant parts of fixed assets are required to be replaced at intervals, the Company recognizes such parts as individual assets with specific useful lives and depreciates them accordingly. Likewise, when a major inspection is performed, its cost is recognized in the carrying amount of the fixed assets as a replacement if the recognition criteria are satisfied. Any trade discounts and rebates are deducted in arriving at the purchase price.

Subsequent expenditure related to an item of fixed asset is added to its book value only if it increases the future benefits from the existing asset beyond its previously assessed standard of performance. All other expenses on existing fixed assets, including day-to-day repair and maintenance expenditure are charged to the statement of profit and loss for the period during which such expenses are incurred.

The Company adjusts exchange differences arising on translation/ settlement of long-term foreign currency monetary items pertaining to the acquisition of a depreciable asset to the cost of the asset and depreciates the same over the remaining life of the asset. In accordance with MCA circular dated 09 August 2012, exchange differences adjusted to the cost of fixed assets are total differences, arising on long-term foreign currency monetary items pertaining to the acquisition of a depreciable asset, for the period. In other words, the Company does not differentiate between exchange differences arising from foreign currency borrowings to the extent they are regarded as an adjustment to the interest cost and other exchange difference.

Gains or losses arising from de-recognition of fixed assets are measured as the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset and are recognized in the statement of profit and loss when the asset is derecognized.

Assets funded by third parties are capitalised at gross value and the funds so received are recorded as deferred revenue and amortised over the useful life of the assets/period of contract.

Depreciation on fixed assets is calculated on a straight-line basis using the rates arrived at based on the useful lives estimated by the management, or those prescribed under the Schedule XIV to the Companies Act 1956, whichever is higher, up to March 31, 2014. During the year ended March 31, 2015, pursuant to Companies Act, 2013 applicable from April 1, 2014, management evaluated the estimates of useful lives of its fixed assets as per the requirements of Schedule II of the Companies Act, 2013 and concluded that there is no change in the estimated useful lives. Hence, there is no impact on the financial statements in this regard.

The Company has determined the following useful lives to provide depreciation on its fixed assets:

Classes of Assets	Useful lives estimated by the management (years)	Useful lives stated in Schedule II (years)
Buildings	25	30
Plant and machinery	9	10 – 15
Computers and servers	3	3 – 6
Office equipment	3	5
Furniture and fixtures	6	10
Vehicles	6	8

Used assets acquired from third parties are depreciated on straight line basis over their remaining useful life of such assets.

Management's estimates of useful lives of certain fixed assets are lower than those stated in Schedule II to the Companies Act, 2013. Management has estimated these useful lives after taking into consideration technical advice, prior asset usage experience and the risk of technological obsolescence.

c. Intangible assets and amortization of intangible assets

Intangible assets acquired separately are measured on initial recognition at cost. Following initial recognition, intangible assets are carried at cost less accumulated amortization and accumulated impairment losses, if any. Internally generated intangible assets, excluding capitalized development costs, are not capitalized and expenditure is reflected in the statement of profit and loss in the period in which the expenditure is incurred.

Computer Software which is not an integral part of the related hardware is classified as an intangible asset.

Intangible assets are amortized on a straight line basis over the estimated useful economic life. Such intangible assets and intangible assets not yet available for use are tested for impairment annually. All other intangible assets are assessed for impairment whenever there is an indication that the intangible asset may be impaired.

The amortization period and the amortization method are reviewed at least at each financial year end. If the expected useful life of the asset is significantly different from previous estimates, the amortization period is changed accordingly. If there has been a significant change in the expected pattern of economic benefits from the asset, the amortization method is changed to reflect the changed pattern. Such changes are accounted for in accordance with AS 5, Net Profit or Loss for the Period, Prior Period Items and Changes in Accounting Policies.

Gains or losses arising from disposal of an intangible asset are measured as the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset and are recognized in the statement of profit and loss when the asset is disposed.

d. Impairment of tangible and intangible assets

The Company assesses at each reporting date whether there is an indication that an asset may be impaired. If any indication exists, or when annual impairment testing for an asset is required, the Company estimates asset's recoverable amount. An asset's recoverable amount is the higher of an asset's or cash-generating unit's (CGU) net selling price and its value in use. The recoverable amount is determined for an individual asset, unless the asset does not generate cash inflows that are largely independent of those from other assets or groups of assets. Where the carrying amount of an asset or CGU exceeds its recoverable amount, the asset is considered impaired and is written down to its recoverable amount. In assessing value in use, the estimated future cash flows are discounted to their present value using a pre-tax discount rate that reflects current market assessments of the time value of money and the risks specific to the asset. In determining net selling price, recent market transactions are taken into account, if available. If no such transactions can be identified, an appropriate valuation model is used.

Impairment losses of continuing operations, including impairment on inventories, are recognised in the statement of profit and loss, except for previously revalued tangible fixed assets, where the revaluation was taken to revaluation reserve. In this case, the impairment is also recognised in the revaluation reserve up to the amount of any previous revaluation.

After impairment, depreciation is provided on the revised carrying amount of the asset over its remaining useful life.

An assessment is made at each reporting date as to whether there is any indication that previously recognized impairment losses may no longer exist or may have decreased. If such indication exists, the Company estimates the asset's or cash-generating unit's recoverable amount. A previously recognized impairment loss is reversed only if there has been a change in the assumptions used to determine the asset's recoverable amount since the last impairment loss was recognized. The reversal is limited so that the carrying amount of the asset does not exceed its recoverable amount, nor exceed the carrying amount that would have been determined, net of depreciation, had no impairment loss been recognized for the asset in prior years. Such reversal is recognized in the statement of profit and loss unless the asset is carried at a revalued amount, in which case the reversal is treated as a revaluation increase.

e. Inventories

Inventories comprising chemicals, reagents and consumables are valued at the lower of cost and net realisable value. Cost is determined on a first in first out basis.

Work-in-progress and finished goods are valued at lower of cost and net realizable value. Cost includes direct materials and labour and a proportion of manufacturing overheads based on normal operating capacity. Cost is determined on a first in first out basis.

Net realisable value is the estimated selling price in the ordinary course of business, less estimated costs of completion and estimated costs necessary to make the sale.

Consumables in the nature of column are amortised over useful life estimated to be a period of 12 months from the date of issue for consumption.

f. Revenue recognition

Revenue is recognized to the extent that it is probable that the economic benefits will flow to the Company and the revenue can be reliably measured. The following specific recognition criteria must also be met before revenue is recognized.

In respect of contracts involving research services, in case of 'time and materials' contracts, contract research fee are recognised as services are rendered, in accordance with the terms of the contracts.

Revenues relating to fixed price contracts are recognised based on the percentage of completion method determined based on efforts expended as a proportion to total estimated efforts. The Company monitors estimates of total contract revenue and cost on a routine basis throughout the contract period. The cumulative impact of any change in estimates of the contract revenue or costs is reflected in the period in which the changes become known. In the event that a loss is anticipated on a particular contract, provision is made for the estimated loss.

In respect of contracts involving sale of compounds arising out of contract research for which separate invoices are raised, revenue is recognised when the significant risks and rewards of ownership of the compounds have passed to the buyer, and comprise amounts invoiced for compounds sold.

The Company collects service tax and sales taxes, as applicable, on behalf of the government and, therefore, it is not an economic benefit flowing to the Company. Hence, it is excluded from revenue.

Dividends

Dividend income is recognised when the Company's right to receive dividend is established by the reporting date.

Interest Income

Interest income is recognized on a time proportion basis taking into account the amount outstanding and the applicable interest rate. Interest income is included under the head "other income" in the statement of profit and loss.

g. Investments

Investments that are readily realisable and intended to be held for not more than twelve months from the date on which such investments are made are classified as current investments. All other investments are classified as long-term investments.

On initial recognition, all investments are measured at cost. The cost comprises purchase price and directly attributable acquisition charges such as brokerage, fees and duties. If an investment is acquired, or partly acquired, by the issue of shares or other securities, the acquisition cost is the fair value of the securities issued. If an investment is acquired in exchange for another asset, the acquisition is determined by reference to the fair value of the asset given up or by reference to the fair value of the investment acquired, whichever is more clearly evident.

Long term investments are stated at cost. However, provision for diminution in value is made to recognise a decline other than temporary in the value of the investments. Current investments are carried at lower of cost and fair value and determined on an individual investment basis.

On the disposal of an investment, the difference between its carrying amount and net disposal proceeds is charged or credited to the statement of profit and loss.

h. Retirement and other employee benefits

Retirement benefit in the form of Provident Fund is a defined contribution scheme and the contributions are charged to the statement of profit and loss of the year when the employees rendered the related service and the contributions to the government funds are due. The Company has no obligation, other than the contribution payable to the provident fund authorities.

Gratuity liability is a defined benefit obligation and is provided for on the basis of an actuarial valuation on projected unit credit method made at the end of each financial year. The gratuity benefit of the Company is administered by a trust formed for this purpose through the group gratuity scheme. Actuarial gains and losses are recognised in full in the period in which they occur in the statement of profit and loss.

Accumulated leave, which is expected to be utilized within the next 12 months, is treated as short term employee benefit. The Company measures the expected cost of such absences as the additional amount that it expects to pay as a result of the unused entitlement that has accumulated at the reporting date.

The Company treats accumulated leave expected to be carried forward beyond twelve months, as long term employee benefit for measurement purposes. Such long-term compensated absences are provided for based on the actuarial valuation using the projected unit credit method at the year end. Actuarial gains/losses are immediately taken to the statement of profit and loss and are not deferred. The Company presents the entire leave as a current liability in the balance sheet, since it does not have an unconditional right to defer the settlement for 12 months after the reporting date.

i. Foreign currency translation

(a) Initial recognition

Foreign currency transactions are recorded in the reporting currency, by applying to the foreign currency amount the exchange rate between the reporting currency and the foreign currency at the date of the transaction.

(b) Conversion

Foreign currency monetary items are retranslated using exchange rate prevailing at the reporting date. Non-monetary items, which are measured in terms of historical cost denominated in a foreign currency are reported using the exchange rate at the date of the transaction. Non-monetary items, which are measured at fair value or other similar valuation denominated in a foreign currency, are translated using the exchange rate at the date when such value was determined.

(c) Exchange differences

The Company accounts for exchange differences arising on translation/ settlement of foreign currency monetary items as below:

- i. Exchange differences arising on long-term foreign currency monetary items related to acquisition of a fixed asset are capitalized and depreciated over remaining useful life of the asset.
- ii. Exchange differences arising on other long term foreign currency monetary items are accumulated in "the Foreign Currency Monetary Item Translation Difference Account" and amortized over the remaining life of the concerned monetary item.
- iii. All other exchange differences are recognized as income or as expenses in the year in which they arise.

For the purpose of (i) and (ii) above, the Company treats a foreign monetary item as "long-term foreign currency monetary item", if it has a term of 12 months or more at the date of its origination. In accordance with MCA circular dated August 09, 2012, exchange differences for this purpose, are total differences arising on long-term foreign currency monetary items for the period. In other words, the Company does not differentiate between exchange differences arising from foreign currency borrowings to the extent they are regarded as an adjustment to the interest cost and other exchange difference.

(d) Forward exchange contracts are entered into to hedge foreign currency risk of an existing asset/liability

The premium or discount arising at the inception of forward exchange contracts is amortised and recognised as an expense / income over the life of the contract. Exchange differences on such contracts, except the contracts which are long term foreign currency monetary items, are recognised in the statement of profit and loss in the period in which the exchange rates change. Any profit or loss arising on cancellation or renewal of such forward exchange contract is also recognised as income or as expense for the period. Any gain/loss arising on forwards contracts which are long-term foreign currency monetary items is recognised in accordance with paragraph (c)(i) and (c)(ii) above.

j. Income tax

Tax expense comprises current and deferred taxes. Current income tax is measured at the amount expected to be paid to the tax authorities in accordance with the Indian Income Tax Act, 1961. The tax rates and tax laws used to compute the amount are those that are enacted or substantially enacted, at the reporting date. Current income tax relating to items recognized directly in equity is recognized in equity and not in the statement of profit and loss.

Deferred income taxes reflects the impact of current year timing differences between taxable income and accounting income originating during the current year and reversal of timing differences for earlier years. Deferred tax is measured using the tax rates and the tax laws enacted or substantively enacted at the reporting date. Deferred income tax relating to items recognized directly in equity is recognized in equity and not in the statement of profit and loss.

Deferred tax liabilities are recognised for all taxable timing differences. Deferred tax assets are recognised for deductible timing differences only to the extent that there is reasonable certainty that sufficient future taxable income will be available against which such deferred tax assets can be realised. In situations where the Company has unabsorbed depreciation or carry forward tax losses, all deferred tax assets are recognised only if there is virtual certainty supported by convincing evidence that they can be realised against future taxable profits.

In the situation where the Company is entitled to a tax holiday under the Income-tax Act, 1961 no deferred tax (assets or liability) is recognized in respect of timing differences which reverse during the tax holiday period, to the extent the Company's gross total income is subject to the deduction during the tax holiday period. Deferred tax in respect of timing differences which reverse after the tax holiday period is recognized in the year in which the timing differences originate. However, the Company restricts recognition of deferred tax assets to the extent that it has become reasonably certain or virtually certain, as the case may be, that sufficient future taxable income will be available against which such deferred tax assets can be realized. For recognition of deferred taxes, the timing differences which originate first are considered to reverse first.

At each reporting date, the Company re-assesses unrecognized deferred tax assets. It recognizes unrecognized deferred tax asset to the extent that it has become reasonably certain or virtually certain, as the case may be that sufficient future taxable income will be available against which such deferred tax can be realized.

The carrying amount of deferred tax assets are reviewed at each reporting date. The Company writes-down the carrying amount of deferred tax asset to the extent that it is no longer reasonably certain or virtually certain, as the case may be, that sufficient future taxable income will be available against which deferred tax assets can be realized. Any such write-down is reversed to the extent that it becomes reasonably certain or virtually certain, as the case may be, that sufficient future taxable income will be available.

Deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities are offset, if a legally enforceable right exists to set-off current tax assets against current tax liabilities and the deferred tax assets and deferred tax relate to the same taxable entity and the same taxation authority.

Minimum Alternate tax (MAT) paid in a year is charged to the statement of the profit and loss as current tax. The Company recognizes MAT credit available as an asset only to the extent that there is convincing evidence that the Company will pay normal income tax during the specified period, i.e., the period for which MAT credit is allowed to be carried forward. In the year in which the Company recognises MAT credit as an asset in accordance with the Guidance Note on Accounting for Credit Available in respect of Minimum Alternate Tax under the Income-tax Act, 1961, the said asset is created by way of credit to the statement of profit and loss and shown as "MAT Credit Entitlement." The Company reviews the "MAT credit entitlement" asset at each reporting date and writes down the asset to the extent the Company does not have convincing evidence that it will pay normal tax during the specified period.

k. Borrowing cost

Borrowing cost includes interest, amortization of ancillary cost incurred in connection with the arrangement of borrowings and exchange differences arising from short term foreign currency borrowings to the extent they are regarded as an adjustment to the interest cost.

Borrowing costs directly attributable to the acquisition and construction of a fixed asset which takes substantial period of time to get ready for its intended use are capitalised as a part of the cost of the asset, to the extent they relate to the period till such assets are ready to be put to use. All other borrowing costs are recognised as an expense in the year in which they are incurred.

l. Earnings per share (EPS)

Basic earnings per share are calculated by dividing the net profit or loss for the year attributable to equity shareholders (after deducting preference dividends and attributable taxes) by the weighted average number of equity shares outstanding during the year. Partly paid equity shares are treated as a fraction of an equity share to the extent that they were entitled to participate in dividends relative to a fully paid equity share during the reporting year. The weighted average number of equity shares outstanding during the year is adjusted for events of bonus issue, bonus element in a rights issue to existing shareholders, share split, and reverse share split (consolidation of shares) that have changed the number of equity shares outstanding, without a corresponding change in resources.

For the purpose of calculating diluted earnings per share, the net profit or loss for the year attributable to equity shareholders and the weighted average number of shares outstanding during the year are adjusted for the effects of all dilutive potential equity shares.

For the purpose of calculating Basic EPS, shares allotted to the ESOP Trust pursuant to the employee share based payment plan is not included in the shares outstanding till the employees have exercised their right to obtain shares, after fulfilling the requisite vesting conditions. Till such time, the shares so allotted are considered as dilutive potential equity shares for the purpose of calculating Diluted EPS.

m. Employee stock compensation costs

Employees (including senior executives) of the Company receive remuneration in the form of share based payment transactions, whereby employees render services as consideration for equity instruments (equity-settled transactions).

In accordance with the Guidance Note on Accounting for Employee Share-based Payments, the cost of equity-settled transactions is measured using the intrinsic value method and recognized, together with a corresponding increase in the "Stock options outstanding account" in reserves. The cumulative expense recognized for equity-settled transactions at each reporting date until the vesting date reflects the extent to which the vesting period has expired and the Company's best estimate of the number of equity instruments that will ultimately vest. The expense or credit recognized in the statement of profit and loss for a period represents the movement in cumulative expense recognized as at the beginning and end of that period and is recognized in employee benefits expense.

Where the terms of an equity-settled transaction award are modified, the minimum expense recognized is the expense as if the terms had not been modified, if the original terms of the award are met. An additional expense is recognized for any modification that increases the total intrinsic value of the share-based payment transaction, or is otherwise beneficial to the employee as measured at the date of modification.

n. Operating lease

Where the Company is a Lessee

Leases of assets under which all the risks and rewards of ownership are effectively retained by the lessor are classified as operating leases. Lease payments under operating leases are recognised as an expense in the statement of profit and loss on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

o. Segment reporting

Identification of segments

The Company's operating businesses are organised and managed separately according to the nature of products manufactured and services provided, with each segment representing a strategic business unit that offers different products and services to different markets. The analysis of geographical segments is based on the areas in which the major operating divisions of the Company operate.

Inter-segment Transfers

The Company generally accounts for inter-segment sales and transfers at current market prices.

Allocation of common costs

Common allocable costs are allocated to each segment according to the relative contribution of each segment to the total common costs.

Unallocated items

Unallocated items include general corporate income and expense items which are not allocated to any business segment.

Segment accounting policies

The Company prepares its segment information in conformity with the accounting policies adopted for preparing and presenting the financial statements of the Company as a whole.

p. Provision

A provision is recognised when the Company has a present obligation as a result of past event; it is probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation and a reliable estimate can be made of the amount of the obligation. Provisions are not discounted to their present value and are determined based on best estimate required to settle the obligation at the reporting date. These estimates are reviewed at each reporting date and adjusted to reflect the current best estimates.

Where the Company expects some or all of a provision to be reimbursed, for example under an insurance contract, the reimbursement is recognised as a separate asset but only when the reimbursement is virtually certain. The expense relating to any provision is presented in the statement of profit and loss net of any reimbursement.

q. Contingent liabilities

A contingent liability is a possible obligation that arises from past events whose existence will be confirmed by the occurrence or non-occurrence of one or more uncertain future events beyond the control of the Company or a present obligation that is not recognised because it is not probable that an outflow of resources will be required to settle the obligation. A contingent liability also arises in extremely rare cases where there is a liability that cannot be recognised because it cannot be measured reliably. The Company does not recognize a contingent liability but discloses its existence in the financial statements.

r. Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents for the purpose of cash flow statement comprise cash at bank and in hand.

s. Derivative instruments

In accordance with the ICAI announcement, derivative contracts, other than foreign currency forward contracts covered under AS 11, are marked to market on a portfolio basis, and the net loss, if any, after considering the offsetting effect of gain on the underlying hedged item, is charged to the statement of profit and loss. Net gain, if any, after considering the offsetting of loss on the underlying hedged item, is ignored.

t. Amalgamation accounting

The Company treats an amalgamation in the nature of merger if it satisfies all the following criteria:

- (i) All the assets and liabilities of the transferor company become, after amalgamation, the assets and liabilities of the transferee company.
- (ii) Shareholders holding not less than 90% of the face value of the equity shares of the transferor company (other than the equity shares already held therein, immediately before the amalgamation, by the transferee company or its subsidiaries or their nominees) become equity shareholders of the transferee company.
- (iii) The consideration for amalgamation receivable by those equity shareholders of the transferor company who agree to become shareholders of the transferee company is discharged by the transferee company wholly by the issue of equity shares, except that cash may be paid in respect of any fractional shares.
- (iv) The business of the transferor company is intended to be carried on, after the amalgamation, by the transferee company.
- (v) The transferee company does not intend to make any adjustment to the book values of the assets and liabilities of the transferor company, except to ensure uniformity of accounting policies.

All other amalgamations are in the nature of purchase.

Overview

We are one of the leading India-based CROs, offering a suite of integrated, end-to-end discovery and development services for NMEs across industrial sectors including pharmaceutical, biotechnology, agrochemicals, consumer health, animal health, cosmetic and nutrition companies. Our service offerings in discovery and development cover multiple domains across small molecules, large molecules, ADCs and oligonucleotides. Our integrated discovery and development platforms help organisations conduct discovery (from hit to candidate selection), development (including pre-clinical and clinical studies, analytical and bio-analytical evaluation, formulation development and stability studies) and pilot manufacturing (scale-up, pre-clinical and clinical supplies) under one roof with a distinctive economic advantage. Our service offerings also support the development of bio-similar and generic molecules. In the near term, we intend to forward integrate into commercial-scale manufacturing of NMEs.

Outsourcing discovery and development work is an established alternative to in-house development among multinational organisations. While traditionally multinational organisations had looked at outsourcing as a way to reduce their R&D expenditures, the R&D outsourcing industry is evolving from a mere leveraging of cost arbitrage to enhancing R&D productivity and reducing the time to market.

According to the Frost & Sullivan Report, the global R&D expenditure for the pharmaceutical industry in 2014 was approximately US$139 billion, of which US$105 billion could be potentially outsourced. According to the IQ4I Report, the global CRO market for discovery services, our core focus area in the CRO sector, was estimated to be US$14.7 billion in 2014 and is expected to reach US$22.7 billion in 2018, reflecting a CAGR of 11.5% (2014-18).

As an experienced CRO with a proven track record of providing quality NME discovery, development and manufacturing services and continued focus on reliability, responsiveness and protection of client's intellectual property, we believe we are well-positioned to benefit from the expected growth in the CRO industry. We offer an attractive variable cost alternative to the traditionally fixed cost, in-house, resource-intensive business model of R&D focussed organisations.

We offer services through flexible business models that are customised to our client's requirements. These range from a FTE to a FFS model, or a combination thereof. During fiscal 2015, we serviced 221 clients, ranging from multinational corporations to start-ups, including eight of the top 10 global pharmaceutical companies by sales for 2014. (Source for top 10 global pharmaceutical companies by sales for 2014 — IMS Health MIDAS, December 2014) We have several long-term relationships and multi-year contracts with our clients, including three long-duration multi-disciplinary partnerships, each with a dedicated research centre, with three of the world's leading global healthcare organisations, BMS, Abbott and Baxter.

We deliver our services through a combination of scientific talent, globally accredited systems and R&D infrastructure. As of March 31, 2015, our tangible fixed assets (gross block) were ₹9,311 million. Our laboratory and manufacturing facilities are spread over more than 900,000 sq. ft. and located in Bengaluru, India. As of May 31, 2015, we had 2,122 scientists, including 258 Ph.Ds. and 1,665 scientists with a Master's degree.

We were incorporated in 1993 and are headquartered in Bengaluru, India. We are a subsidiary of Biocon, a global biopharmaceutical enterprise focused on delivering affordable formulations and compounds. Biocon has been listed on the Indian stock exchanges since 2004 and as of March 31, 2015 had a market cap of ₹90.3 billion on the BSE as well as the NSE. Over the years, Biocon has successfully brought to the market several affordable and alternative therapeutic drugs in the areas of diabetes, oncology and auto-immune diseases. Biocon is currently focused on bringing its portfolio of generic insulins and bio-similar monoclonal antibodies to global markets.

For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015, we generated total revenue of ₹8,716 million, restated profit of ₹1,750 million and EBITDA of ₹2,928 million. For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2014, we generated total revenue of ₹7,077 million, restated profit of ₹1,348 million and EBITDA of ₹2,226 million. For the three fiscal years ended March 31, 2015, our total revenue, restated profit and EBITDA grew at a CAGR of 27.7%, 35.1% and 28.3%, respectively.

Effective April 1, 2014, our subsidiary Clinigene, through which we have provided our clinical research and clinical trial services, was amalgamated with us. Prior to this date, our results did not include the results of Clinigene.

For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015, our revenue from the sale of services was ₹8,427 million. For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015, we derived 36.1% and 63.9% of our revenue from the sale of services from long-term contracts with dedicated infrastructure and other contracts, respectively. For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015, we derived 95.1% and 4.9% of our revenue from the sale of services to customers outside India and from customers in India, respectively.

Key Factors Affecting Our Results of Operations

The following are key factors that have affected, and are expected to affect, our results of operations:

New clients and client order growth

Our revenue is generated from services provided to R&D focussed organisations, primarily in the life sciences industry. Growth in sales from existing clients and the acquisition of new clients have been the key drivers of our historical growth, and we expect that these factors will remain critical going forward as well. Our strategy works on the maxim of “engage, expand and extend”, whereby we continually strive to expand client relationships beyond a client’s initial engagement point in our service offerings to provide additional discovery, development and manufacturing services. This service portfolio expansion also helps us extend the client relationship over a longer period of time where we grow from being just a service provider to an extension of their R&D efforts. Over time, we have not only succeeded in growing the number of our clients but have also increased the average revenue from our largest clients and the number of services we offer to them. For fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015, we derived revenue from 152, 165 and 221 clients, respectively, and our top 10 clients generated revenue of ₹3,843 million, ₹4,766 million and ₹5,972 million, respectively, accounting for 71.2%, 69.4% and 70.9% of our total revenue in those periods, respectively.

Global trends in outsourcing business

The global R&D outsourcing industry has grown significantly in recent years driven to a large extent by pharmaceutical companies that face growing pressure to introduce new drugs into the market rapidly with lower development costs. The factors behind this are described in more detail in the “Industry Overview” section on page 109. As an experienced CRO, we believe that we are well positioned to capitalise on the advantages of conducting NME discovery, development and manufacturing in India, while emphasising quality, responsiveness, protection of client intellectual property and reliability. However, as described further under “Risk Factors — Internal Risks” on page 28 there are a number of countertrends that may undermine the growth in outsourcing to companies such as ours. These include political opposition in developed country markets to outsourcing and negative perception of quality and intellectual property protection in India or outsourcing hubs in other developing countries such as China.

Competition

The R&D outsourcing industry consists of a number of full-service global CROs and numerous other small, limited-service providers. The industry continues to experience consolidation and, in recent years, a group of large, full-service competitors has emerged. These larger competitors have a much broader portfolio of business, greater resources and more experience than us. In addition to competing with a number of global, full-service companies and smaller providers, we also face competition from clients' captive R&D centres and from newer, smaller companies with speciality focuses, such as those aligned to a specific technology platform, service area, disease or therapeutic area.

Competitive pressures affect the pricing of our contracts. Greater competition for particular services will generally have a negative impact on our pricing. In addition, our ability to win new business and retain existing client business is also impacted by the competitive landscape. We will continue to seek to distinguish our service offerings by providing quality services at competitive prices.

Material costs

Material costs are the largest component of our cost structure. Material costs are the costs of chemicals, reagents and consumables consumed over a particular period adjusted for change in inventories. We procure these materials from vendors, both in India and overseas. We have generally been able to bill any additional spend on materials to our clients for our FTE contracts. However in FFS contracts, which are fixed-price contracts, increases in material costs are generally not billed to our clients. Material costs for fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015, were ₹1,452 million, ₹1,914 million and ₹2,390 million, respectively. As a percentage of revenue from operations for fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015, material costs were 26.4%, 27.4% and 27.8% respectively. Our material costs are dependent on the nature of services being provided under client engagements, global commodity prices and are also impacted by currency fluctuations. We expect that our material costs will increase over time with the change in the mix of our services from discovery and development to manufacturing.

Employee benefits expense

Employee benefits expense constitutes a substantial component of our costs and is an important factor in determining our profitability. Although the relatively lower cost of skilled labour has been an important factor in the success of Indian outsourcing businesses, including our own, our per-employee benefits expense has steadily risen in line with general compensation trends in India. In addition, our employee headcount has grown with the expansion of our business. Employee benefits expense for 2013, 2014 and 2015, was ₹1,235 million, ₹1,556 million and ₹2,019 million, respectively, and our employee headcount figures for those periods were 1,867, 2,108 and 2,685, respectively. As a percentage of revenue from operations for fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015, employee benefits expense stood at 22.4%, 22.2% and 23.5%, respectively.

We expect that our employee benefits expense will continue to increase over the coming years due to continued escalation in salaries and benefits as well as headcount growth. While we will seek to reflect compensation increases in our pricing, an inability to pass on such increases to our clients will adversely affect our profitability. In previous periods, we have been able to partially cover the increase in employee benefits expense through upward rate revisions in our client contracts and distributing these expenses over an expanding revenue base.

Fluctuations in the exchange rate between the Indian Rupee and the U.S. dollar

Our financial statements are reported in Indian Rupees. However, almost all of our revenue from operations, a large portion of our equipment purchases, a portion of our material costs and much of our debt (and hence our interest expense) are denominated in U.S. dollars. In addition, we may, from time to time, maintain surplus funds with banks in foreign currency denominated accounts. Many of our other costs, including employee benefits expense and a significant portion of our material costs, are Indian Rupee-denominated. Fluctuations in the exchange rate between the Indian Rupee and the U.S. dollar, therefore, affect our results of operations. For example, depreciation of the Indian Rupee against the U.S. dollar would generally expand our Indian Rupee-reported revenues, while at the same time increasing our capital expenditure outlays and interest cost. Similarly an appreciation of the Indian rupee against the U.S. dollar would generally have the contrary effects. Based on RBI data, the average Indian Rupee/U.S. dollar exchange rate for fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015 was ₹54.45/dollar, ₹60.50/dollar and ₹61.15/dollar, respectively.

We typically hedge between 50% to 100% of our expected net foreign exchange exposure for a period of up to two years, which is revised upwards or downwards, as appropriate, on a quarterly rolling basis. Moreover, for our long-term fixed-price client contracts, we seek to hedge up to 100% of net foreign exchange exposure over the contract term. These hedges are obtained through a combination of various derivative instruments like plain puts and range forwards.

Most of our current outstanding exposure is hedged via puts which provide a base floor protection with upward participation in the event of Indian Rupee depreciation beyond the specified floor. In order to access these derivative instruments, we pay a hedging cost to the banks. This cost appears under the “Other Expenses” line item in our income statement. While these hedges provide us protection from currency fluctuation, these are subject to their own risks, including counterparty credit risk.

For fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015, we recorded losses from net foreign exchange difference of ₹398 million, ₹459 million and ₹160 million, respectively. A significant portion of these foreign exchange losses incurred in fiscal 2013 and 2014 was principally on account of certain lower priced forward contracts taken in fiscal 2009 to cover for expected cash flows from a long-term fixed-price client contract. With the expiry of these lower priced forward contracts, the net exchange losses decreased significantly in fiscal 2015. A significant portion of the net foreign exchange difference in fiscal 2015 refers primarily to hedging expenses relating to derivative instruments settled during the period. Our hedging policy has migrated from instruments like forward contracts to plain puts and range forwards, mainly to reduce volatility.

Tax expenses

A significant portion of our operations are conducted at an SEZ in Bengaluru, and hence we are able to avail various tax benefits extended by the Government to India to SEZs. Our facilities at the SEZ comprise of multiple units and each unit is entitled to a separate tax holiday period based on the start date of operations at that unit. The tax holiday applicable on each unit is as follows:

- for the first five years of operations (year 1 to year 5) - no income tax is applicable;
- for the next five years of operations (year 6 to year 10) – 50% of the applicable income tax rate; and
- subsequent to the 10th year of operations (year 11 onwards) – 100% of the applicable income tax rate.

While we avail of the benefits described above, we are required to pay the Minimum Alternate Tax (“MAT”) on the book profits of the relevant financial year. If, after taking into account the benefits above, our effective tax rate is lower than the MAT, then we are entitled to a MAT tax credit, which is offset against the current tax payable. Total tax expense (current and deferred tax less MAT credit entitlement) for fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015 was ₹42 million, ₹218 million and ₹285 million, respectively. The effective tax rate, which we define as total tax expenses divided by restated profit before tax, for fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015 was 4.0%, 13.9% and 14.0% respectively. The escalation in our tax rate over the past periods reflects the movement of several of our units from a lower tax bracket to the next higher tax bracket. We are currently expanding our operations and hence the effective tax rate going forward would reflect the blended impact of the applicable rates on the existing and new units.

We are involved in certain tax-related legal proceedings pending at different levels of adjudication. We have not made provisions for the amounts involved in such tax matters in our financial statements and the same has been disclosed as Contingent Liabilities in accordance with “Accounting Standard 29 — Provisions, Contingent Liabilities and Contingent Assets.” For further details, please refer to the section “Outstanding Litigation and Material Developments” on page 210.

The Government of India, as part of the Union Budget for fiscal 2016, has announced the reduction of corporate tax rate from 30% to 25% over the next four years. The Government of India has also announced that this will be accompanied by the removal of certain exemptions and benefits available to companies. The withdrawal of exemptions and benefits will be done in a phased manner commencing from fiscal 2017. We cannot predict the impact, if any, of the withdrawal of any such exemptions and benefits at this point of time.

Clinigene amalgamation

As of April 1, 2014, our subsidiary Clinigene was amalgamated with us pursuant to a court-approved scheme. This transaction was accounted for on a pooling-of-interest basis, and since April 1, 2014, the assets, liabilities and results of our legacy Clinigene business have been included in our financial statements. Prior to that period, Clinigene had been accounted as an investment on an historical cost basis. Accordingly, when comparing our financial information beginning April 1, 2014 to our financial information in prior periods please note that prior periods did not include Clinigene's assets, liabilities or results. In addition, beginning April 1, 2014, our revenue and expenses include the results from our legacy Clinigene business. In fiscal 2013 and 2014, the revenue from our legacy Clinigene business was ₹385 million and ₹444 million, respectively, and its net income after tax for those years was ₹5 million and ₹45 million, respectively. See note 1.1 in Annexure IV to our Restated Financial Statements for more information on the Clinigene amalgamation and its accounting effects.

We currently manufacture developmental batches of both small and large molecules to support scale-up studies, pre-clinical and clinical trials for multiple clients. We are expanding our manufacturing capabilities for both small and large molecules at our current manufacturing facility in Bengaluru and intend to develop commercial-scale manufacturing facilities for small molecules at an SEZ in Mangaluru.

With the expansion of our manufacturing facilities, we expect manufacturing to contribute to a greater share of our revenues going forward. In line with this expected shift in business mix, we anticipate an increase in material cost, employee benefits expenses, power and utility costs, depreciation, interest and other operating expenses in line with the expected increase in revenue.

Critical Accounting Policies

In preparing our financial statements in conformity with Indian GAAP, we make judgments, estimates and assumptions that affect the application of accounting policies and the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reported period. We base these judgments, estimates and assumptions on our historical experience and on various assumptions that we believe to be reasonable under the circumstances, the results of which form our basis for making judgments about the carrying values of assets and liabilities that are not readily apparent from other sources. Our financial performance may differ if prepared under different assumptions or conditions. For additional information, see note 2.1 in Annexure IV to our Restated Financial Statements.

Tangible fixed assets and depreciation

Fixed assets are stated at cost, net of accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses if any. The cost comprises purchase price, borrowing costs if capitalization criteria are met, the cost of replacing part of the fixed assets and directly attributable cost of bringing the asset to its working condition for the intended use. Each part of an item of property, plant and equipment with a cost that is significant in relation to the total cost of the item is depreciated separately. This applies mainly to components for machinery. When significant parts of fixed assets are required to be replaced at intervals, the Company recognizes such parts as individual assets with specific useful lives and depreciates them accordingly. Likewise, when a major inspection is performed, its cost is recognized in the carrying amount of the fixed assets as a replacement if the recognition criteria are satisfied. Any trade discounts and rebates are deducted in arriving at the purchase price.

Subsequent expenditure related to an item of fixed asset is added to its book value only if it increases the future benefits from the existing asset beyond its previously assessed standard of performance. All other expenses on existing fixed assets, including day-to-day repair and maintenance expenditure are charged to the statement of profit and loss for the period during which such expenses are incurred.

The Company adjusts exchange differences arising on translation/ settlement of long-term foreign currency monetary items pertaining to the acquisition of a depreciable asset to the cost of the asset and depreciates the same over the remaining life of the asset. In accordance with MCA circular dated 09 August 2012, exchange differences adjusted to the cost of fixed assets are total differences, arising on long-term foreign currency monetary items pertaining to the acquisition of a depreciable asset, for the period. In other words, the Company does not differentiate between exchange differences arising from foreign currency borrowings to the extent they are regarded as an adjustment to the interest cost and other exchange difference.

Gains or losses arising from de-recognition of fixed assets are measured as the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset and are recognized in the statement of profit and loss when the asset is derecognized.

Assets funded by third parties are capitalised at gross value and the funds so received are recorded as deferred revenue and amortised over the useful life of the assets/period of contract.

Depreciation on fixed assets is calculated on a straight-line basis using the rates arrived at based on the useful lives estimated by the management, or those prescribed under the Schedule XIV to the Companies Act 1956, whichever is higher, up to March 31, 2014. Pursuant to Companies Act, 2013 applicable from April 1, 2014, management evaluated the estimates of useful lives of its fixed assets as per the requirements of Schedule II of the Companies Act, 2013 and concluded that there is no change in the estimated useful lives. Hence, there is no impact on the financial statements in this regard.

The Company has determined the following useful lives to provide depreciation on its fixed assets:

Classes of Assets	Useful lives estimated by the management (years)	Useful lives stated in Schedule II (years)
Buildings	25	30
Plant and machinery	9	10 – 15
Computers and servers	3	3 – 6
Office equipment	3	5
Furniture and fixtures	6	10
Vehicles	6	8

Used assets acquired from third parties are depreciated on straight line basis over their remaining useful life of such assets.

Management's estimates of useful lives of certain fixed assets are lower than those stated in Schedule II to the Companies Act, 2013. Management has estimated these useful lives after taking into consideration technical advice, prior asset usage experience and the risk of technological obsolescence.

Retirement and other employee benefits

Retirement benefit in the form of Provident Fund is a defined contribution scheme and the contributions are charged to the statement of profit and loss of the year when the employees rendered the related service and the contributions to the government funds are due. The Company has no obligation, other than the contribution payable to the provident fund authorities.

Gratuity liability is a defined benefit obligation and is provided for on the basis of an actuarial valuation on projected unit credit method made at the end of each financial year. The gratuity benefit of the Company is administered by a trust formed for this purpose through the group gratuity scheme. Actuarial gains and losses are recognised in full in the period in which they occur in the statement of profit and loss.

Accumulated leave, which is expected to be utilized within the next 12 months, is treated as short term employee benefit. The Company measures the expected cost of such absences as the additional amount that it expects to pay as a result of the unused entitlement that has accumulated at the reporting date.

The Company treats accumulated leave expected to be carried forward beyond twelve months, as long term employee benefit for measurement purposes. Such long-term compensated absences are provided for based on the actuarial valuation using the projected unit credit method at the year end. Actuarial gains/losses are immediately taken to the statement of profit and loss and are not deferred. The Company presents the entire leave as a current liability in the balance sheet, since it does not have an unconditional right to defer the settlement for 12 months after the reporting date.

Foreign currency translation

Foreign currency transaction and balances

(a) Initial recognition

Foreign currency transactions are recorded in the reporting currency, by applying to the foreign currency amount the exchange rate between the reporting currency and the foreign currency at the date of the transaction.

(b) Conversion

Foreign currency monetary items are retranslated using exchange rate prevailing at the reporting date. Non-monetary items, which are measured in terms of historical cost denominated in a foreign currency are reported using the exchange rate at the date of the transaction. Non-monetary items, which are measured at fair value or other similar valuation denominated in a foreign currency, are translated using the exchange rate at the date when such value was determined.

(c) Exchange differences

The Company accounts for exchange differences arising on translation/ settlement of foreign currency monetary items as below:

- i. Exchange differences arising on long-term foreign currency monetary items related to acquisition of a fixed asset are capitalized and depreciated over remaining useful life of the asset.
- ii. Exchange differences arising on other long term foreign currency monetary items are accumulated in “the Foreign Currency Monetary Item Translation Difference Account” and amortized over the remaining life of the concerned monetary item.
- iii. All other exchange differences are recognized as income or as expenses in the year in which they arise.

For the purpose of (i) and (ii) above, the Company treats a foreign monetary item as “long-term foreign currency monetary item”, if it has a term of 12 months or more at the date of its origination. In accordance with MCA circular dated August 09, 2012, exchange differences for this purpose, are total differences arising on long-term foreign currency monetary items for the period. In other words, the Company does not differentiate between exchange differences arising from foreign currency borrowings to the extent they are regarded as an adjustment to the interest cost and other exchange difference.

(d) Forward exchange contracts are entered into to hedge foreign currency risk of an existing asset/liability

The premium or discount arising at the inception of forward exchange contracts is amortised and recognised as an expense / income over the life of the contract. Exchange differences on such contracts, except the contracts which are long term foreign currency monetary items, are recognised in the statement of profit and loss in the period in which the exchange rates change. Any profit or loss arising on cancellation or renewal of such forward exchange contract is also recognised as income or as expense for the period. Any gain/loss arising on forwards contracts which are long-term foreign currency monetary items is recognised in accordance with paragraph (c)(i) and (c)(ii) above.

Income tax

Tax expense comprises current and deferred taxes. Current income tax is measured at the amount expected to be paid to the tax authorities in accordance with the Indian Income Tax Act, 1961. The tax rates and tax laws used to compute the amount are those that are enacted or substantially enacted, at the reporting date. Current income tax relating to items recognized directly in equity is recognized in equity and not in the statement of profit and loss.

Deferred income taxes reflects the impact of current year timing differences between taxable income and accounting income originating during the current year and reversal of timing differences for earlier years. Deferred tax is measured using the tax rates and the tax laws enacted or substantively enacted at the reporting date. Deferred income tax relating to items recognized directly in equity is recognized in equity and not in the statement of profit and loss.

Deferred tax liabilities are recognised for all taxable timing differences. Deferred tax assets are recognised for deductible timing differences only to the extent that there is reasonable certainty that sufficient future taxable income will be available against which such deferred tax assets can be realised. In situations where the Company has unabsorbed depreciation or carry forward tax losses, all deferred tax assets are recognised only if there is virtual certainty supported by convincing evidence that they can be realised against future taxable profits.

In the situation where the Company is entitled to a tax holiday under the Income-tax Act, 1961 no deferred tax (assets or liability) is recognized in respect of timing differences which reverse during the tax holiday period, to the extent the Company's gross total income is subject to the deduction during the tax holiday period. Deferred tax in respect of timing differences which reverse after the tax holiday period is recognized in the year in which the timing differences originate. However, the Company restricts recognition of deferred tax assets to the extent that it has become reasonably certain or virtually certain, as the case may be, that sufficient future taxable income will be available against which such deferred tax assets can be realized. For recognition of deferred taxes, the timing differences which originate first are considered to reverse first.

At each reporting date, the Company re-assesses unrecognized deferred tax assets. It recognizes unrecognized deferred tax asset to the extent that it has become reasonably certain or virtually certain, as the case may be that sufficient future taxable income will be available against which such deferred tax can be realized.

The carrying amount of deferred tax assets are reviewed at each reporting date. The Company writes-down the carrying amount of deferred tax asset to the extent that it is no longer reasonably certain or virtually certain, as the case may be, that sufficient future taxable income will be available against which deferred tax assets can be realized. Any such write-down is reversed to the extent that it becomes reasonably certain or virtually certain, as the case may be, that sufficient future taxable income will be available.

Deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities are offset, if a legally enforceable right exists to set-off current tax assets against current tax liabilities and the deferred tax assets and deferred tax relate to the same taxable entity and the same taxation authority.

Minimum Alternate tax (MAT) paid in a year is charged to the statement of the profit and loss as current tax. The Company recognizes MAT credit available as an asset only to the extent that there is convincing evidence that the Company will pay normal income tax during the specified period, i.e., the period for which MAT credit is allowed to be carried forward. In the year in which the Company recognises MAT credit as an asset in accordance with the Guidance Note on Accounting for Credit Available in respect of Minimum Alternate Tax under the Income-tax Act, 1961, the said asset is created by way of credit to the statement of profit and loss and shown as "MAT Credit Entitlement." The Company reviews the "MAT credit entitlement" asset at each reporting date and writes down the asset to the extent the Company does not have convincing evidence that it will pay normal tax during the specified period.

Revenue Recognition

Revenue is recognized to the extent that it is probable that the economic benefits will flow to the Company and the revenue can be reliably measured. The following specific recognition criteria must also be met before revenue is recognized.

Contract research and manufacturing services income

In respect of contracts involving research services, in case of "time and materials" contracts, contract research fee are recognised as services are rendered, in accordance with the terms of the contracts. Revenues relating to fixed price contracts are recognised based on the percentage of completion method determined based on efforts expended as a proportion to total estimated efforts. The Company monitors estimates of total contract revenue and cost on a routine basis throughout the contract period. The cumulative impact of any change in estimates of the contract revenue or costs is reflected in the period in which the changes become known. In the event that a loss is anticipated on a particular contract, provision is made for the estimated loss. In respect of contracts involving sale of compounds arising out of contract research for which separate invoices are raised, revenue is recognised when the significant risks and rewards of ownership of the compounds have passed to the buyer, and comprise amounts invoiced for compounds sold. The Company collects service tax and sales taxes, as applicable, on behalf of the government and, therefore, it is not an economic benefit flowing to the Company. Hence, it is excluded from revenue.

Dividends

Dividend income is recognised when the Company's right to receive dividend is established by the reporting date.

Interest Income

Interest income is recognized on a time proportion basis taking into account the amount outstanding and the applicable interest rate. Interest income is included under the head "other income" in the statement of profit and loss.

Changes in Accounting Policies

There have been no changes in our Company's accounting policies in the last five years.

Key Components of Our Income Statement

Income

Total revenue is comprised of revenue from operations and other income. Dividends and miscellaneous income reflecting the income received from our holdings in mutual funds and other short-term instruments comprise other income. Of our revenue from operations, sale of services comprised a substantial majority in recent periods, as indicated in the breakdown below:

Almost all of our revenue from the sales of services come from exports. Sales of services to customers outside India accounted for 95.7%, 97.2% and 95.1% of total sales of services in fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015, respectively. In each of these periods, a large portion of our export sales were denominated in U.S. dollars, with remaining portion largely denominated in Euros. We expect the high contribution of exports to our sales mix to continue.

Facility charges. Facility charges consist of payments made to the SEZ developer, Biocon, towards the provision of certain utilities like water and steam, which are consumed in our operations as well as the treatment of effluents and waste generated.

Repairs and maintenance. Repairs and maintenance charges relate to expenses incurred for the maintenance of our facilities, the purchase of spare parts and the expenses relating to contract labour.

Foreign exchange difference (net). Foreign exchange difference (net) includes net gains or losses on our foreign exchange transactions and includes the cost of derivative instruments taken to hedge the foreign currency risk in our operations in addition to any gains or losses made on these derivative instruments.

Tax expenses

Tax expenses are comprised of current taxes payable and provision for deferred taxes, which are offset by any credit entitlement under MAT.

Fiscal year 2015 compared to fiscal year 2014

Income

Our total revenue for fiscal 2015 increased by 23.2% to ₹8,716 million, compared with ₹7,077 million in fiscal year 2014. Revenue from operations in fiscal 2015 increased by 22.9% to ₹8,599 million compared with ₹6,995 million in fiscal 2014. Our revenue growth was driven by fresh capacity additions in discovery and development services which became operational during this fiscal year. The key capacities that came online include a 75,000 sq. ft. stability centre and several new large-scale reactors for our chemical development services. We also benefitted from depreciation in the Indian Rupee against the U.S. dollar during this period. During fiscal 2015, we derived revenue from 221 clients, and the total revenue from our top 10 clients for the period reached ₹5,972 million, compared with 165 clients and revenue from top 10 clients of ₹4,766 million in fiscal 2014. Based on

RBI data, the average Indian Rupee/U.S. dollar exchange rate was ₹61.15/dollar in fiscal 2015 compared with ₹60.50/dollar in fiscal 2014.

Our total expenses, excluding tax expenses, was ₹6,681 million in fiscal 2015, a 21.2% increase over the fiscal 2014 figure of ₹5,511 million. Our major expense items increased, largely on account of the growth in our business. However, the rate of increase of our expenses was lower than the growth in our revenue due to our success in managing overall costs, higher asset turnover and the fact that many of our costs, including materials and employee benefits expenses, are Indian Rupee-denominated and hence diverged from U.S. dollar-denominated revenue in a depreciating Indian Rupee environment. Total expenses (excluding tax expenses) as a percentage of our total revenue decreased to 76.6% in fiscal 2015 as compared to 77.9% in fiscal 2014.

- Material costs was ₹2,390 million in fiscal 2015, a 24.9% increase over the fiscal 2014 figure of ₹1,914 million. This reflects an increase in the use of chemicals, reagents and consumables consumed and an increase in inventories in fiscal 2015 compared with a decrease in inventories in fiscal 2014. While material costs have increased in absolute terms, as a percentage of total revenue it has largely remained at the same levels for both fiscal 2014 and 2015 (27.0% in fiscal 2014 to 27.4% in fiscal 2015).
- Employee benefits expense totalled ₹2,019 million in fiscal 2015, a 29.7% increase over the fiscal 2014 figure of ₹1,556 million. This reflects a general increase in salaries paid to our employees and an increase in the number of employees from 2,108 as of March 31, 2014 to 2,664 as of March 31, 2015. Employee benefits expense have increased as a percentage of total revenue from 22.0% in fiscal 2014 to 23.2% in fiscal 2015.
- Depreciation and amortisation expense increased by 24.1% to ₹814 million in fiscal 2015 compared with ₹656 million in fiscal 2014 on account of an increase in our tangible fixed asset (gross block) from ₹7,199 million as at March 31, 2014 to ₹9,311 million as at March 31, 2015.
- Power and fuel costs increased to ₹275 million in fiscal 2015 from ₹234 million in fiscal 2014, a 17.5% increase. While power and fuel use and per unit costs have increased, power and fuel costs as a percentage of total revenue have largely remained at the same levels for both fiscal 2014 and 2015 (3.3% in fiscal 2014 to 3.2% in fiscal 2015).
- Costs for repairs and maintenance increased by 35.4% to ₹214 million in fiscal 2015 compared to ₹158 million in fiscal 2014 on account of an increase in our tangible fixed asset (gross block) and increased expenditure for the maintenance of our facilities.
- Foreign exchange difference (net) decreased to ₹160 million in fiscal 2015 compared with ₹459 million in fiscal 2014, principally due to higher realisation from hedging instruments compared to fiscal 2014.
- Finance cost increased to ₹79 million in fiscal 2015 compared to ₹4 million in fiscal 2014 principally on account of increased borrowings.

Restated profit before tax

Our restated profit before tax, defined as total revenue less total expenses (other than tax), increased by 29.9% to ₹2,035 million in fiscal 2015 compared with ₹1,566 million in fiscal 2014, principally for the reasons described above.

Total tax expenses

Total tax expense grew to ₹285 million in fiscal 2015 from ₹218 million in fiscal 2014, due largely to the increase in our current taxes (₹404 million in fiscal 2015 compared with ₹328 million in fiscal 2014) offset with MAT credit entitlement (of ₹117 million in fiscal 2015 compared with ₹96 million in fiscal 2014). We also recorded a reversal in provision for deferred tax of ₹2 million in fiscal 2015 compared with a reversal for deferred tax of ₹14 million in fiscal 2014. Our effective tax rate for fiscal 2015 was 14.0% compared to 13.9% in fiscal 2014.

Restated profit, net profit margin

Our restated profit increased by 29.8% to ₹1,750 million in fiscal 2015 compared with ₹1,348 million in fiscal 2014. Net profit margin, defined as restated profit divided by total revenue, was 20.1% in fiscal 2015.

Fiscal year 2014 compared to fiscal year 2013

Income

Our total revenue for fiscal 2014 increased by 27.7% to ₹7,077 million, compared with ₹5,542 million in fiscal year 2013. Revenue from operations in fiscal 2014 increased by 27.2% to ₹6,995 million compared with ₹5,500 million in fiscal 2013. Our revenue growth was driven by growth across multiple platforms most notably in discovery chemistry, discovery biology and biologics, supported by the addition of our third dedicated centre known as the Baxter Global Research Centre, reflecting sustained momentum in our business. We also benefitted from depreciation in the Indian Rupee against the U.S. dollar during this period. During fiscal 2014, we derived revenue from 165 clients, and the total revenue from our top 10 clients for the period reached ₹4,766 million, compared with 152 clients and revenue from top 10 clients of ₹3,843 million in fiscal 2013. Based on RBI data, the average Indian Rupee/U.S. dollar exchange rate was ₹60.50/dollar in fiscal 2014 compared with ₹54.45/dollar in fiscal 2013.

Total expenses (other than tax)

Our total expenses, excluding tax expenses, was ₹5,511 million in fiscal 2014, a 23.0% increase over the fiscal 2013 figure of ₹4,479 million. Our major expense items increased, largely on account of the growth in our business and losses on our foreign exchange hedging contracts. However, the rate of increase of our expenses was lower than the growth in our revenue due to our success in managing overall costs, higher asset turnover, lowering of our interest expense due to repayment of debt and the fact that many of our costs, including materials and employee benefits expenses, are Indian Rupee-denominated and hence diverged from U.S. dollar-denominated revenue in a depreciating Indian Rupee environment. Total expenses (excluding tax expenses) as a percentage of our total revenue decreased to 77.9% in fiscal 2014 as compared to 80.8% in fiscal 2013.

- Material costs was ₹1,914 million in fiscal 2014, a 31.8% increase over the fiscal 2013 figure of ₹1,452 million. This reflects an increase in the use of chemicals, reagents and consumables consumed and a decrease in inventories in fiscal 2014 compared with an increase in inventories in fiscal 2013.
- Employee benefits expense totalled ₹1,556 million in fiscal 2014, a 26.0% increase over the fiscal 2013 figure of ₹1,235 million. This reflects a general increase in salaries paid to our employees and an increase in the number of employees from 1,867 as of March 31, 2013 to 2,108 as of March 31, 2014.
- Depreciation and amortisation expense increased by 9.5% to ₹656 million in fiscal 2014 compared with ₹599 million in fiscal 2013 on account of an increase in our tangible fixed asset (gross block) from ₹6,438 million as at March 31, 2013 to ₹7,199 million as at March 31, 2014.
- Power and fuel costs increased to ₹234 million in fiscal 2014 from ₹212 million in fiscal 2013, a 10.4% increase. While power and fuel use and per unit costs have increased, power and fuel costs as a percentage of total revenue have declined from 3.8% in fiscal 2013 to 3.3% in fiscal 2014 as a result of better utilisation of our physical infrastructure.
- Costs for repairs and maintenance increased by 22.5% to ₹158 million in fiscal 2014 compared to ₹129 million in fiscal 2013 on account of an increase in our tangible fixed asset (gross block) and increased expenditure for the maintenance of our facilities.
- Foreign exchange difference (net) increased to ₹459 million in fiscal 2014 compared with ₹398 million in fiscal 2013, principally due to losses on lower-priced hedges that matured during this period.
- Finance cost decreased by 93.8% to ₹4 million in fiscal 2014 compared to ₹65 million in fiscal 2013 principally on account of repayment of debt.

Restated profit before tax

Our restated profit before tax, defined as total revenue less total expenses (other than tax), increased by 47.3% to ₹1,566 million in fiscal 2014 compared with ₹1,063 million in fiscal 2013, principally for the reasons described above.

Total tax expenses

Total tax expense grew to ₹218 million in fiscal 2014 from ₹42 million in fiscal 2013, due largely to the increase in our current taxes (₹328 million in fiscal 2014 compared with ₹200 million in fiscal 2013) and a decrease in the offsetting MAT credit entitlement (to ₹96 million in fiscal 2014 compared with ₹141 million in fiscal 2013). We also recorded a reversal in provision for deferred tax of ₹14 million in fiscal 2014 compared with a reversal for deferred tax of ₹17 million in fiscal 2013. Our effective tax rate for fiscal 2014 was 13.9% compared to 4.0% in fiscal 2013. The increase in our tax rate reflects the movement of some of our units to a higher tax bracket as detailed in the section on tax expenses.

Restated profit for the period, net profit margin

Our restated profit for the period increased by 32.0% to ₹1,348 million in fiscal 2014 compared with ₹1,021 million in fiscal 2013. Net profit margin was 19.0% in fiscal 2014.

EBITDA and EBITDA Margin

To provide investors with additional information regarding our financial results, we have presented EBITDA and EBITDA margin, both of which are non-GAAP financial measures. We define EBITDA as earnings before finance cost, tax, depreciation and amortisation calculated as total revenue (revenue from operations and other income) less total expenses (expenses other than depreciation and amortisation, finance cost and tax)). We define our EBITDA Margin as EBITDA divided by total revenue.

We have presented EBITDA in this Red Herring Prospectus because it is a supplementary measure used by our management and Board of Directors to understand and evaluate our core operating performance and trends. In particular, we believe that the exclusion of the expenses eliminated in calculating EBITDA can provide a useful measure for period-to-period comparisons of our core business. We believe that EBITDA provides useful information to investors and others in understanding and evaluating our operating results in the same manner as our management and Board of Directors.

	(₹ in millions, except percentages)
EBITDA	2,928	2,226	1,727
EBITDA Margin	33.6%	31.5%	31.2%

EBITDA and EBITDA Margin are not measurements of financial profitability or liquidity under Indian GAAP and should not be considered as an alternative to performance measures derived in accordance with Indian GAAP.

We make no representations as to the methodology used to define and/or calculate EBITDA and EBITDA Margin or whether it reflects an appropriate measure of our Company's operating performance or ability to service debt.

In addition, EBITDA and EBITDA Margin are not standardised terms, hence a direct comparison between companies using such a term may not be possible. Our use of EBITDA and EBITDA Margin thus has limitations as an analytical tool, and you should not consider them either in isolation or as a substitute for analysis of our financial results as reported under Indian GAAP. Because of these and other limitations, you should consider EBITDA and EBITDA Margin along with other GAAP-based financial performance measures, including various cash flow metrics, profit or loss after tax, and our other Indian GAAP financial results.

The following is a reconciliation of our restated profit under Indian GAAP to our definition of EBITDA and EBITDA Margin:

Liquidity and Capital Resources

Our primary liquidity and funding needs have been for working capital, capital expenditures and repayment of debt. To fund these requirements in recent periods, we have relied on cash flow from operations as well as fresh equity issuances and bank loans.

We believe that our current cash and cash equivalents, cash flow from operations and amounts available under existing facilities will be sufficient to meet our anticipated working capital and capital expenditure requirements, anticipated debt repayment and interest obligations and other operating needs under our current business plans for the next 12 months. However, we cannot assure you that our anticipated capital requirements will not increase or that the expected cash flow from operations will not decrease from our current expectations over the next 12 months. In such an event, we may also source additional funds from external sources such as bank loans and debt and equity capital markets.

Our anticipated cash flow from operations depends on several factors beyond our control, such as the pricing of our client contracts, the demand and supply for our services, inflation and foreign currency exchange rates. Our ability to obtain adequate financing to satisfy demands on liquidity may be limited by our financial condition and results of operations and liquidity of international and domestic financial markets. In the event that we cannot meet our liquidity and funding requirements with internally generated cash flows, we may seek other external sources of funding. We cannot assure you that we will be able to obtain suitable financing arrangements for our future liquidity and funding needs.

As of March 31, 2015, we had cash and bank balances of ₹1,157 million and ₹1,460 million of current investments. As of March 31, 2015, our net working capital, defined as the difference between current assets and current liabilities, was ₹1,106 million.

Total debt

As of March 31, 2015, we had long-term borrowings of ₹186 million (US$2.98 million), and our short-term borrowings were ₹1,364 million (US$21.8 million). As of March 31, 2015, ₹186 million, or 100%, of our outstanding long-term borrowings were secured. As of March 31, 2015, ₹1,364 million, or 100%, of our outstanding short-term borrowings were unsecured.

See “—Description of material indebtedness” below for more information on the terms of our borrowings and facilities.

The table below summarises our cash flows for fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015:

	March 31, 2015	Year ended March 31, 2014 (₹ in millions)	March 31, 2013
Net cash flow from/(used in) operating activities	185	2,995	1,035
Net cash flow from/(used in) investing activities	120	(3,742)	(1,501)
Net cash flow from/(used in) financing activities	(101)	1,554	207
Net increase/(decrease) in cash and cash equivalents	204	807	(259)

Operating activities

Our operating activities have consistently generated cash on a net basis in recent periods. Our net cash flow from operating activities in recent periods largely reflect the growth in our operating profit, as supplemented or offset (depending on the period) by changes in working capital and direct taxes paid (net of refunds). For fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015, our operating profit before working capital changes were ₹1,593 million, ₹2,052 million and ₹2,764 million, respectively. For fiscal 2014, operating profit before working capital changes was supplemented by net decreases in working capital items totalling ₹1,292 million. For fiscal 2013 and 2015, net increases in working capital items offset operating profit by ₹361 million and ₹2,158 million respectively. The net increase in working capital in fiscal 2015 was largely due to an increase in other assets of Rs. 1,161 million on account of unamortized premium on foreign exchange contracts taken to hedge our net future cash flows, in line with our policy.

Investing activities

Except for fiscal 2015, our investing activities in recent periods have on a net basis used cash. Net cash used in investing activity has been driven to a large extent by consistent and growing purchases of tangible assets pursuant to our capital expenditure plans and purchases of current investments, such as mutual fund interests and short-term liquid debt instruments, as part of our management of our current assets. For fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015, our payments for the purchases of tangible assets including capital work in progress, capital advances and net of reimbursement from customers totalled ₹606 million, ₹998 million and ₹1,970 million, respectively. For fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015, our payments for purchases of current investments in those periods totalled ₹3,392 million, ₹6,031 million and ₹4,217 million, respectively, and our proceeds from the sale of current investments totalled ₹2,701 million, ₹3,202 million and ₹6,277 million, respectively. In addition, in fiscal 2013 and 2014 we extended loans to our subsidiary Clinigene of ₹235 million and ₹199 million, respectively. Intercompany items such as these have been eliminated as a result of our amalgamation with Clinigene effective April 1, 2014.

Financing activities

Except for fiscal 2015, our financing activities in recent periods have brought cash into our Company. Net cash flow from financing activities in recent periods largely reflects proceeds from equity issuances and long- and short-term borrowings, as offset by debt repayment, debt service and dividends paid. In fiscal 2013 and 2015, we received proceeds from issuance of share capital, net of share issue expenses and amounts recoverable from trust, of ₹1,197 million and ₹1,334 million, respectively. In fiscal 2015, we generated cash of ₹185 million from the proceeds of long-term borrowings, and in fiscal 2014 we repaid ₹45 million of long-term borrowings. Our net proceeds from short-term borrowings (or net repayments, when the figure is indicated in brackets) in fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015 were ₹(926) million, ₹1,601 million and ₹(252) million, respectively. The interest paid in fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015 was ₹64 million, ₹2 million and ₹77 million, respectively. In addition, in fiscal 2015, we paid dividends on our equity shares of face value ₹5 totalling ₹1,138 million and tax in respect of these dividends of ₹193 million.

Capital and other commitments

As of March 31, 2015, our estimated contracts remaining to be executed on our capital account and not provided for (net of advances) were for ₹1,412 million.

We have also entered into lease agreements for the use of land and buildings which expire over a period of time up to the year 2022 and have taken vehicles for certain employees under operating leases, which expire over a period ranging up to May 2018. Future minimum rentals payable for land and buildings and vehicles as of March 31, 2015 are as provided in the table below:

	Payment due by period
	Total	Less than 1 year	1 – 5 years	More than 5 years
		(₹ in millions)
Minimum lease payments.....	318	50	183	85

Description of material indebtedness

As of March 31, 2015, we had long-term borrowings of ₹186 million all of which were floating rate U.S. dollar-denominated obligations benchmarked to LIBOR. As of March 31, 2015, we had short-term borrowings totalling ₹1,364 million, all of which were floating rate U.S. dollar-denominated obligations benchmarked to LIBOR. Many of the financing arrangements are secured by a charge on current assets and movable fixed assets including plant and machinery and other assets. Our sundry debtors and inventories are subject to charges created in favour of specific secured lenders. For a description of the principal terms and financial covenants of our material indebtedness, see “Financial Indebtedness” on page 176 and “Financial Statements” on page F-27.

Contingent liabilities and off-balance sheet arrangements

As of March 31, 2015, we did not have any material contingent liabilities other than those disclosed under note 11 of Annexure IV to our Restated Financial Statements included in this Red Herring Prospectus, in accordance with the provisions of Accounting Standard 29 — “Provisions, Contingent Liabilities and Contingent Assets.”

We do not have any other off-balance sheet arrangements, derivative instruments or other relationships with unconsolidated entities that have been established for the purposes of facilitating off-balance sheet arrangements.

Capital expenditures

The following table sets out our additions to tangible fixed assets for fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015. Additions to tangible fixed assets include certain assets which have been funded by our clients with whom we have long-term collaborations. Assets funded by our clients are capitalised at gross value and the funds received are recorded as deferred revenues and amortised over the useful life of the assets/ period of the contract.

Our historical capital expenditure has been primarily towards capacity expansions, capability additions, technological up-gradations and replacement of our equipment. The key facility additions during the above three fiscal years ended March 31, 2015 include our dedicated infrastructure and assets for our clients Abbott and Baxter.

We intend to further invest up to US$200 million in our facilities over the next three fiscal years principally towards capacity augmentation in our laboratory services (discovery chemistry and discovery biology), developmental services (formulation and biologics or large molecules development) and cGMP drug substance manufacturing. We also intend to invest in oligonucleotides, viral testing services and ADCs and are in the process of setting up a new commercial scale manufacturing centre in Mangaluru. All these investments will be made in a manner consistent with internal policies and staggered in line with business visibility.

The foregoing figures in our budgeted capital expenditure plans are based on current management estimates and have not been appraised by an independent organisation. In addition, our capital expenditure plans are subject to a number of variables, including changes in management’s views of the continued desirability of current plans, possible cost overruns, construction/development delays, delay or non-receipt of critical governmental approvals including approvals from drug regulators in our target markets, and availability of financing on acceptable terms among others. We expect to fund these capital expenditures through internal accruals and debt. We cannot assure you that we will be able to execute our capital expenditure plans as contemplated.

Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosure about Market Risk

The following discussion summarises our exposure to certain market risks and the steps we have taken to address these risks. It is difficult to accurately predict changes in economic or market conditions and anticipate the effects of such changes.

Market price risk

A portion of our current assets has in recent periods been invested in mutual fund units, which subjects us to market price risk based principally on the net asset value of these funds’ portfolio investments and interest rate movement. As of March 31, 2015, our investments in units of mutual funds, including liquid funds, totalled ₹1,460 million. The assets of the funds we invest in are principally comprised of Indian debt instruments. Debt instruments are subject to risks, including fluctuation in market prices and creditworthiness of counterparties.

Foreign exchange rate risk

We face foreign exchange rate risk to the extent that our income, expenses, assets or liabilities are denominated in a currency other than the Indian Rupee. Almost all of our revenue from operations, a large portion of our capital expenditures, a large portion of equipment purchases, a portion of our material costs and much of our debt are denominated in U.S. dollars. In addition, some of our export sales are also denominated in other foreign currencies, principally the Euro. As of March 31, 2015, our long-term borrowings were ₹186 million (US$2.98 million) which were all denominated in U.S. dollars. As of March 31, 2015, our short-term borrowings were ₹1,364 million (US$21.8 million) which were all denominated in U.S. dollars. As of March 31, 2015, our U.S. dollar denominated bank balances in current accounts were ₹1,143 million (US$18.3 million).

Because of our U.S. dollar exposures, exchange rate fluctuations between the Indian Rupee and foreign currencies, especially the U.S. dollar, can have a material impact on our results of operations, cash flows and financial condition. The exchange rate between the Indian Rupee and U.S. dollar has been volatile in recent periods. Based on RBI data, the average Indian Rupee/U.S. dollar exchange rate for fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015 was ₹54.45/dollar, ₹60.50/dollar and ₹61.15/dollar, respectively.

We typically hedge 50% to 100% of expected net foreign exchange exposure for a period of up to two years, which is increased upwards or downwards, as appropriate, on a quarterly rolling basis. However for our long-term fixed-price client contracts, we seek to hedge up to 100% of net foreign exchange exposure over the contract term. These hedges are through a combination of various derivative instruments like plain puts and range forwards.

Most of our current outstanding exposure is hedged via puts which provide a base floor protection with upward participation in the event of Indian Rupee depreciation beyond the specified floor. In order to access these derivative instruments, we pay a hedging cost to the banks. These expenses appear under the “Other Expenses” line item in our income statement. While these hedges provide us protection from currency fluctuation, these are subject to their own risks, including counterparty credit risk.

For fiscal 2013, 2014, 2015, we recorded losses from net foreign exchange difference of ₹398 million, ₹459 million and ₹160 million, respectively. A significant portion of these net foreign exchange losses incurred in fiscal 2013 and 2014 was principally on account of certain lower priced forward contracts taken in fiscal 2009 to cover for expected cash flows from a long-term engagement. With the expiry of these lower priced forward contracts, the net exchange losses decreased significantly in fiscal 2015. A significant portion of the net foreign exchange difference in fiscal 2015 refers primarily to hedging expenses relating to derivative instruments settled during the period. Our hedging policy has migrated from instruments like forward contracts to plain puts and range forwards, mainly to reduce volatility.

We face commodity price risk through our material purchases. These include items booked as expenses under “Cost of chemicals, reagents and consumables consumed” and the “Power and fuel” lines under “Other expenses”. Whether they are sourced domestically or overseas, the prices of many of our raw materials are based on global prices and can fluctuate dramatically. We do not currently engage in any hedging activities against commodity price risk.

Interest rate risk

We are subject to interest rate risk through our borrowings. Upward fluctuations in interest rates increase the interest cost of new borrowings and outstanding floating rate borrowings and downward fluctuations will decrease the interest earned by our bank deposits. As of March 31, 2015, our long-term borrowings totalled ₹186 million, all of which were U.S. dollar-denominated variable rate instruments benchmarked to LIBOR.. As of March 31, 2015, our short-term borrowings totalled ₹1,364 million, all of which were U.S. dollar-denominated variable rate instruments benchmarked to LIBOR. As of March 31, 2015, our U.S. dollar denominated bank balances in current accounts were ₹1,143 million. We monitor interest rates to assess the potential impact of changes in these rates on our financial position. We do not currently engage in any hedging activities against interest rate risk.

Counterparty and Concentration of Credit Risk

We are exposed to the credit risk of our clients. We seek to minimise credit risk by limiting business dealings to business partners of high creditworthiness. We also monitor our receivables on a monthly basis. As of March 31, 2015 we had trade receivables of ₹1,799 million. We make doubtful debt provisions for trade receivables that are due for more than one year in accordance with our policies.

We believe that currently there is no significant risk of loss associated with counterparty credit default, other than amounts for which we already have provided for. For fiscal 2013, 2014 and 2015, we made total provisions for doubtful receivables of nil, ₹10 million and ₹2 million, respectively.

Our cash and cash equivalents are placed with banks that management believes to be of high quality. We enter into derivative contracts with Indian and foreign financial institutions to hedge foreign currency exposures. We enter into these contracts with financial institutions that we believe to be of high quality. We have certain foreign exchange hedging contracts with an Indian subsidiary of Royal Bank of Scotland NV (“RBS”). In February 2015, RBS announced its intentions to shut down banking operations in India and according to news reports in the media, its operations in India will be slowly wound down or put up for sale in the coming months. We are not in a position to predict the impact, if any, of this announcement by RBS on our hedging contracts with them. To date, we have not suffered any losses on account of counterparty default on our derivative contracts.

Transactions with Related Parties

From time to time, we enter into transactions with companies which are controlled by members of our Promoter Group and other related parties in the ordinary course of our business. For the fiscal year 2015, 2.4% of our revenue from operations was earned from related parties as defined under Accounting Standard — 18. For further details on our related party transactions, see the section “Related Party Transactions” on page 173.

Inflation and Seasonality

According to data from the RBI, the average annual rate of inflation as measured by changes in the wholesale price index was 7.4% in fiscal 2013 and 5.9% in fiscal 2014 and 3.4% in fiscal 2015. High fluctuation in inflation rates may make it more difficult for us to accurately estimate or control our costs. While inflation can increase our Rupee-denominated costs, high inflation rates in India have often been accompanied by a depreciation of the Rupee against the U.S. dollar. The currency depreciation of the Indian Rupee compared to the U.S. dollar will increase the Rupee value of our U.S. dollar-denominated revenues and have an offsetting impact on our costs.

Our business does not have any significant seasonal impact. However, a substantial number of our client contracts are renewed at the beginning of the calendar year which may result in volatility in our fourth quarter results.

We replied to the notice on April 17, 2008, stating that (i) since the notice was received by us after a period of four years, the reassessment could be initiated only if it could be held that there was a failure to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for the assessment; and (ii) we had extended complete cooperation in the course of scrutiny proceedings earlier; hence it could be concluded that there was no failure by us to fully and truly disclose all material facts in respect of the subject assessment year. The ACIT had by its order dated August 31, 2009 disallowed the amount of (i) ₹65.1 million under section 10B of the IT Act; and (ii) ₹2.0 million shown as ‘provision for payment of gratuity’ and accordingly raised a demand of ₹43.5 million. The DCIT through an order dated December 23, 2010 denied the deduction claimed under section 10B of the IT Act and raised a demand of ₹98.1 million. Aggrieved by the order of the DCIT, we filed an appeal before the CITA, wherein we, amongst other grounds, contended that if we were not allowed to claim deduction under section 10B of the IT Act, we should be allowed to claim such deduction under section 80IB(8A) of the IT Act. - (a) The SEBI ICDR Regulations, 2009 specify the allocation or Allotment that may be made to various categories of Bidders/Applicants in an Offer depending on compliance with the eligibility conditions. Certain details pertaining to the percentage of Offer size available for allocation to each category is disclosed overleaf of the Bid cum Application Form and in the RHP / Prospectus. For details in relation to allocation, the Bidder/Applicant may refer to the RHP / Prospectus.
- (b) Under-subscription in Retail category is allowed to be met with spill-over from any other category or combination of categories at the discretion of the Issuer and in consultation with the BRLMs and the Designated Stock Exchange and in accordance with the SEBI ICDR Regulations, 2009. Unsubscribed portion in QIB Category is not available for subscription to other categories.
- (c) In case of under subscription in the Net Offer, spill-over to the extent of such under-subscription may be permitted from the Reserved Portion to the Net Offer. For allocation in the event of an under-subscription applicable to the Issuer, Bidders/Applicants may refer to the RHP.

(d) Illustration of the Book Building and Price Discovery Process

Bidders should note that this example is solely for illustrative purposes and is not specific to the Offer; it also excludes Bidding by Anchor Investors.

Bid Quantity	Bid Amount (₹)	Cumulative Quantity	Subscription
500	24	500	16.67%
1,000	23	1,500	50.00%
1,500	22	3,000	100.00%
2,000	21	5,000	166.67%
2,500	20	7,500	250.00%

The price discovery is a function of demand at various prices. The highest price at which the Issuer is able to Offer the desired number of Equity Shares is the price at which the book cuts off, i.e., ₹22.00 in the above example. The Issuer, in consultation with the BRLMs, may finalise the Offer Price at or below such Cut-Off Price, i.e., at or below ₹22.00. All Bids at or above this Offer Price and cut-off Bids are valid Bids and are considered for allocation in the respective categories.

(e) Alternate Method of Book Building

In case of FPOs, Issuers may opt for an alternate method of Book Building in which only the Floor Price is specified for the purposes of Bidding (“Alternate Book Building Process”).

The Issuer may specify the Floor Price in the RHP or advertise the Floor Price at least one Working Day prior to the Bid/ Offer Opening Date. QIBs may Bid at a price higher than the Floor Price and the Allotment to the QIBs is made on a price priority basis. The Bidder with the highest Bid Amount is allotted the number of Equity Shares Bid for and then the second highest Bidder is Allotted Equity Shares and this process continues until all the Equity Shares have been allotted. RIIs, NIIs and Employees are Allotted Equity Shares at the Floor Price and Allotment to these categories of Bidders is made proportionately. If the number of Equity Shares Bid for at a price is more than available quantity then the Allotment may be done on a proportionate basis. Further, the Issuer may place a cap either in terms of number of specified securities or percentage of issued capital of the Issuer that may be Allotted to a single Bidder, decide whether a Bidder be allowed to revise the bid upwards or downwards in terms of price and/or quantity and also decide whether a Bidder be allowed single or multiple bids.

SECTION 6: ISSUE PROCEDURE IN FIXED PRICE ISSUE

Applicants may note that there is no Bid cum Application Form in a Fixed Price Offer. As the Offer Price is mentioned in the Fixed Price Offer therefore on filing of the Prospectus with the RoC, the Application so submitted is considered as the application form.

Applicants may only use the specified Application Form for the purpose of making an Application in terms of the Prospectus which may be submitted through Syndicate Members/SCSB and/or Bankers to the Offer or Registered Broker.

ASBA Applicants may submit an Application Form either in physical form to the Syndicate Members or Registered Brokers or the Designated Branches of the SCSBs or in the electronic form to the SCSB or the Designated Branches of the SCSBs authorising blocking of funds that are available in the bank account specified in the Application Form only (“ASBA Account”). The Application Form is also made available on the websites of the Stock Exchanges at least one day prior to the Bid/Offer Opening Date.

In a fixed price Offer, allocation in the net offer to the public category is made as follows: minimum fifty per cent to Retail Individual Investors; and remaining to (i) individual investors other than Retail Individual Investors; and (ii) other Applicants including corporate bodies or institutions, irrespective of the number of specified securities applied for. The unsubscribed portion in either of the categories specified above may be allocated to the Applicants in the other category.

For details of instructions in relation to the Application Form, Bidders/Applicants may refer to the relevant section of the GID.

SECTION 7: ALLOTMENT PROCEDURE AND BASIS OF ALLOTMENT

The Allotment of Equity Shares to Bidders/Applicants other than Retail Individual Investors and Anchor Investors may be on proportionate basis. For Basis of Allotment to Anchor Investors, Bidders/Applicants may refer to RHP/Prospectus. No Retail Individual Investor is will be Allotted less than the minimum Bid Lot subject to availability of shares in Retail Individual Investor Category and the remaining available shares, if any will be Allotted on a proportionate basis. The Issuer is required to receive a minimum subscription of 90% of the Offer (excluding any Offer for Sale of specified securities). However, in case the Offer is in the nature of Offer for Sale only, then minimum subscription may not be applicable.

7.1 ALLOTMENT TO RIIs

Bids received from the RIIs at or above the Offer Price may be grouped together to determine the total demand under this category. If the aggregate demand in this category is less than or equal to the Retail Category at or above the Offer Price, full Allotment may be made to the RIIs to the extent of the valid Bids. If the aggregate demand in this category is greater than the allocation to in the Retail Category at or above the Offer Price, then the maximum number of RIIs who can be Allotted the minimum Bid Lot will be computed by dividing the total number of Equity Shares available for Allotment to RIIs by the minimum Bid Lot ("Maximum RII Allottees"). The Allotment to the RIIs will then be made in the following manner:

RESTRICTIONS ON FOREIGN OWNERSHIP OF INDIAN SECURITIES

Foreign investment in Indian securities is regulated through the Industrial Policy, 1991 of the Government of India and FEMA. While the Industrial Policy, 1991 prescribes the limits and the conditions subject to which foreign investment can be made in different sectors of the Indian economy, FEMA regulates the precise manner in which such investment may be made. Under the Industrial Policy, unless specifically restricted, foreign investment is freely permitted in all sectors of the Indian economy up to any extent and without any prior approvals, but the foreign investor is required to follow certain prescribed procedures for making such investment. The government bodies responsible for granting foreign investment approvals are the FIPB and the RBI.

The Government has from time to time made policy pronouncements on foreign direct investment (“FDI”) through press notes and press releases. The Department of Industrial Policy and Promotion, Ministry of Commerce and Industry, Government of India (“DIPP”), issued the Consolidated FDI Policy Circular of 2015 (“FDI Circular 2015”), which, with effect from May 12, 2015, consolidated and superseded all previous press notes, press releases and clarifications on FDI issued by the DIPP that were in force and effect as on May 12, 2015. The Government proposes to update the consolidated circular on FDI policy once every year and therefore, FDI Circular 2015 will be valid until the DIPP issues an updated circular.

The transfer of shares between an Indian resident and a non-resident does not require the prior approval of the FIPB or the RBI, provided that (i) the activities of the investee company are under the automatic route under the foreign direct investment policy and transfer does not attract the provisions of the Takeover Regulations; (ii) the non-resident shareholding is within the sectoral limits under the FDI policy; and (iii) the pricing is in accordance with the guidelines prescribed by the SEBI/ RBI.

As per the existing policy of the Government of India, OCBs cannot participate in this Offer.

Foreign investment aggregating upto 100% is permitted in our Company with the prior approval of the FIPB. Our Company has obtained approval from the Foreign Investment Promotion Board, Department of Economic Affairs (FIPB Unit), Ministry of Finance for transfer of Equity Shares by the Selling Shareholder to non-residents under the Offer, vide letter dated June 18, 2015.

The approval is subject to the following conditions:

- (i) The production level of consumables and NLEM drugs and their supply to domestic market at the time of induction of FDI, be maintained over the next five years at an absolute quantitative level. The benchmark for this level would be decided with reference to the level of production of consumables and/or NLEM drugs in the immediately preceding three financial years to the year of induction of FDI. Of these, the highest level of production in any of these three years would be taken as the level;
- (ii) R&D expenses be maintained in value terms for 5 years at an absolute quantitative level at the time of induction of FDI. The benchmark for this level would be decided with reference to the highest level of R&D expenses which has been incurred in any of the three financial years immediately preceding to the year of induction of FDI;
- (iii) The administrative ministries concerned and the FIPB secretariat will be provided complete information pertaining to the transfer of technology, if any, along with induction of foreign investment into the investee company.
- (iv) The taxation of dividend and future capital gains on alienation of shares by the non-residents, interest income and income of any other nature including perquisite value shall be examined by the field formation in accordance with the provisions of Income Tax Act, 1961 and the DTAA as applicable to the facts of this case.
- (v) Claim of any tax relief under the Income Tax Act, 1961 or the relevant DTAA will be examined independently by the tax authorities to determine the eligibility and extent of such relief and the approval of FIPB by itself will not amount to any recognition of eligibility for giving such relief;
- (vi) FIPB approval by itself does not provide any immunity from tax investigations to determine whether specific or general anti-avoidance rules apply; and
- (vii) The fair market value of various payments, services, assets, shares etc., determined in accordance with

FIPB guidelines shall be examined by the tax authorities under the tax laws and rules in force and may be varied accordingly for tax purposes

The FIPB approval is also subject to compliance of RBI / SEBI guidelines on the pricing of shares.

The Equity Shares have not been, and will not be, registered under the Securities Act or any state securities laws in the United States and may not be offered or sold within the United States, except pursuant to an exemption from, or in a transaction not subject to, the registration requirements of the Securities Act and applicable state securities laws. Accordingly, the Equity Shares are only being offered and sold (i) in the United States only to persons reasonably believed to be “qualified institutional buyers” (as defined in Rule 144A under the Securities Act and referred to in this Red Herring Prospectus as “U.S. QIBs”, for the avoidance of doubt, the term U.S. QIBs does not refer to a category of institutional investor defined under applicable Indian regulations and referred to in this Red Herring Prospectus as “QIBs”) in transactions exempt from, or not subject to, the registration requirements of the Securities Act, and (ii) outside the United States in offshore transactions in reliance on Regulation S under the Securities Act and the applicable laws of the jurisdiction where those offers and sales occur.

The Equity Shares have not been and will not be registered, listed or otherwise qualified in any other jurisdiction outside India and may not be offered or sold, and Bids may not be made by persons in any such jurisdiction, except in compliance with the applicable laws of such jurisdiction.

The above information is given for the benefit of the Bidders. Our Company, the Selling Shareholder and the BRLMs are not liable for any amendments or modification or changes in applicable laws or regulations, which may occur after the date of this Red Herring Prospectus. Bidders are advised to make their independent investigations and ensure that the number of Equity Shares Bid for do not exceed the applicable limits under laws or regulations.

- (i) Neither a judgment nor a decree in favour of the Company for calls or other money due in respect of any share nor any part payment or satisfaction thereunder, nor the receipt by the Company of a portion of any money which shall from time to time be due from any Shareholder to the Company in respect of his shares, either by way of principal or interest, nor any indulgence granted by the Company in respect of the payment of any such money shall preclude the Company from thereafter proceeding to enforce a forfeiture of such shares as hereinafter provided.

The Directors may at any time repay the amount so advanced.
- (k) No Shareholder shall be entitled to voting rights in respect of the money(ies) so paid by him until the same would but for such payment, become presently payable.

The fully paid up shares shall be free from all lien and that in case of partly paid shares, the Company's lien shall be restricted to money called or payable at a fixed price in respect of such shares.

- (d) For the purpose of enforcing such lien, the Board may sell the shares, subject thereto in such manner as they shall think fit, and for that purpose may cause to be issued a duplicate certificate in respect of such shares and may authorise one of their Shareholders to execute and register the transfer thereof on behalf of and in the name of any purchaser. The purchaser shall not be bound to see to the application of the purchase money, nor shall his title to the shares be affected by any irregularity or invalidity in the proceedings in reference to the sale.

Provided that no sale shall be made:

- (i) unless a sum in respect of which the lien exists is presently payable; or
- (ii) until the expiration of 14 days after a notice in writing stating and demanding payment of such part of the amount in respect of which the lien exists as is presently payable, has been given to the registered holder for the time being of the share or the person entitled thereto by reason of his death or insolvency.

The net proceeds of any such sale shall be received by the Company and applied in payment of such part of the amount in respect of which the lien exists as is presently payable. The residue, if any, shall (subject to a like lien for sums not presently payable as existed upon the shares before the sale) be paid to the Person entitled to the shares at the date of the sale.

- (e) No Shareholder shall exercise any voting right in respect of any shares registered in his name on which any calls or other sums presently payable by him have not been paid, or in regard to which the Company has exercised any right of lien.

 - (i) An application for the registration of a transfer of the shares in the Company may be made either by the transferor or the transferee within the time frame prescribed under the Act
 - (ii) Where the application is made by the transferor and relates to partly paid shares, the transfer shall not be registered unless the Company gives notice of the application to the transferee in a prescribed manner and the transferee communicates no objection to the transfer within 2 (two) weeks from the receipt of the notice.
- (d) Every such instrument of transfer shall be executed by both, the transferor and the transferee and attested and the transferor shall be deemed to remain the holder of such share until the name of the transferee shall have been entered in the Register of Members in respect thereof.

- (m) A Person becoming entitled to a share by reason of the death or insolvency of a Shareholder shall be entitled to the same Dividends and other advantages to which he would be entitled if he were the registered holder of the shares, except that he shall not, before being registered as a Shareholder in respect of the shares, be entitled to exercise any right conferred by membership in relation to meetings of the Company.

Provided that the Directors shall, at any time, give notice requiring any such Person to elect either to be registered himself or to transfer the shares, and if such notice is not complied with within 90 (ninety) days, the Directors may thereafter withhold payment of all Dividends, bonuses or other monies payable in respect of the shares until the requirements of the notice have been complied with.
