Food analysis laboratories

Food analysis laboratories perform consumer food testing for food producers worldwide, particularly; the need for their expertise has been brought to the forefront. Food safety concerns dominate the news, so food testing labs are called on to evaluate the safety of the food supply with greater frequency. There is mounting pressure on companies to deliver food that is not only healthy but safe for the consumption of millions of consumers.

Food analysis is the science of determining quantitatively the composition of food products, food ingredients, and food product intermediates in processing operations. Food analysis is a direct application of quantitative chemistry. The results of food analysis are used in quality assurance and quality control applications that influence decision making, food database comparisons, food product development, marketing decisions, monitoring chemical changes during processing, and to satisfy government rules and regulations, and/or international standards. Currently, a main area of research in food science is the connection between food and health. Today, food is considered not only a source of energy but also an affordable way to prevent future diseases.

It has become clear in recent years that food safety is a worldwide challenge. There has been an alarming increase in food safety incidents over the past few years in industrialised countries including a number of high profile food safety scares. For example, over the past few years there have been a number of incidents involving the detection of banned substances or unauthorised veterinary medicines in food. In order to ensure the safety and quality of food, contamination risks are best identified and tackled at the source. One of the best ways to do this is by (a) detection of contaminated food and (b) exporters' understanding of regulatory standards in target markets and how to meet them. Governments around the world recognise the potential benefits of this analysis and they are enacting new laws and taking steps to build food safety mechanism

Our Strength

We believe that the following are our primary competitive strength

1. Experience of our Promoters

Our Promoter is well qualified and experienced in the Company's business. Further we have employed key professionals having analytical, research, technical and commercial backgrounds. Our company feels that the strength of any successful organization lies in the experience and guidance of its team leaders and staff alike. It has been only due to the highly empathetic management style that our Promoters have developed over the years.

2. Well-equipped R & D Lab

Our Company has a well-equipped R & D lab infrastructure. Core focus is on ensuring complete safety by sampling and testing of each day's production and to make sure that the food process adheres to the highest industry standards and meticulous product specification.

3. Highlights of the Food Testing Lab

- Nested PCR with a capacity to run 121 samples in one run.

Marketing & Selling arrangements

The marketing activities are towards initiating commercial services by the Food Testing Laboratory (FTL) and encouraging entrepreneurs, food processors, exporters and importers to avail services of the FTL focus is on the marketing of the lab to be able to run the lab on a self-sustainable mode.

The company intends to target customers for the FTL include:

a. Food & Feed Industry

The food and feed industry is the major customer for the FTL. Import and export food products and raw materials would be a major revenue earner for the FTL. Consumer awareness is high with respect to the quality and the hygiene of the products being consumed. It has a direct bearing on expenditure by the manufacturing & importing companies on testing of food materials.

b. Government regulatory bodies (Health, Agriculture, Food Processing)

Different Government regulatory bodies are an important customer for the FTL as the existing testing equipment and facilities are not world standard. Establishment of a modern FTL equipped with the latest state-of-the-art equipment and highly trained technical personnel would be a big resource for the Government bodies for their regulatory compliance and inspection activities both for local manufacturing, restaurant & food industry and also for food importing agencies.

c. Hotels & Restaurants

Hotels & Restaurants would require the services of FTL for the different raw material being procured by them to maintain their hygiene level. They would also take regular precautionary testing for regulatory compliance of the local Government

d. Other local FTLs

The latest state-of-the-art equipment at FTL would be utilized by other smaller FTLs, if any, to conduct tests which are not available in-house and also outsource the excess samples which they are unable to take with their in-house facilities.

e. Overseas clients

Companies from the nearby countries would require FTL services.

Overview

Food analysis is the science of determining quantitatively the composition of food products, food ingredients, and food product intermediates in processing operations. Food analysis is a direct application of quantitative chemistry. The results of food analysis are used in quality assurance and quality control applications that influence decision making, food database comparisons, food product development, marketing decisions, monitoring chemical changes during processing, and to satisfy government rules and regulations, and/or international standards. Currently, a main area of research in food science is the connection between food and health. Today, food is considered not only a source of energy but also an affordable way to prevent future diseases.

It has become clear in recent years that food safety is a worldwide challenge. There has been an alarming increase in food safety incidents over the past few years in industrialised countries including a number of high profile food safety scares. For example, over the past few years there have been a number of incidents involving the detection of banned substances or unauthorised veterinary medicines in food. In order to ensure the safety and quality of food, contamination risks are best identified and tackled at the source. One of the best ways to do this is by (a) detection of contaminated food and (b) exporters' understanding of regulatory standards in target markets and how to meet them. Governments around the world recognise the potential benefits of this analysis and they are enacting new laws and taking steps to build food safety mechanism.

Food Industry in India

The Indian food industry has witnessed strong growth over the past few years. India is the world's second largest producer of food next to China, and has the potential of becoming the biggest producer in the years to come. The total food production in India is likely to double in the next ten years.

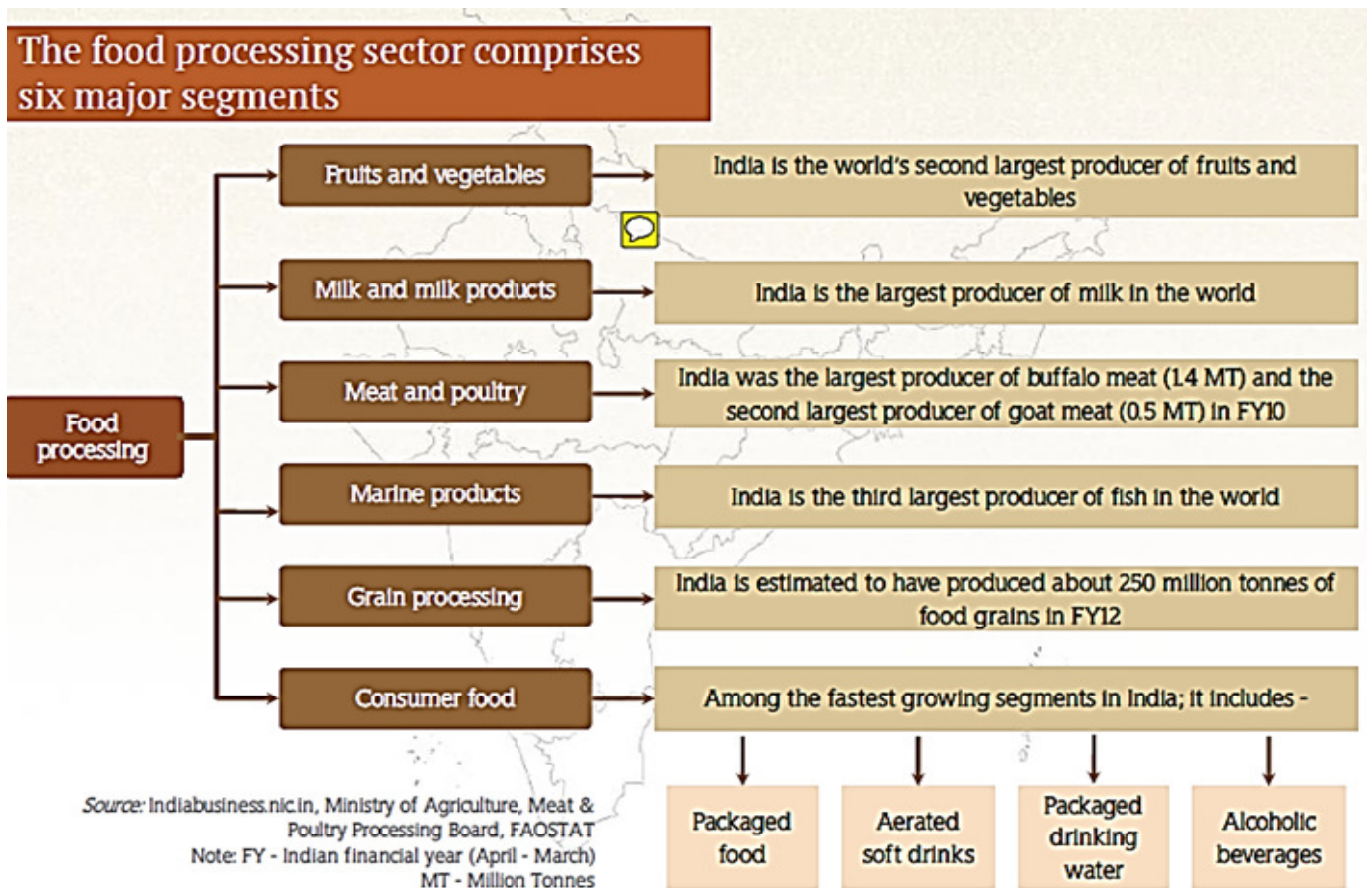

Indian food service industry is currently worth Rs 2,47,680 crore (US$ 41.39 billion) and is expected to grow at the rate of 11 per cent to touch Rs 4,08,040 crore (US$ 68.16 billion) by 2018, according to 'India Food Service Report 2013' by the National Restaurant Association of India (NRAI).

With a huge agriculture sector, abundant livestock, and cost competitiveness, India is fast emerging as a sourcing hub of processed food. Moreover, India's market for organic food consumption has also been recognised as one with the largest potential worldwide, as per RNCOS research report titled, 'Indian Organic Food Market Analysis'.

India's agriculture and processed foods exports shot up 63 per cent to set a record at Rs 101,504 crore (US$ 16.96 billion) in the first 10 months of 2012-13, as compared to Rs 62,244 crore (US$ 10.39 billion) in the corresponding period of last year, according to data compiled by the Agricultural and Processed Food Products Export Development Authority (APEDA).

The packaged food segment is expected to grow 9 per cent annually to become a Rs 6 lakh crore (US$ 100.19 billion) industry by 2030, dominated by milk, sweet and savoury snacks and processed poultry, among other products, according to the report "India as an agriculture and high value food powerhouse by 2030" by CII-McKinsey.

The food processing industries in India attracted foreign direct investments (FDI) worth US$ 1,811.06 million during April 2000 to March 2013, according to the latest data published by Department of Industrial Policy and Promotion (DIPP). (source www.ibef.org)

Market growth

Wide array of products, coupled with increasing global connectivity has led to a change in the tastes and preference of domestic consumers. Liberalisation and growth of organised retail have made the Indian market more attractive for global players. Global supermarket majors are looking at India as a major outsourcing hub.

The following are some of the demand drivers unique to certain segments:

Fruits and Vegetables:

With the expanding middle income group as a proportion of total population and increasing disposable income in all sections, the expenses on food are increasing. More Indians are becoming health conscious, but due to paucity of time, they prefer processed fruit and vegetables which will be fuelling the demand of these products in India in years to come.

Export-led demand growth, demand for fresh F&V at homes, rising preference for organic produce, consumer acceptance of processed food, demand for sauces, concentrates, sauces with changing lifestyles and preference for convenience and readymade produce.

Dairy products: Domestic and Export-led demand growth for curd and yoghurt, as well as milk proteins

Meat and Poultry: Increasing consumption levels are expected to drive demand for processed meat and poultry. Vegetarianism in India is actually low, as compared to perception (only 20% of population are strictly vegetarian), implying that people will experiment with poultry and move to meat as incomes rise. Further, preference for fresh meat in the domestic market and demand for high-value frozen foods in the export markets will drive growth. Also with the emergence of big players such as Suguna, there will be much more scope of fulfilling the demand supported by their state of art processing infrastructure and increased capacity.

Beverages:

Changing perception of alcoholic beverages in India from 'taboo' to 'socially acceptable' has led to immense internal demand growth, wide range of product offerings, the opening up and increasing 'organisation' of distribution channels will drive growth of alcohols in the beverages segment, supported by soft drinks, etc. www.ibef.org)

Demand for processed food

Increasing incomes are always accompanied by a change in the food basket. The consistent rise in the middle class income has resulted in a consuming class with change in basic lifestyle, increasing life aspiration and higher disposable income. The huge population size is also an added advantage that provides a large consumer market. The proportionate expenditure on cereals, pulses, edible oil, sugar, salt and spices declines as households climb the expenditure classes in urban India while the opposite happens in the case of milk and milk products, meat, egg and fish, fruits and beverages.

Income growth is a key driver of growing domestic demand for processed food

Rising disposable incomes

- Strong growth in per-capita income has resulted in greater demand for food items
- Per capita income is expected to expand at a CAGR of 8.5 per cent over 2010-2017 to USD2,428
- There has also been a shift in demand -
 - From carbohydrates to meat products (in line with the various phases of economic growth)
 - To convenience foods, organic and diet foods

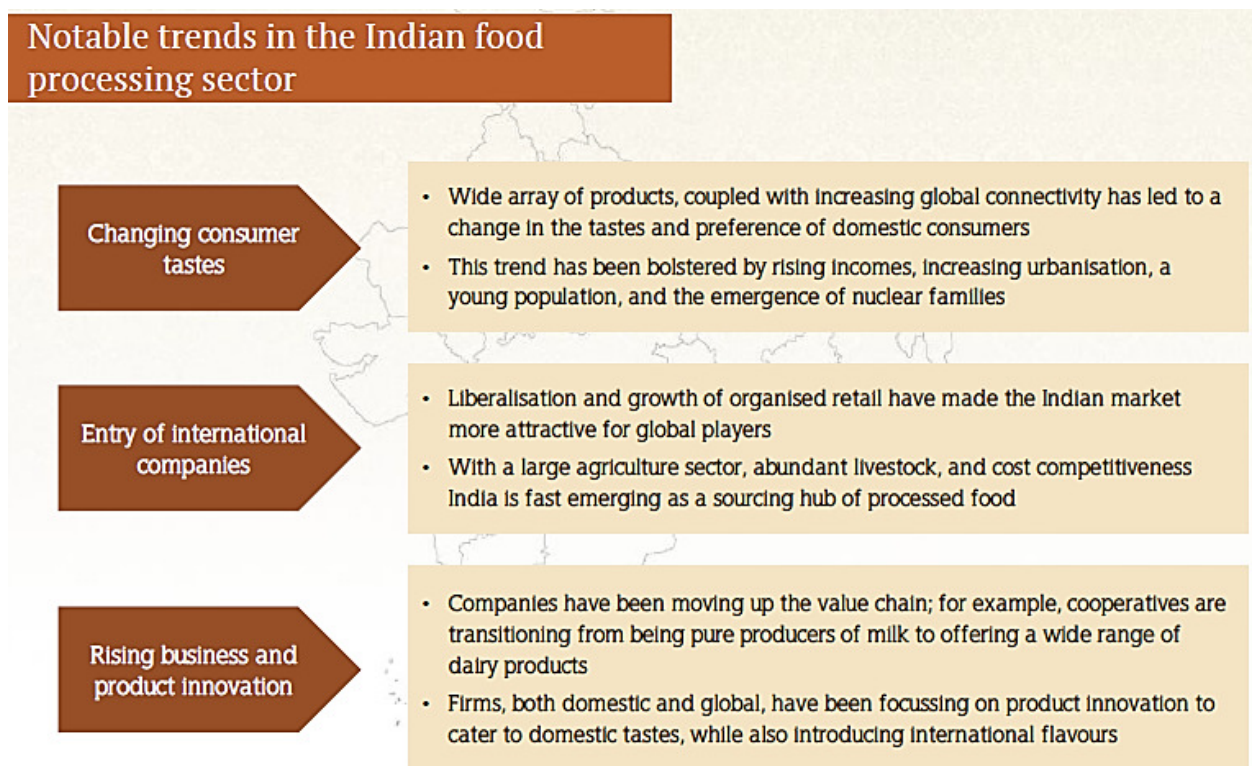

(source www.ibef.org)

A large part of this shift in consumption is driven by the processed food market, which accounts for 32 per cent of the total food market. Fuelled by large disposable incomes, the food sector has been witnessing a marked change in consumption patterns, especially in terms of food.

Trend in the Indian food processing sector

With changing needs and lifestyles of consumers, global as well as Indian food consumption patterns are rapidly evolving. Change in consumer demand, influenced by increased awareness levels about national and international food categories, brands, cuisine and openness to experimenting with processed and convenience food has also led to reorientation of the entire food business. Apart from the demand aspect, the production capacities and government support are the other important drivers behind industry growth.

Food safety is a tough challenge and improving it requires more than simple changes. Public-private collaboration, thoughtful changes by governments and a systematic approach to keep tabs on food from farm to table are all essential ingredients to improve food safety. Indian consumers testify to the fact that they have become more sensitive to the health quotient of food consumed as compared to a couple of years ago.

Challenges in Food Analysis

The development and application of analytical methods and techniques in food science has grown parallel to the consumers concern about what is in their food and the safety of the food they eat. To give an adequate answer to the raising consumers' demands, food analysts have to face increasingly complex challenges that require using the best available science and technology. There are a good number of challenges to be solved in food analysis. The variety of toxic residues in food is continuously increasing as a consequence of industrial development, new agricultural practices, environmental pollution, and climate change. The increasing number of food contaminants is bringing about the development of everyday more powerful, sensitive, and fast analytical methodologies able to detect emerging contaminants in food. In spite of these important developments, still hundreds of foodborne infection cases occur around the world, and up to one third of the population in industrialized nations suffers from foodborne illness each year.

Microbiologists have developed over the last decades reliable culture-based techniques for pathogens detection in foods. These methods are considered to be the "gold-standard"; however, they remain cumbersome and time consuming. The introduction of genetic-based technologies makes feasible developing sensitive and specific screening tests for the detection of microbial pathogens. Microarray-based technologies represent an advance in nucleic acid testing methods whose main features include miniaturization, ability to parallelize sample processing, and ease of automation. Despite the advent of these rapid detection methods based on molecular techniques (or immunoassays), it is suggested that reduction and/or elimination of cultural enrichment will be essential in the quest for truly real-time detection methods. As such, there is an important role for the so-called pre analytical sample processing that in this case would include bacterial concentration and purification from the sample matrix as a step preceding detection. In this regard, one analytical challenge that still remains in food safety is to present reliable results with respect to official guidelines, as fast as possible without impairing method properties such as recovery, accuracy, sensitivity, selectivity, and specificity.

The Company was converted into Public Limited Company and also the name was changed to Oceanaa Biotek Industries Limited pursuant to shareholders resolution dated May 17, 2013.

Our Company is presently engaged in the business of trading in Aquaculture products. We are setting up a specialized food analysis laboratory to perform consumer food testing for food producers worldwide. Food testing laboratories plays a vital role in Food Safety and Standards. Microbiological analysis is important to determine the safety and quality of food. More recently, advances in biotechnology have led to the development of "rapid methods" that minimize man effort, providing results in less time, thus reducing cost.

Awareness and knowledge has become a crucial factor in changing the attitude and behavior of consumers towards processed foods, which in turn drives the growth in the food analysis laboratories. Food analysis laboratories focus on ensuring complete safety by sampling and testing of each day's production and to make sure that the food process adheres to the highest industry standards and meticulous product specification.

Food analysis laboratories perform consumer food testing for food producers worldwide, particularly, the need for their expertise has been brought to the forefront. Food safety concerns dominate the news, so food testing labs are called on to evaluate the safety of the food supply with greater frequency. There is mounting pressure on companies to deliver food that is not only healthy but safe for the consumption of millions of consumers.

Marketing & Selling arrangements

The marketing activities are towards initiating commercial services by our Laboratory and encouraging entrepreneurs, food processors, exporters and importers to avail services of the Laboratory. Focus is on the marketing of the lab to be able to run on a self-sustainable mode.

Target customers

The target customers include:

a. Food & Feed Industry

The food and feed industry is the major customer for our lab. Import and export food products and raw materials would be a major revenue earner for the lab. Consumer awareness is high with respect to the quality and the hygiene of the products being consumed. It has a direct bearing on expenditure by the manufacturing and importing companies on testing of food materials.

b. Government regulatory bodies (Health, Agriculture, Food Processing)

Different Government regulatory bodies are an important customer for the lab as the existing testing equipment and facilities are not world standard. Establishment of a modern food testing laboratory equipped with the latest state-of-the-art equipment and highly trained technical personnel would be a big resource for the Government bodies for their regulatory compliance and inspection activities both for local manufacturing, restaurant & food industry and also for food importing agencies.

c. Hotels & Restaurants

Hotels & Restaurants would require the services of food testing laboratory for the different raw material being procured by them to maintain their hygiene level. They would also take regular precautionary testing for regulatory compliance of the local Government.

d. Other local food testing laboratories

The latest state-of-the-art equipment at food testing laboratory would be utilized by other smaller food testing laboratory, if any, to conduct tests which are not available in-house and also outsource the excess samples which they are unable to take with their in-house facilities.

e. Overseas clients

Companies from the nearby countries would require food testing laboratory's services. Our company has tied up with M/s Food Tech International, a consulting firm, active in the food sector in India as a consultant for the purpose of setup and operational assistance and product delivery assistance.

Environmental Laws

Environment (Protection) Act, 1986

The Environment (Protection) Act, 1986 was enacted as a general legislation to safeguard the environment from all sources of pollution by enabling coordination of the activities of the various regulatory agencies concerned, to enable creation of an authority with powers for environmental protection, regulation of discharge of environmental pollutants etc. The purpose of the Act is to act as an "umbrella" legislation designed to provide a frame work for Central government co-ordination of the activities of various central and state authorities established under previous laws, such as Water Act and Air Act. It includes water, air and land and the interrelationships which exist among water, air and land, and human beings and other living creatures, plants, micro-organisms and property.

Water (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Cess Act, 1977

The Water Cess Act is a legislation providing for the levy and collection of a cess on local authorities and industries based on the consumption of water by such local authorities and industries so as to enable implementation of the Water Act by the regulatory agencies concerned.

Air (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act 1981 ("Air Act")

The Air (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act, 1981 has been enacted to provide for the prevention, control and abatement of air pollution. The statute was enacted with a view to protect the environment and surroundings from any adverse effects of the pollutants that may emanate from any factory or manufacturing operation or activity. It lays down the Limits with regard to emissions and pollutants that are a direct result of any operation or activity. Periodic checks on the factories are mandated in the form of yearly approvals and consents from the corresponding Pollution Control Boards in the state.

Laws regulating foreign trade and investment

FEMA Regulations

As laid down by the FEMA Regulations, no prior consents and approvals are required from the Reserve Bank of India, for Foreign Direct Investment under the 'automatic route' within the specified sectoral caps. In respect of all industries not specified as FDI under the automatic route, and in respect of investment in excess of the specified sectoral limits under the automatic route, approval may be required from the FIPB and/or the RBI. The RBI, in exercise of its power under the FEMA, has notified the Foreign Exchange Management (Transfer or Issue of Security by a Person Resident Outside India) Regulations, 2000 ("FEMA Regulations") to prohibit, restrict or regulate, transfer by or issue security to a person resident outside India. Foreign investment in India is governed primarily by the provisions of the FEMA which relates to regulation primarily by the RBI and the rules, regulations and notifications there under, and the policy prescribed by the Department of Industrial Policy and Promotion, Ministry of Commerce & Industry, Government of India.

Foreign Trade (Development and Regulation) Act, 1992

This statute seeks to increase foreign trade by regulating the imports and exports to and from India. This legislation read with the Indian Foreign Trade Policy provides that no export or import can be made by a person or company without an importer exporter code number unless such person or company is specifically exempt. An application for an importer exporter code number has to be made to the office of the Joint Director General of Foreign Trade, Ministry of Commerce. An importer-exporter code number allotted to an applicant is valid for all its branches, divisions, units and factories.

Corporate Laws

The Companies Act, 1956

The Act deals with laws relating to companies and certain other associations. It was enacted by the parliament in 1956. The Companies Act primarily regulates the formation, financing, functioning and winding up of companies. The Act prescribes regulatory mechanism regarding all relevant aspects including organizational, financial and managerial aspects of companies. Regulation of the financial and management aspects constitutes the main focus of the Act. In the functioning of the corporate sector, although freedom of companies is important, protection of the investors and shareholders, on whose funds they flourish, is equally important. The Companies Act plays the balancing role between these two competing factors, namely, management autonomy and investor protection.

The respective provisions of the companies Act, 2013 which has been notified on August 30, 2013, shall replace the existing provisions of the Companies Act, 1956, as and when such provisions contained in the Companies Act, 2013 are notified from time to time.

The Competition Act, 2002

The Competition Act, 2002 (the "Competition Act") prohibits anti competitive agreements, abuse of dominant positions by enterprises and regulates "combinations" in India. The Competition Act also established the Competition Commission of India (the "CCI") as the authority mandated to implement the Competition Act. The provisions of the Competition Act relating to combinations were notified recently on March 4, 2011 and came into effect on June 1, 2011. Combinations which are Likely to cause an appreciable adverse effect on competition in a relevant market in India are void under the Competition Act. A combination is defined under Section 5 of the Competition Act as an acquisition, merger or amalgamation of enterprise(s) that meets certain asset or turnover thresholds. There are also different thresholds for those categorized as „Individuals and „Group. The CCI may enquire into all combinations, even if taking place outside India, or between parties outside India, if such combination is Likely to have an appreciable adverse effect on competition in India. Effective June 1, 2011, all combinations have to be notified to the CCI within 30 days of the execution of any agreement or other document for any acquisition of assets, shares, voting rights or control of an enterprise under Section 5(a) and (b) of the Competition Act (including any binding document conveying an agreement or decision to acquire control, shares, voting rights or assets of an enterprise); or the board of directors of a company (or an equivalent authority in case of other entities) approving a proposal for a merger or amalgamation under Section 5(c) of the Competition Act. The obligation to notify a combination to the CCI falls upon the acquirer in case of an acquisition, and on all parties to the combination jointly in case of a merger or amalgamation.

Intellectual Property

Trade Marks Act, 1999

The Indian law on trademarks is enshrined in the Trade Marks Act, 1999. Under the existing legislation, a trademark is a mark used in relation to goods so as to indicate a connection in the course of trade between the goods and some person having the right as proprietor to use the mark. A 'mark' may consist of a word or invented word, signature, device, letter, numeral, brand, heading, label, name written in a particular style and so forth. The trademark once applied for, is advertised in the trademarks journal, oppositions, if any are invited and after satisfactory adjudications of the same, a certificate of registration is issued. The right to use the mark can be exercised either by the registered proprietor or a registered user. The present term of registration of a trademark is ten years, which may be renewed for similar periods on payment of prescribed renewal fee.

The Patents Act, 1970

The Patents Act, 1970 ("Patents Act") is the primary legislation governing patent protection in India. In addition to broadly requiring that an invention satisfy the requirements of novelty, utility and non obviousness in order for it to avail patent protection, the Patents Act further provides that patent protection may not be granted to certain specified types of inventions and materials even if they satisfy the above criteria. The term of a patent granted under the Patents Act is for a period of twenty years from the date of filing of application for the patent. The Patents Act deems that computer programmers per se are not 'inventions' and are therefore not entitled to patent protection.

Property related laws

The Transfer of Property Act, 1882

The Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (the "TP Act") establishes the general principles relating to the transfer of property in India. It forms a basis for identifying the categories of property that are capable of being transferred, the persons competent to transfer property, the validity of restrictions and conditions imposed on the transfer and the creation of contingent and vested interest in the property. It also provides for the rights and liabilities of the vendor and purchaser in a transaction for the sale of land.

Registration Act, 1908

The Registration Act, 1908 (the "Registration Act") details the formalities for registering an instrument. Section 17 of the Registration Act identifies documents for which registration is compulsory and includes, inter alia, any non-testamentary instrument which purports or operates to create, declare, assign, limit or extinguish, whether in the present or in future, any right, title or interest, whether vested or contingent, in immovable property of the value of Rs. 100 or more, and a lease of immovable property for any term exceeding one year or reserving a yearly rent. The Registration Act also stipulates the time for registration, the place for registration and the persons who may present documents for registration.

Any document which is required to be compulsorily registered but is not registered will not affect the subject property, nor be received as evidence of any transaction affecting such property (except as evidence of a contract in a suit for specific performance or as evidence of part performance of a contract under the TP Act or as evidence of any collateral transaction not required to be effected by registered instrument), unless it has been registered.

Indian Stamp Act, 1899

Stamp duty is payable on all instruments/ documents evidencing a transfer or creation or extinguishment of any right, title or interest in immoveable property. The Indian Stamp Act, 1899 (the "Stamp Act") provides for the imposition of stamp duty at the specified rates on instruments listed in Schedule I of the Stamp Act. However, under the Constitution of India, the states are also empowered to prescribe or alter the stamp duty payable on such documents executed within the state.

Instruments chargeable to duty under the Stamp Act but which have not been duly stamped, are incapable of being admitted in court as evidence of the transaction contained therein. The Stamp Act also provides for impounding of instruments by certain specified authorities and bodies and imposition of penalties, for instruments which are not sufficiently stamped or not stamped at all. Instruments which have not been properly stamped instruments can be validated by paying a penalty of up to 10 times of the total duty payable on such instruments.

Taxation Law

Income-tax Act, 1961

The Income Tax Act, 1961 deals with the taxation of individuals, corporate, partnership firms and others. As per the provisions of this Act the rates at which they are required to pay tax is calculated on the income declared by them or assessed by the authorities, after availing the deductions and concessions accorded under the Act. The maintenance of Books of Accounts and relevant supporting documents and registers are mandatory under the Act. Filing of returns of Income is compulsory for all assesses.

Service Tax

Chapter V of the Finance Act 1994 (as amended), and Chapter V-A of the Finance Act 2003 requires that where provision of certain listed services, whole taxable services exceeds ₹ 1,000,000, a service tax with respect to the same must be paid. Every person who is liable to pay service tax must register himself for the same

Central Sales Tax Act (CST)

The main object of this act is to formulate principles for determining

- (a) when a sale or purchase takes place in the course of trade or commerce
- (b) When a sale or purchase takes place outside a State
- (c) When a sale or purchase takes place in the course of imports into or export from India, to provide for levy, collection and distribution of taxes on sales of goods in the course of trade or commerce, to declare certain goods to be of special importance trade or commerce and specify the restrictions and conditions to which State laws imposing taxes on sale or purchase of such goods of special importance (called as declared goods) shall be subject. CST Act imposes the tax on interstate sales and states the principles and restrictions as per the powers conferred by Constitution.

Value Added Tax (VAT)

VAT is a system of multi-point levy on each of the purchases in the supply chain with the facility of set-off input tax on sales whereby tax is paid at the stage of purchase of goods by a trader and on purchase of raw materials by a manufacturer. VAT is based on the value addition of goods, and the related VAT liability of the dealer is calculated by deducting input tax credit for tax collected on the sales during a particular period. VAT is a consumption tax applicable to all commercial activities involving the production and distribution of goods and the provisions of services, and each state that has introduced VAT has its own VAT Act, under which, persons liable to pay VAT must register and obtain a registration number from Sales Tax Officer of the respective State.

Central Excise Act, 1944

Excise duty is levied on production of goods but the Liability of excise duty arises only on removal of goods from the place of storage, i.e., factory or warehouse. Unless specifically exempted, excise duty is levied even if the duty was paid on the raw material used in production.

Customs Regulations

All imports into India are subject to duties under the Customs Act, 1962 at the rates specified under the Customs Tariff Act, 1975. However, the Indian Government has the power to exempt certain specified goods from excise duty by notification.

Labour Laws

India has stringent labour related legislation. We are required to comply with certain labour and industrial laws, which includes the Industries (Development and Regulation) Act, 1951, Industrial Disputes Act 1947, the Employees Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act 1952, the Minimum Wages Act, 1948, the Payment of Bonus Act, 1965, Workmen Compensation Act, 1923, the Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972, the Payment of Wages Act, 1936 and the Factories Act, 1948, amongst others.

The Factories Act, 1948

The Factories Act, 1948 is a social legislation which has been enacted to regulate the occupational safety, health and welfare of workers at work places. This legislation is being enforced by the Government through officers appointed under the Act i.e. Inspectors of Factories, Deputy Chief Inspectors of Factories who work under the control of the Chief Inspector of Factories and overall control of the Labour Commissioner. The ambit of operation of this Act includes the approval of Factory Building Plans before construction/extension, investigation of complaints with regard to health, safety, welfare and working conditions of the workers employed in a factory, the maintenance of registers and the submission of yearly and half-yearly returns.

Payment of Wages Act, 1936 ("Wages Act")

Wages Act applies to the persons employed in the factories and to persons employed in industrial or other establishments where the monthly wages payable to such persons is less than Rs. 10,000. The Act confers on the person(s) responsible for payment of wages certain obligations with respect to the maintenance of registers and the display in such factory/establishment, of the abstracts of this Act and Rules made there under.

The Minimum Wages Act, 1948 ("Minimum Wages Act")

Minimum Wages Act was enacted to provide for minimum wages in certain employments. Under this Act, the Central and the State Governments are the authorities to stipulate the scheduled employment and to fix minimum wages. The Act contains List of Agricultural and Non Agricultural employment where the prescribed minimum rate of wages is to be paid to the workers. The minimum wages are calculated and fixed based on the basic requirement of food, clothing, housing required by an average Indian adult.

Employees Provident Fund and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952

Employees Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952 ("EPFA") was introduced with the object to institute compulsory provident fund for the benefit of employees in factories and other establishments. The EPFA provides for the institution of provident funds and pension funds for employees in establishments where more than 20 persons are employed and factories specified in Schedule I of the EPFA. Under the EPFA, the Central Government has framed the "Employees Provident Fund Scheme", "Employees Deposit-linked Insurance Scheme" and the "Employees Family Pension Scheme". Liability is imposed on the employer and the employee to contribute to the funds mentioned above, in the manner specified in the statute. There is also a requirement to maintain prescribed records and registers and filing of forms with the concerned authorities.

Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972

A terminal Lump sum benefit paid to a worker when he or she Leaves employment after having worked for the employer for a prescribed minimum number of years is referred to as "gratuity." The provisions of the Act are applicable to all the factories. The Act provides that within 30 days of opening of the establishment, it has to notify the controlling authority in Form A and thereafter whenever there is any change in the name, address or change in the nature of the business of the establishment a notice in Form B has to be filed with the authority. The Employer is also required to display an abstract of the Act and the rules made there-under in Form U to be affixed at the or near the main entrance. Further, every employer has to obtain insurance for his Liability towards gratuity payment to be made under Payment of Gratuity Act 1972, with Life Insurance Corporation or any other approved insurance fund.

Payment of Bonus Act, 1965

The Payment of Bonus Act, 1965 is applicable to every establishment employing 20 or more employees. The said Act provides for payment of the minimum bonus to the employees specified under the Act. It further requires the maintenance of certain books and registers such as the register showing computation of the allocable surplus; the register showing the set on & set off of the allocable surplus and register showing the details of the amount of Bonus due to the employees. Further it also require for the submission of Annual Return in the prescribed form (FORM D) to be submitted by the employer within 30 days of payment of the bonus to the Inspector appointed under the Act.

Business Laws

Indian Contract Act 1872

Indian Contract Act 1872 is the main source of law regulating contracts in Indian law, as subsequently amended. The Indian Contract Act 1872 sections 1-75 came into force on 1 September 1872. It applies to the whole of India except the state of Jammu and Kashmir. It is not a complete and exhaustive law on all types of contracts.

It determines the circumstances in which promise made by the parties to a contract shall be legally binding on them. Each contract creates some right and duties upon the contracting parties. Indian contract deals with the enforcement of these rights and duties upon the parties. As per the provisions of the Indian Contract Act all agreements are contracts if they are made by the free consent of the parties competent to contract, for a lawful consideration and with a lawful object and are not expressly declared to be void. The parties to a contract must either perform or offer to perform their respective promises unless such performance is dispensed with or excused under the provisions of the Act or of any other law. Promises bind the representative of the promisor's in case of death of such promisor's before performance, unless a contrary intention appears from the contract. When a contract has been broken the party who suffers by such breach is entitled to receive from the party who has broken the contract, compensation for any loss or damage caused to him thereby, which naturally arose in the usual course of things from such breach or which the parties knew, when they made the contract, to be likely to result from the breach of it. Under the Act it is also provided that when a contract has been broken, if a sum is named in the contract as the amount to be paid in case of such breach, or if the contract contains any other stipulation by way of penalty, the party complaining of the breach is entitled, whether or not actual damage or loss is proved to have been caused thereby, to receive from the party who has broken the contract reasonable compensation not exceeding the amount so named or, as the case may be, the penalty stipulated for. Even a person who rightfully rescinds a contract is entitled to a compensation for any damage which he has sustained for a non-fulfillment of the contract. The Indian Contract Act also lays down provisions of indemnity, guarantee, bailment and agency. Provisions relating to sale of goods and partnership which were originally in the act are now subject matter of separate enactments viz., the Sale of Goods Act and the Indian Partnership Act.

Sale of Goods Act, 1930

Sale of Goods Act is one of very old mercantile law. Sale of Goods is one of the special types of Contract. Initially, this was part of Indian Contract Act itself in chapter VII (sections 76 to 123). Later these sections in Contract Act were deleted, and separate Sale of Goods Act was passed in 1930. The Sale of Goods Act is complimentary to Contract Act. Basic provisions of Contract Act apply to contract of Sale of Goods also. Basic requirements of contract i.e. offer and acceptance, legally enforceable agreement, mutual consent, parties competent to contract; free consent, lawful object, consideration etc. apply to contract of Sale of Goods also.

The law relating to the sale of goods is codified in the Sale of Goods Act, 1930. It defines sale and agreement to sell as a contract whereby the seller transfers or agrees to transfer the property in goods to the buyer for a price and provides that there may be a contract of sale between part owner and another and that the contract of sale may be absolute or conditional. According to the provisions of this act, a contract of sale is made by an offer to buy or sell the goods for a price and the acceptance of such offer. The act further provides that the contract may provide for the immediate delivery of the goods or immediate payment of the price or both or for the delivery or payment by installments or that the delivery or payment or both shall be postponed. Provisions are made in this Act for existing or future goods, perishable goods, ascertainment of price, conditions and warranties, effects of the contract, delivery to carrier, duties of seller and buyer, buyer's right of examining the goods, liability of buyer for neglecting or refusing the delivery of goods, rights of unpaid seller, suits for breach of the contract, sale, etc.

Significant Accounting Policies & Notes to Accounts

I. Significant Accounting Policies

(A) BASIS OF ACCOUNTS

The Financial statements are prepared under the historical cost convention, on the accrual basis of accounting in accordance with applicable mandatory accounting standards notified under the Companies (Accounting Standard) Rules, 2006 (as amended) and relevant presentational requirements of the Companies Act, 1956.

The accounting policies adopted in the preparation of financial statements are consistent with those of previous years.

(B) USE OF ESTIMATES

The preparation of financial statements requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amount of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent liabilities on the date of financial statements and reported amount of revenues and expenses for the year. Actual results could differ from these estimates. Difference between the actual result and estimates are recognized in the period in which the results are known/ materialized. Any revision to an accounting estimate is recognized prospectively in the year of revision.

(C) REVENUE RECOGNITION

Revenue is recognized when the significant risks and rewards of ownership of goods have been passed to the buyer. Sales are recognized on inward of goods at customer's end, where applicable as per terms of sale (for domestic) and on the date of bill of lading (for exports). Income arising on disposal of scrap/waste is recognized on receipt basis.

(D) TAXATION

Provision for taxation is made for the income tax liability as per the provisions of the Income Tax Act, 1961. Deferred Tax is recognized on timing differences being the differences between the taxable incomes and accounting incomes that originate in one period and are capable of reversal in one or more subsequent period, at the current rate of tax.

(E) PROVISION, CONTINGENT LIABILITIES AND CONTINGENT ASSETS

Provisions involving substantial degree of estimation in measurement are recognized when there is a present obligation as a result of past events and it is probable that there will be an outflow of resources. Contingent liabilities are not recognized in the books of accounts and disclosed as notes to accounts. Contingent assets are neither recognized nor disclosed in the financial statements.

(F) IMPAIRMENT OF ASSETS

An asset is treated as impaired when the carrying cost of asset exceeds its recoverable value. An impairment loss is charged to the Profit and Loss Account in the year in which an asset is identified as impaired. The impairment loss recognised in prior accounting period is reversed if there has been a change in the estimate of recoverable amount.

(G) INVESTMENTS

Investments, which are readily realizable and intended to be held for not more than one year from the date on which such investments are made, are classified as current investments. All other investments are classified as long-term investments.

On initial recognition, all investments are measured at cost. The cost comprises purchase price and directly attributable acquisition charges such as brokerage, fees and duties. If an investment is acquired, or partly acquired, by the issue of shares or other securities, the acquisition cost is the fair value of the securities issued. If an investment is acquired in exchange for another asset, the acquisition is determined by reference to the fair value of the asset given up or by reference to the fair value of the investment acquired, whichever is more clearly evident.

Current investments are carried in the financial statements at lower of cost and fair value determined on an individual investment basis. Long-term investments are carried at cost. However, provision for diminution in value is made to recognize a decline other than temporary in the value of the investments.

(H) EARNING PER SHARE

The Company reports basic and diluted earnings per equity share in accordance with (AS) 20, Earnings per share notified under the Companies (Accounting Standard) Rules, 2006 (as amended). Basic earnings per share have been computed by dividing net income by the weighted average number of equity Shares outstanding for the period. Diluted earning per equity shares have been computed using the weighted average number of equity shares and dilutive potential equity shares outstanding during the period.

(I) RETIREMENT BENEFITS

Short-term employee benefits are recognised as an expense in the Statement of Profit and Loss of the year in which the related service is rendered. Post employment and other long term employee benefits as an expense in the Statement of Profit and Loss as and when paid.
